KWAJALEIN BOY SCOUT EARNS TOP HONORS

BY JESSICA DAMBRUCH

Kwajalein Boy Scout Sean Hepler attained the rank of Eagle Scout during a Court of Honor ceremony at the Corlett Recreation Center on May 9.

Community members, mentors and Scouts from Kwajalein Troop 314 joined the Hepler family to commemorate the presentation of the honor.

A Scout must complete all tasks and skills requirements for Eagle Scout candidacy before turning 18 years old. Following rigorous final reviews, he is eligible to earn the top Scouting honor.

Senior Patrol Leader Myles Sylvester reviewed the traits, achievements and practical qualifying skills Hepler had mastered over the years.

A Life Scout who had met all badge requirements, Hepler had demonstrated leadership, spirit and actively served his troop and patrol, Sylvester said. He had trained in an array of first aid and outdoor survival skills. He passed numerous final reviews and teleconference interviews with members of the Boy Scouts' Chamorro District Council in Guam. With guidance from mentors, Hepler had additionally coordinated all aspects of a major capstone community service project and organized labor and supplies to build outdoor furniture for a communal island space.

Most importantly, he had remained steadfast in upholding the tenants of the Scout Law and serving as a mentor for younger troop members.

"A Scout is trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean and reverent," Sylvester said. "He promises, on his honor, to do his duty."

Becoming an Eagle Scout is a milestone that a young man carries into adulthood, said Scoutmaster Anthony Strong. The sacrifice, leadership and determination of Eagle Scouts is recognized and respected around the world.

"I have even had people ask me about my Eagle Scout status during job interviews," Strong said. "The achievement speaks to them. It is difficult, and it takes years of work to attain."

The eagle as symbolic of the highest levels of Scouting mastery.

"Though an eagle is found throughout the world, he is never found in abundance; he is always rare, and he is always a superb specimen," Strong said. "In Scouting, the eagle stands for strength of character. ... The eagle is a symbol of what a young man has done well and what the young man will do, and will be, when he grows to manhood. The eagle is a leader. The eagle is respected, both by his peers and by his adult elders."

Eagle Scout David Sholar led Hepler in reciting the Eagle Scout Charge before helping him don his new Scout neckerchief. Next, Hepler's parents, Amy LaCost and Doug Hepler came forward to present his Eagle Scout badge. In turn, Sean gave them parent pins—a special award for their years of support to honor them as Scout parents.

Hepler also surprised Jim Johnson, a valuable member of his Eagle Project team, with a token of gratitude for his enduring support and guidance.

Capt. Ron Sylvester echoed Strong's remarks with a reading of the Eagle Challenge—a creed to guide Eagle Scouts.

"You are a marked man," Sylvester said. "As an Eagle Scout, you are expected to exemplify in your daily life the high principles and values expressed in the Scout Oath and the Scout Law. ... Be a leader but lead only toward the best. Live and serve so that those who know you will be inspired to the highest ideals of life."

Strong said he knows that Hepler's achievement will serve as an example to the younger troop members.

"To the rest of you, stay with it," Strong said. "Stay the course."

KWAJALEIN HIGH SCHOOL SCHOLARSHIP AWARDS NIGHT

BY JESSICA DAMBRUCH

A new tradition began on Kwajalein May 7, as representatives of the local and national Kwajalein Atoll governments joined island community organizations and individual donors in making scholarship presentations to graduating seniors of the Kwajalein High School graduating class of 2022.

The evening ceremony at the Davye Davis Multi-Purpose Room was a first for the school. Traditionally, scholarship awards are combined with spring commencement activities. This year called for a little more joy, said KSS educator Mindi Gerber.

“We worked hard to make this event special for the students and their families,” said Gerber. “We made the decision to capture a new opportunity to celebrate our students’ achievements and let the community show its love.”

KSS Parent Teacher organization members and Kwajalein School System employees prepared homemade desserts for guests to enjoy as students accepted awards. Family members at a distance were also able to watch the ceremony via a live stream.

