COMMANDING GENERAL'S POLICY LETTER #14

AFZF-CG

JUN 05 2019

MEMORANDUM FOR SEE DISTRIBUTION

SUBJECT: Ready and Resilient (R2)

PURPOSE. To provide the Commanding Generals Directive concerning R2 Program enhancement throughout III Corps.

APPLICABILITY. This policy applies to all Leaders, Soldiers, Family members, Department of the Army (DA) Civilians, and Subordinate units in III Corps.

REFERENCES.

- a. III CORPS Command Training Guidance, FY 19-20.
  - b. Army Regulation 600-63 Army Personal Readiness and Resilience, 29 Jan 2019 (DA Draft).
  - c. Army Regulation 600-8-101, Personnel Processing (In-, Out-, Soldier Readiness and Deployment Cycle), dated 19 Feb 15.
4. Readiness is the Army's #1 priority, and resiliency is a key element of our personnel readiness. The resiliency of Soldiers, Families, and Civilians is a combat multiplier and contributes to the strength of our communities. Discipline drives the system- training, maintaining, moral, teamwork- that produces resiliency. If we develop our Soldiers correctly, we will produce resilient leaders, Families, and formations.
5. Resiliency is a command responsibility. Leaders at all levels within III Corps are expected to develop Command Resiliency Programs that identify resiliency risks within their commands, and integrate the necessary resiliency activity within their training programs to address these risks. In doing so, I expect Commanders to make the most effective use of their resiliency trained personnel as well as the wide range of resources and programs available.
6. In order to help drive the Corp Resiliency Program, Commanders will brief the resiliency aspects of their training program during their Semi Annual Training Briefs. In addition, every quarter, a Commander's Update Assessment (CUA) will focus on Resiliency. The Resiliency CUA will enable leaders to brief their view of the resiliency risks within their command, the progress of their command program to address these risks, and request any support required from the Corps level.

8. EXPIRATION. This Command Policy Memorandum will remain in effect until superseded or rescinded.
