Tom Pugsley, left, presents an award to Kwajalein resident Don Muse at USAG-KA Command headquarters March 4 for his winning submission to the Quarterly Innovation Challenge, a call for concepts to improve the island community. Muse submitted the idea to move Kwajalein’s directional signpost from the air terminal to a more scenic location.

CREATIVE MUSE PRESENTS INNOVATIVE IDEA

BY JESSICA DAMBRUCH

USAG-KA Commander Col. Tom Pugsley recognized Kwajalein resident Don Muse for a winning submission in the Quarterly Innovation Challenge this week. Pugsley met with Muse at USAG-KA Command headquarters and presented him with a certificate of recognition and an AAFES gift card for Muse’s original concept.

“I really liked your idea,” Pugsley told Muse. “I had been thinking about it too.”

The idea: Move the directional signpost from the air terminal.

The idea had been in development throughout Muse’s career on island. It was after a few years of work that Muse realized he had an answer to a growing problem, he said.

Back then, Muse worked for island contract security. From the offices in the Kwajalein air terminal, he saw a daily stream of newcomers and Kwajalein residents pausing to snap photos at the island’s directional signpost—a point of interest that, for years, was located near an anchor and the memorial cross still visible just a few feet away.

“You could walk out of the building and take a picture,” said Muse. “That was the pic you sent back to show [family] where you were in your first few hours of being here. It was a staple location of Kwaj.”

Times have changed dramatically—especially for new arrivals.

The signpost is still in front of the air terminal, but newcomers are now shuttled directly to quarantine. The air terminal is still a no-photography zone as an entry and exit point. As an aged facility in “Kwaj condition,” it is not an ideal backdrop for personal photos, Muse said.

Muse believes the signpost would be more accessible and greater served at the island’s most popular community beach. That post-arrival photo-op happens two weeks later, when newcomers emerge from quarantine and do what anyone would want to do after spending a lot of time indoors: visit Emon Beach.

“Think about it,” said Muse. “We arrive on island differently these days. We arrive and head straight into quarantine. The first place people are most likely to go isn’t the air terminal—it’s Emon Beach.”

Is moving the signpost necessary, given the hope that someday, quarantine may no longer be necessary?

Muse says it’s possible to wait, but it’s assured that people aren’t going to wait for COVID to go away before snapping a good picture.

“Maybe in five years [travel] will go back the way it was,” said Muse. “For the foreseeable future, everyone will be in quarantine. More people are at the beach taking photos.”

The signpost appears in the Kwajalein air terminal gate area in this 1974 Kwaj calendar photo. In an article from Feb. 26, Bill Remick described the history of Kwajalein’s signposts as dating back to the 1950s.

Be sure to keep an eye out on US-AG-KA social media for an upcoming community survey about possible places to move the island’s directional signpost.

Do you have great ideas you want to share? Enter your concepts in the Quarterly Innovation Challenge for the chance to win an AAFES gift card and make the island a better place by calling the Commander’s Hotline at 5-1098.

WE ARE THE CHAMPIONS

BY JESSICA DAMBRUCH

The 2022 basketball season ended with fast-paced victories and packed bleachers on championship night. A League winners RMI Maulers defeated Kwaj team Aquanauts, and the women of Spartans I ceded final honors for the women's league Kwaj Condition in back-to-back tournaments held Feb. 26 at the Corlett Recreation Center.

"It was fun!" said Kwaj Condition's Rebecca Hiller, who also coached Spartan I Men's basketball, and enjoys the competition. "It's always fun to play students and coaches on that team. It was a fun season, fun game, and I thought the [Spartans] played well."

USAG-KA Commander Col. Tom Pugsley greeted both winning teams to award them special MWR championship medals and coconut trophies.

Leading his team to victory now for two consecutive years, RMI Maulers coach Richard Meyers discussed the night's win.

"It feels great!" Meyers said, following the game. "We won B League last year, and half this team carried over to the A League."

A player walked by and congratulated the coach: "Your second win! Your second coconut!"

Coaching basketball is more about thinking and facilitating the already excellent players on his team, Meyers said. That, and a little quality time to watch basketball pros play on TV.

"It's standard," Meyers said, of the action. "There's a 3- and 2-point shot. It seems like the defense is always the same."

Constantly reviewing footage gave Meyers the basis for understanding gameplay. And while he helped guide the Maulers, he said all credit is due to the players.

"The thing is, I coach on this side," Meyers said, "but they have Ebeye tournaments all season. You think this is wild. You get over there, and you've actually got to find a seat!"

Meyers said his players are ready to trade in their basketballs for baseball bats. If you want to see the RMI Maulers play again, check the softball fields in the next USAG-KA MWR sports season.

BGCA VARIETY SHOW BENEFITS OCEAN CLEANUP

BY JESSICA DAMBRUCH

After a two-year hiatus, the Variety Show returned Feb. 27 to the Kwajalein High School Davye Davis Multi-Purpose Room.

Students from the island’s Keystone and Torch Clubs produced and organized the night’s program of 20 live music, dance and drama performances that showcased the talents of community volunteer performers.

The more than $700 raised in donated proceeds from the night’s concessions and Spartan Xpresso sales will be given to The Ocean Cleanup, a nonprofit organization dedicated to ridding the world’s oceans of plastic waste.