The evening included moments to commemorate student achievements and thank them for their contributions to island life.

On official business from the Office of the Republic of the Marshall Islands President, Deputy Chief Secretary Abacca Anjain-Maddison presented remarks on behalf of President David Kabua, honoring the recent achievement of Michael Lojkar, the first RMI citizen accepted to the U.S. Air Force Academy. Kwajalein Sen. David Paul also gave special recognition to Lojkar while presenting scholarships from the Kwajalein Atoll Local Government.

Among the island community organizations and groups represented during the evening were the Island Memorial Chapel, Jinetipit Women’s School

Club, Kwajalein Atoll Sportfishing Club, Kwajalein Art Guild, Parent Teacher Organization, Yokwe Yuk Welcome Club, Kwajalein Scuba Club, Kwajalein Sports Association, Kwajalein Girl Scouts, Kwajalein Schools Music Award, the Spartan Award, the Pay It Forward Scholarship, Ri-Katak Alumni Scholarship and Kwajalein Sports Award. Tenant organizations represented included Range Generation Next, Vectrus, Amentum-DynCorp International and Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Two scholarships were awarded in memory of former island residents Ed Zehr and Lee Allas, and three in memory of KHS alumni Lindsay Davis, Jacob Legere and Stephanie Hibberts.

Representatives expressed appreciation for the virtues and talents of their recipients, as well as the difficulty in choosing between them.

Vectrus Task Order Project Manager Bill Cooler praised the compelling student writing submitted in student scholarship applications. He noted how several had expressed the resolve to return and give to the community.

Island Memorial Blessed Sacrament Service Award representative Brian Africano was impressed with the strong dedication and spirit of volunteerism exhibited by the youth in the island's Catholic congregation. He announced that beginning this year, the scholarship will also be named in honor of Mel Sanchez, a longtime member of the congregation who recently PSC'd after 50 years spent on island.

Range Generation Next granted a scholarship to every student. Scholarship representative and RGN Deputy Program Manager Lee Barnby, presented a scholarship to each of the 24 student graduates, several of whom are dependents of range-connected families who have lived on Kwajalein for most of their lives.

"As the parent of a young child, I appreciate these kids and what they do for our community," Barnby said. "My child looks up to these kids. They are leaders in our community."

Mission in Top Gear

USAG-KA is getting ready for big changes

BY MIKE BRANTLEY / USAG-KA PUBLIC AFFAIRS

Beyond the International Dateline and more than 2,400 miles southwest from Hawaii, U.S. Army Garrison-Kwajalein Atoll has the distinction of being the first Army installation in the world to welcome a new day.

The 1,300 men and women who live and work on Kwajalein and Roi-Namur, two of 11 defense sites spread across miles of ocean in the world's largest lagoon, make up a dynamic team of military, Department of the Army Civilian employees, contractors and family members, whose primary goal is the successful accomplishment of the mission.

Island residents enjoy the small beach town atmosphere that Kwajalein offers. While there are no privately owned vehicles, there are more than 2,000 bicycles on the island.

About the Mission

USAG-KA executes complex installation management and base operation services in support of tenant units and strategic partners.

By building a world-class community and strengthening the mutually beneficial relationship with the Republic of the Marshall Islands government, we improve our shared quality of life and enhance mission assurance throughout the Indo-Pacific region.

With the support of the Marshall Islands, our host nation, and more than 1,000 RMI employees, as well as other stakeholders and tenants, USAG-KA executes the mission by focusing on partnerships.

Through communication, inclusion and open and candid dialog, we synchronize the activities of an array of stakeholders towards a single overarching fact: We and our tenants exist to support national security.

Each tenant is different, so this isn't as easy as you might think. The Reagan Test Site supports the development, test and evaluation of strategic ballistic missile defense systems, strategic systems and system research and development for the nation, while the U.S. Space Force remains operationally focused and provides the nation's premier space domain awareness functions.

