

THE ARMY BOARD FOR CORRECTION OF MILITARY RECORDS

ABOUT THE ABCMR

The mission of the Army Board for Correction of Military Records is to correct errors or remove injustices from Army military records. The ABCMR is the highest level of administrative review within the Department of Army and may only correct records after all other administrative recourse/appeal processes are exhausted. Appeals must be made within three years of the discovery of the alleged error or injustice.

WAYS TO APPLY:

- Online
 - <https://arba.army.pentagon.mil/abcmr-overview.html>
- By Mail
 - Submit a DD Form 149 to the following address:

*Army Review Boards Agency (ARBA)
251 18th Street South, Suite 385
Arlington, VA 22202-3531*

- Note: A DD Form 149 may be obtained from any military personnel/human resource office, by sending a request to the address above, or online at <https://www.esd.whs.mil/Portals/54/Documents/DD/forms/dd/dd0149.pdf>.

WHAT TO INCLUDE WITH YOUR APPLICATION:

- Copies of all relevant military records in your possession.
- Any evidence to support your request.
 - Include copies of any correspondence you have had with other agencies to resolve your issue. The ABCMR can only address issues after all other administrative recourse/appeals available are exhausted.
- Do not send original records to the ABCMR.

For more information and frequently asked questions, visit the Army Review Boards Agency website.