In the past, proceeds from the show typically supported transportation costs for an elected youth leader to represent the garrison at an Indo-Pacific regional youth conference for the Boys and Girls Club of America—part of the island’s Army-accredited enrichment programming for enrolled youths.

Due to the pandemic, all meetings are now held virtually, and the island’s youths decided to adopt a new mission, said CYS Youth Center Lead Rachel Raczyński.

The show’s performers both entertained and educated the audience. The night included dances celebrating island cultures from the Pacific region with a Kiribati dance troupe and Tinikling Dance from the Philippine Islands.

The spoken word was a powerful component of the show. Dr. Doug Hepler delivered an impassioned poem riffing on the popular video, “What Do Teachers Make?” Graduating senior Morgan Dethlefsen performed his variety show stand-up comedy routine, giving a goodly roast to casseroles and ocean-themed bathroom décor and the ever-changing definition of “salad.”

Special vocal performances during the evening included Abri Makovec, the first-ever solo by Ellie Miller, and Kendal Warren, performing solo and in a duet with guitarist Carson Collup.

Multiple musical performances punctuated the night. In one musical skit, Keystone Club President DJ Chong-Gum and a small brass ensemble fought for a better grade with a performance of “Seven Nation Army,” by The White Stripes, featuring—you guessed it—more cowbell. Michael Africano performed music from the popular “Mario Brothers” videogames on piano, and the night culminated with a special act, the Saggy G-String Band, and a post-show featuring grunge and alternative rock favorites.

“I’m so proud of them,” said Raczyński, of the clubs’ students. “They worked so hard to put on this great show for the community—and we had a post-show! It was great, and I appreciate all of the time and effort that they put in to make this happen.”

Members of the Keystone Club performed their rendition of a popular Saturday Night Live skit.

ARMY'S ANNUAL HOUSING SATISFACTION SURVEY EXTENDED

EXTERNAL REPORT

By U.S. Army Garrison Hawaii Public Affairs

WHEELER ARMY AIRFIELD, Hawaii—The Army has extended its annual housing tenant satisfaction survey to allow more residents the opportunity to provide feedback about living in Army housing.

Survey results will guide the decisions the Army makes about future housing.

"By responding to the survey, every resident will have a voice in how the Army and its partners continue to maintain and improve the quality of our housing," said Lt. Gen. Jason Evans, Deputy Chief of Staff of G-9, which provides policies, programs, resources and expertise for services and installation infrastructure to enable total Army readiness. G-9 is the sponsor of the survey.

CEL & Associates, Inc.—an independent, third-party company—has sent emails to more than 110,000 tenants living in privatized, government-owned and government-leased housing on Army installations across the globe.

Completing the confidential survey takes about 10 minutes, and tenants have March 7 to do so.

Army privatized, government-owned and government-leased housing tenants can rate their satisfaction with services, property and the overall housing experience through the online survey. Feedback will be used by the Army to help maintain a high quality of life for service members and their families.

The Army is investing billions of dollars into transforming barracks and on-post housing at installations across the globe to provide Soldiers and their families with quality, safe and secure housing and a better quality of life. The Army has fully implemented the Tenant Bill of Rights, ensuring privatized housing tenants receive quality housing and fair treatment.

Housing tenants who do not receive the survey notice email from ArmyHousingSurvey@celassociates.com should contact their local garrison housing offices.

RTS WEATHER STATION STAFF

WEATHER DISCUSSION

Northeasterly trade winds have returned to the Kwajalein Atoll area late this week after a very wet and chaotic mid-week. Trade winds, generally at or near 17 knots, are expected to persist throughout this weekend.

While cloud coverage will be significant Saturday and into Sunday morning, dry air is expected to increase in the mid-layers of the atmosphere Saturday morning, resulting in partly sunny skies much of this weekend.

A change in weather pattern will likely occur early Tuesday morning as a subtle surface wave moves through the atoll area. This will bring at least widely scattered showers and some potential for heavy rainfall early next week. A return to stable trade winds is then expected for the rest of next week.

Saturday

Mostly cloudy with stray showers. Winds NE-ENE at 16-21 knots with frequent gusts up to 24 knots.

Sunday and Monday

Partly to mostly sunny with stray showers. Showers and cloud cover will begin to increase late Monday night. Winds NE-ENE at 16-21 knots with gusts up to 24 knots.

Next Week

Winds at or near 13 knots with a higher chance for periodic heavy rain during the early part of the week, then returning to breezy and dry conditions mid-late week.

THE THREE R'S OF UXO

PUBLIC SAFETY ANNOUNCEMENT

Unexploded ordnance should be treated like dangerous sea creatures: Look, but do not touch. You can play an important role in keeping Kwajalein safe by knowing what to do when you spot unexploded ordnance.

Remember the three R's of UXO:

- Recognize an item as possible unexploded ordnance;
- Retreat from the area of the UXO; and
- Report suspected UXO immediately.

If you discover an object that could be UXO, notify Kwajalein Explosive Ordnance Disposal immediately by calling 5-1433. You can also call CPS at 5-4445. Provide the following information about what you found:

- Location. Note helpful details like the building number, GPS coordinates and any prominent landmarks
- Size of the UXO as compared to common items like a football or scuba air cylinder