Our newest tenant, Vectrus, focuses at the tactical level, and employs the bulk of the population as it manages the base operations support contract needed to keep the Garrison and its tenants functioning. Other than stakeholder integration, USAG-KA's primary role is to provide contract oversight to ensure superior customer service and fiscal responsibility.

Even with good partners, USAG-KA faces many challenges as we attempt to adapt to the ever-changing operations environment.

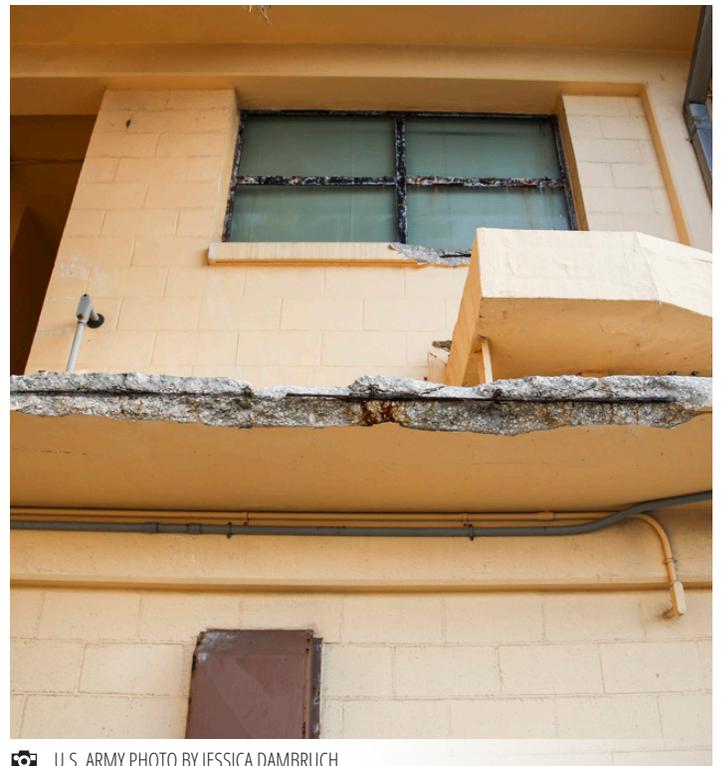

The Challenge of COVID

Since March 2020, the RMI has maintained its ban on all incoming travel. There has been a mandatory quarantine process in Hawaii and in the RMI, the most restrictive in the world.

Together with support from island logistics personnel, USAG-KA has brought more than 2,000 individuals on 100 tranches through the repatriation process. In addition, USAG-KA has supported the RMI's quarantine process and has helped repatriate more than 1,000 Marshallese.

This support will continue until the country is ready to reopen borders. While Kwajalein has had 17 COVID border cases since the start of the pandemic, it has remained one of the last spots on the planet with zero transmission.

Above: Spalling on the Kwajalein Hospital, one of U.S. Army Garrison-Kwajalein Atoll's most critical service facilities. The current hospital has remained in constant use for more than 40 years. Plans are in development for a new medical services facility.

The Impact of Climate Change

Being one of the lowest lying installations in the DOD, averaging just six feet above sea level, Kwaj is at the forefront of climate change discussion. By tackling goals outlined in the Army Climate Strategy, USAG-KA will increase capacity to provide support to STRATCOM, SPACECOM and INDOPACOM missions; gain substantial resiliency and readiness; modernize its degraded infrastructure; save significant expense and decrease risks associated with importing energy; and improving relations with the RMI.

USAG-KA's current goals include the following: the installation of Building Control Systems by 2028; provide 100 percent carbon-pollution-free electricity by 2030; a 50 percent reduction in greenhouse gas emissions in buildings by 2032; installation of additional microgrids by 2035; provide on-site carbon pollution-free power generation for Army critical missions on all installations by 2040; and attain net-zero GHG emissions by 2045.

These are big goals for an installation that provides 100 percent of its own power and water on site, without a single external service provider.

Aging Infrastructure

Kwajalein has the dubious distinction of the most corrosive environment in the DOD. Kwajalein's infrastructure is in critical condition.

