UPDATE: Screening Facility moved to Bldg.#1154

The USAG Bavaria - Hohenfels screening facility moved from bldg.# 1168 to bldg.# 1154.

If you answer "Yes" to any of these "COVID19-Symptoms-Questions", vehicle occupants must report directly to the secondary screening site at bldg.# 1168. Otherwise, return home and contact your medical provider and supervisor.

Question 1: In the past 14 days, have you been within 6 feet (2 meters) of a person known to have COVID-19?

Question 2: In the past 14 days, have you been diagnosed with COVID-19 or been directed by a Healthcare Professional to go into Isolation or Restriction of Movement?

Question 3: Do you have any of the following signs or symptoms?

- New or worsening Cough
- Shortness of Breath or Difficulty Breathing

Or do you have 2 or more of the following symptoms?

- Fever (to include Night Sweats or Chills)
- Sore Throat
- Muscle Aches/Pains
- Headache
- New Loss of Taste or Smell

By answering questions honestly and self-reporting, screening assets can be prioritized to pro-actively limit the potential spread of COVID-19 and help protect the community.

Transactional workers must continue to be screened for COVID-19 once every 7days. Coverage of screening requirements will be maintained by the supervisor.

Positive ICE comments

Do you have a compliment? Did someone go out of their way for you? Did you know that the Interactive Customer Evaluation (ICE) comments are also a great way to provide positive feedback? The ICE website can be accessed within the following link:

Protection Perspective

Maybe you have heard or seen the slogan from our Antiterrorism Office, "Empowered, not impaired; aware, not afraid." What does that mean? It means that our community should feel empowered by the fact that there are people throughout the region who are committed to identifying the threat and mitigating it, both U.S. and German. We should feel empowered by the fact that every trip off post is reviewed by three agencies and the garrison leadership before it's approved. Every school trip is reviewed by the Antiterrorism office and the garrison leadership. Similarly, we should not feel impaired by the perception that it's unsafe to travel or to attend events throughout Europe. We should remain aware of what to report and to whom and that all reports are taken seriously. When we understand what to watch for and how to respond to something suspicious, everyone is safer. A timely iWatch/iReport message or phone call could stop a terrorist attack. We should not be afraid to venture out or to take advantage of appreciating the rich cultural history throughout Europe.

Asian Hornets: A New Pest of Concern for Europe and the United States

The Asian hornet, also known as the yellow-legged hornet (Vespa velutina), is a species of hornet indigenous to Southeast Asia. They are slightly smaller than the European hornets and are generally much darker brown or black with distinctive yellow legs. (Note: This insect is not to be confused with the Asian Giant Hornet or so called "Killer Hornet". This larger species has not been found in Europe.) Like other hornets, Asian Hornets build nests that may house colonies of several thousand individuals. All females in the colony are armed with formidable stingers with which they defend their nests and kill their prey. The nest is of paper, roughly in the shape of a huge egg, and can be as large as 20 inches in length. It is of concern as an invasive species in several other countries. Asian hornets opportunistically hunt a very wide range of insects, including flies, and dragonflies. The major concern about their invasiveness however, is that when they find a bee colony or an apiary, they tend to settle down and specialize in honeybees as their prey. Asian hornets were brought across to Europe by mistake when a container of Chinese pottery holding the insects entered France in 2004. Since that time the species has quickly spread throughout much of France, but also parts of Spain, Portugal, Belgium, Italy the Netherlands and most recently Germany. They were first reported on the Channel Islands and the UK mainland in 2016.

Why are Asian Hornets a problem?

This hornet is a serious pest of honeybees and single hornets have been known to decapitate up to 50 bees a day, dragging the bodies of their prey back to their nests. As a single hornet colony can contain thousands of individuals, they can quickly wipe out all beehives within flight distance of their nest.

Because of hornets' larger size, their sting is more serious than that of a bee. People have been hospitalized in France after suffering anaphylactic shock as a result of multiple stings. If introduced into the United States this invader could be a serious threat to US honey production and native pollinators. How can preclearance programs help keep Asian Hornets from getting into the US?

Primary nests are often found in or on man-made structures. It may be introduced and transported accidentally with soil associated with plants, vehicles, garden furniture and pots, outdoor articles, camping equipment, etc. Dormant hornet queens can overwinter in nests and can be transported to new areas. All articles stored outdoors for any length of time including all vehicles and military rolling stock should be carefully inspected for active or dormant hornet nests. Nests of any bees, wasps, or hornets should be removed before transport to CONUS.
