U.S. Army, defense industry partners participate in "Right to Integrate" hackathon

FORT CARSON, Colo. – Secretary of the Army Dan Driscoll, alongside senior Army leaders and representatives from major technology and defense providers, will host a media day to mark the culmination of the "Right to Integrate" Hackathon Sprint on Fort Carson May 28 at 9 a.m.

Announced earlier this month, the R2I Hackathon represents a collaboration between the U.S. Army and defense industry partners. The initiative was designed to aggressively break down legacy information silos by ensuring offensive and defensive weapon systems can successfully integrate, share data, and communicate with one another.

Media are invited to attend the culminating event, which will feature live demonstrations of the integrated technologies, static displays of the newly interoperable systems, and interview opportunities with Army and industry leaders and participants.

Media interested in attending this event should RSVP to the Fort Carson Public Affairs Office no later than 4 p.m. Wednesday by calling 719-526-4143/7525 or by responding to this email.

For more information contact the Fort Carson Public Affairs Office at 719-526-7525. After hours, please contact the 24-hour Fort Carson Operations Center at 719-526-5500 and ask for the On-Call Public Affairs Officer.