To mitigate these impacts, USAG-KA's objectives are four-fold: to sustain enduring facilities; dispose of facilities no longer needed; improve facility quality; and build-out only the most critical shortfalls.

Currently, USAG-KA has several military construction projects approved, to include new family housing, air traffic control tower, medical clinic, power plant controls and annex generator, desalination plant, saltwater cooling station and rooftop solar photovoltaic systems, all designed to increase resilience and provide much needed redundancy.

In Partnership with the RMI

In 1986, the Compact of Free Association, a document defining the special relationship between the RMI, and the U.S. was ratified and signed by then-U.S. President Ronald Reagan and the RMI Congress.

Last October, the U.S. and RMI celebrated the 35th anniversary of the COFA in Majuro.

While 35 years marks the signing by the two countries, the U.S. has maintained a constant presence in the RMI since the end of World War II.

The RMI remains an important U.S. ally, and the mutual bonds of friendship between the nations continue to be strengthened over the years.

The U.S. and RMI are currently renegotiating the COFA, which is set to expire in 2023. The outcomes of those negotiations could have significant impacts on the Garrison's operations in-theater.

On any map, Kwajalein may appear as small as a postage stamp in the Pacific Ocean. Despite the rust, Kwajalein functions on trust, cooperation and common goals.

Though remote, Kwajalein's small, hardworking team is second to none. Together with our critical teammates from the RMI, the dedication and hard work of Kwajalein's contractor, military and DA civilian personnel all make the installation a great community in which to work, play and live.

HISTORIC PRESERVATION MONTH

THIS MONTH IN U.S. SPACE AND MISSILE DEFENSE COMMAND HISTORY

BY SHARON WATKINS-LANG, USASMDC HISTORIAN

May is Historic Preservation Month. Created in 1973, the theme this year is “People Saving Places.”

Kwajalein has played an important role in recent history in the areas of space and missile defense from the Cold War to the present. Kwajalein and the Marshall Islands were also pivotal in the history of World War II in the Pacific.

Through archaeology, the island also provides important clues to the cultural development of the Marshall Islands.

In August 1986, Kwajalein and Roi-Namur Battlefields were dedicated a National Historic Landmark. This was particularly significant as the site at the time was less than 50-years old.

While it is not possible to preserve all the historical structures, given the tropical climate, every effort has been made to fully document them. The RMI Historic Preservation Office also published the five-volume Archaeology of World War II.

In the 1990s, the USASMDC Historical Office in conjunction with others developed three publications: “Comprehensive Resource Inventory and Preservation Planning Study for World War II Cultural Resources;” “Historic Survey of Cold War Era Properties at the U.S.

Army Kwajalein Atoll;” and “In Anxious Anticipation of the Uneven Fruits of Kwajalein Atoll.” Similarly, the Stanley R. Mickelson Safeguard Complex near Grand Forks, North Dakota, has also been preserved through the Historic American Building Survey/Historic American Engineering Record.

Numerous ongoing efforts are on-going to preserve the history of both the United States and our Host Nation.

In previous years, the SMDC Historical Office designed and erected the battlefield tour markers and the Makin Raider, World War II, and Zamperini memorials.

In more recent years, the Historical Office has turned to digitization and preservation of materials related to the installation. For example, we are working to collect and digitize the complete series of The Kwajalein Hourglass newspaper. Boxes of materials were rescued from various warehouse across the island and sent to Huntsville for preservation and scanning.

The digitization process has gone well, and we hope to make them available soon. That said there are still gaps, single issues, weeks, months, with nothing found yet. We expect new shipments soon which we hope will address some of these issues and provide us with new opportunities.

Scenes from the Marshallese Cultural Center on Kwajalein during the 2018 Manit Day festivities.

What can you do to help save our places? On the island, in addition to the Micronesian Handicraft Shop, the Marshallese Cultural Center contains an interesting collection which preserves and documents many facets of the history of the Marshall Islands through artifacts and a world-class photography collection.

