USAG Japan holds town hall for housing residents

U.S. Army Garrison Japan leadership hosted a quarterly town hall meeting June 1 at Camp Zama to discuss ongoing developments in housing and to listen to concerns from residents.

Twin sisters spearhead anti-bullying campaign

Twin sisters Kelin and Karla Gregory, both freshmen at Zama Middle High School, devised and led an anti-bullying awareness campaign at their school to raise visibility of the issue among their classmates.

Camp Zama youth leader passes down experience to younger generations

The day before she graduated high school, Charlotte Patterson had one last community engagement she wanted to do before moving back to the United States. Patterson, who was named both the Camp Zama and Asia-wide Military Youth of Year, gave a presentation to elementary-aged children May 24 at the School Age Center.

Camp Zama MWR Outdoor Pool at Sagamihara Family Housing Area holds opening day event

Community members came out in record numbers to enjoy a day of live music, refreshments and of course, fun in the water.

Emergency Management provides tips on how to prepare for typhoon season

Living and working in Japan offers the opportunity to experience the culture, traditions and heritage of this beautiful country. But the weather and our geographical location here also makes Japan prone to typhoons and tropical storms.
