

Recreating on Department of Defense Lands

The principal use of Department of Defense (DOD) lands and waters is to support mission-related activities; all other land uses are subordinate. JBLM lands and waters are available for non-military purposes in accordance with Army Regulation 200-1 (Environmental Protection and Enhancement), Integrated Natural Resources Management Plan (INRMP), Sikes Act, and Army directives and policies when compatible with the military mission, installation safety and security, ecosystem sustainability, natural resources management, and fiscal responsibility.

Mission-related activities always take priority on Joint Base Lewis-McChord. Therefore, possession of a state hunting or fishing license, a Federal Duck Stamp, or an installation recreation permit does not guarantee access to JBLM lands.

RECREATION
ON JOINT BASE LEWIS
MCCHORD

*Directorate of Public Works,
Environmental Division,
Fish & Wildlife Branch*

Joint Base Lewis-McChord has some of the rarest and most diverse ecosystems in western Washington. From the Nisqually River to Puget lowland prairies, Oregon white oak woodlands, and upland conifer forests, with fish-bearing streams, artesian wetlands, and kettle lakes throughout, there's something for everyone. We invite you to create an iSportsman account and explore and enjoy this landscape responsibly. JBLM hosts over 40 rare and imperiled species, so please help us keep it open to recreation by practicing safety and good stewardship at all times.

What outdoor recreation opportunities do we offer?

- Hunting (Deer, elk, bear, waterfowl, upland birds and game, special pheasant hunts, and more)
- Fishing (Salmon, trout, bass, catfish, crappie, and others)
- Hiking
- Horseback riding
- Bird watching
- Kayaking/canoeing
- Firewood collection

jblm.isportsman.net COMING JUNE 2023

iSportsman is a new computer/smartphone based platform for all outdoor recreation activities on JBLM. It improves and simplifies the user experience through:

- Streamlined account registration
- Simple permit purchasing
- Interactive map to display open areas
- Enhanced safety
- Real time communication and alerts
- Increased user education and awareness
- Quick and easy harvest reporting
- Much more

All users, whether brand new to recreating at JBLM or seasoned veterans, are required to create an account and manage their activities through iSportsman. Visit jblm.isportsman.net starting June 1st to create your account.