Contact the Kwajalein Archaeology Office at 5-9502 for more information and ways to assist and volunteer. Every contribution helps to keep the facilities open and accessible to the public. In these days of growing international concerns and tightening budgets, official funding is tight. You can make a difference.

GENERAL INFORMATION ON E. HISTOLYTICA

COMMUNITY CONNECTION / KWAJALEIN HOSPITAL

By Chief Medical Officer
Evert Bentley

Only about 10 to 20 percent of people who are infected with E. histolytica become sick from the infection.

The symptoms are often quite mild and can include loose feces, stomach pain and stomach cramping. Amebic dysentery is a severe form of amebiasis associated with stomach pain, bloody stools and fever.

Rarely, E. histolytica invades the liver and forms an abscess. In a small number of instances, it has been shown to spread to other parts of the body, such as the lungs or brain, but this is very uncommon.

Those people who do become sick usually develop symptoms within two to four weeks, though it can sometimes take longer.

Precautionary steps should be taken if someone has the symptoms above.

Refrain from work or school and seek medical advice when suffering from gastrointestinal symptoms such as diarrhea, abdominal pain or cramping.

Here are some general guidelines that may be helpful if an outbreak occurs in the community. Some information might not necessarily be relevant to Kwajalein.

Prevention: Maintain good personal hygiene

Perform hand hygiene often, especially before handling food or eating, and after using the toilet or handling fecal matter.

Wash hands with liquid soap and water and rub for at least 20 seconds. Then rinse with water and dry with a disposable paper towel or hand dryer. If hand washing facilities are not available, or when hands are not visibly soiled, hand hygiene with 70 to 80% alcohol-based hand rub is an effective alternative.

Maintain good food hygiene

Adopt the 5 Keys to Food Safety in handling food, i.e. Choose (Choose safe raw materials); Clean (Keep hands and utensils clean); Separate (Separate raw and cooked food); Cook (Cook thoroughly); and Safe Temperature (Keep food at safe temperature) to prevent foodborne diseases.

- Drink only boiled water from the mains or bottled drinks from reliable sources.
- Avoid drinks with ice of unknown origin.
- Eat only thoroughly cooked food.
- Wash and peel fruit by yourself and avoid eating raw vegetables.
- Exclude infected persons and asymptomatic carriers from handling food and from providing care to children, elderly and immunocompromised people.

How is amebiasis diagnosed?

Your healthcare provider will ask you to submit fecal samples. Because E. histolytica is not always found in every stool sample, you may be asked to submit several stool samples from several different days.

Diagnosis of amebiasis can be very difficult. One problem is that other parasites and cells can look very similar to E. histolytica when seen under a microscope. Therefore, sometimes people are told that they are infected with E. histolytica even though they are not. Entamoeba histolytica and another ameba, Entamoeba dispar, which is about 10 times more common, look the same when seen under a microscope. Unlike infection with E. histolytica, which sometimes makes people sick, infection with E. dispar does not make people sick and therefore does not need to be treated.

If you have been told that you are infected with E. histolytica but you are feeling fine, you might be infected with E. dispar instead. Unfortunately, most laboratories do not yet have the tests that can tell whether a person is infected with E. histolytica or with E. dispar. Until these tests become more widely available, it usually is best to assume that the parasite is E. histolytica.

A blood test is also available but is only recommended when your healthcare provider thinks that your infection may have spread beyond the intestine to some other organ, such as the liver. However, this blood test may not be helpful in diagnosing your current illness because the test can be positive if you had amebiasis in the past, even if you are not infected now.

How is amebiasis treated?

Several antibiotics are available to treat amebiasis.

Treatment must be prescribed by a physician. You will be treated with only one antibiotic if your E. histolytica infection has not made you sick. You probably will be treated with two antibiotics if your infection has made you sick. The following items may not be safe to drink or eat:

- Fountain drinks or any drinks with ice cubes
- Fresh fruit or vegetables that you did not peel yourself
- Milk, cheese, or dairy products that may not have been pasteurized.
- Food or drinks sold by street vendors

Should I be concerned about spreading the infection to others?

Yes, but the risk of spreading infection is low if the infected person is treated with antibiotics and practices good personal hygiene.

This includes thorough handwashing with soap and water after using the toilet, after changing diapers, and before handling or preparing food.

Prevention of amebic infection in travelers to endemic areas involves avoidance of untreated water in and uncooked food, such as fruit and vegetables, which may have been washed in untreated water. Amebic cysts are resistant to chlorine at the levels used in water supplies, but disinfection with iodine may be effective.

BUILDER SMS MILITARY HOUSING INSPECTION NOTIFICATION

PUBLIC NOTICE

Dear Housing Residents,

U.S. Army Garrison Kwajalein will undergo an installation-wide facility inspection program between May 4 and June 11.

WHERE: USAG-KA Army Family Housing and Bachelor Quarters

WHEN: Through June 11, Tuesday through Saturday, from 8 a.m. - 5 p.m. Housing residents are not required to be home during the inspection, which could take 60 to 90 minutes.

WHY: Inspections of Army Family Housing and BQ facilities are required by HQ IMCOM to document standardization of facility conditions. Inspections will allow consistent reporting to the Army's real property database and provide analytical data for resourcing of funding.

Housing-escorted contractor teams of two to five assessors from Wood, PLC, will be required to enter your housing unit to complete a visual inspection of building components. The contractors must access all interior and exterior spaces to take measurements and document findings. The contractors are required to take photos of building components but will not take photos of residents or personal identifiable information such as names, photos and certificates.

A full schedule is being developed, and can be found on the next page. Please note there could be short-notice changes to the schedule. This is a mandatory inspection that helps standardize documentation of facility conditions.

Before Inspection Day

To ensure safety for your pets and our inspection team, before inspections begin, it is required that all pet owners please notify Jim Streetman via email if you have a dog and/or cat residing in your house. Some team members may be allergic to cat hair and pet dander. All pets must be secured before entrance into the home and remain secured until our team departs your home.

Thank you for your continued patience as we work to provide you the safe, quality housing that you deserve.

For more information, please contact Wood Field Project Manager Jim Streetman at jim.streetman@wood-plc.com (704)-724-2708

Reclaimed Water vs. Drinking Water

Kwajalein Island has two water systems.

The reclaimed or non-potable system, color-coded with red labels, is not suitable for drinking. Landscaping with reclaimed water conserves potable drinking water.

Call Vectrus Environmental at 5-1134.

HOW WILL THEY APPROACH YOU OR GAIN ACCESS?

Official Foreign Visitors | Collectors may pose as members of a foreign government organization, or an intelligence or security service. Vetted Official Foreign Visitors and their entourage may include last minute, unvetted substitutions.

Conference/Expo/Tradeshaw | Public venues align new technologies and Subject Matter Experts. The adversary can collect personal information through registration and/or sign-in.

Academic Solicitation | "Innocent" requests for information may come from students, professors, scientists, or researchers; a foreign affiliation may not be readily apparent.

Unsolicited Contact/Email | The adversary may use the name of a well known company to send requests for military-related information. This method is fast and often undetected.

Joint Research Ventures | Alerts an adversary to current scientific initiatives and the military's latest activities, allowing for tailored contact attempts.

Front Companies | The adversary may shield their true identity by using a shell company or subsidiary typically financed by a foreign bank and with connections to a foreign business or embassy.

WHO IS AT RISK?

Cleared defense contractors and scientific researchers—because of who you are, what you research, and your knowledge of manufacturing processes, prototypes, and developed products.

WHO ARE THEY?

Traditional Collectors | Foreign Governments and Foreign Businesses whose intent is to illegally acquire information or trade secrets.

Non-Traditional | Can be anyone: scientists, researchers and developers, students, or sometimes our trusted colleagues who work along side us.

WHAT MAKES YOU A VALUABLE TARGET?

You have access to valuable insider and proprietary information. In the hands of the adversary, it can shorten their R&D efforts, counter our tech advantage, and cost us untold billions of dollars.
