The Fort Meade Logo

Adopted in 2019, the Fort Meade Logo is a visual representation of the installation's transformation from a rally point for troops heading to Europe more than 100 years ago to a 21st-century Power Projection Platform.

Fort Meade continues to evolve toward its future as part of the multi-domain operations concept for America's fighting force. Now the home of the nation's tenth and newest Combatant Command – U.S. Cyber Command – along with the National Security Agency, the Defense Information Systems Agency/ Joint Force Headquarters-Department of Defense Information Network, the Marine Cryptologic Support Battalion, the Air Force's 70th Intelligence, Surveillance and Reconnaissance Wing, the Navy's Cryptologic Warfare Group 6, the Space Force, the Defense Media Activity and 120 other tenant organizations on the installation, Fort Meade is the Nation's Premier Platform for Information, Intelligence and Cyber Operations.

The logo helps illustrate Fort Meade's efforts to address the future needs of a rapidly changing and growing community and to exemplify the vision that makes Fort Meade one of the nation's installations of choice. Fort Meade has grown into the second largest Army installation in the U.S. in terms of population and the largest employer in the state of Maryland.

The image of the sword on the logo represents the enduring symbol of military strength. The lightning bolt represents the communication, electronics, and information technology fields. The key represents the security and intelligence fields.

The stars represent the six branches of the U.S. military, including the Space Force, each of which has service members at Fort Meade. The globe represents the installation's worldwide mission. The green color of the globe represents that Fort Meade is an Army installation, and the purple color of the atmosphere represents the joint nature of the work done here, with all branches working in concert in national defense.

Within the inner white-gray circle there is some computer encryption which are not random numbers but have meaning to what Fort Meade is all about as it continues its growth in serving the defense of the United States.

The logo was designed by the former Fort's Visual Information Chief, Benjamin Rogers.

Digital Garrison is here!

The Installation Management Command has teamed with the Army and Air Force Exchange Service to develop a mobile-capable application that has been deployed across all IMCOM-controlled garrison commands worldwide. Members of the DOD family can download the Digital Garrison App to their personal mobile device now for free from both app stores.

“We’re informing and expecting our Fort Meade community to take full advantage of this great technology development,” said Chad Jones, Fort Meade director of public affairs. “Not only does the Digital Garrison App contain up-to-date information about Fort Meade, but it holds that same specific information for each IMCOM garrison worldwide.”

“And, on top of that, the App provides access to the Exchange shopping mall online so community members can take advantage of the great values being provided to Exchange shoppers.”

Other important elements contained within the Digital Garrison App include:

- Information specific to each user’s community such as an installation directory, gate locations, fitness and recreation options, events and more.
- The dashboard includes a user profile, weather details and information on local Exchange shopping and restaurants.
- Access to ShopMyExchange.com with in-app shopping and a mobile wallet with sales promotions and a secure method for storing payment options.
- Digital Garrison integrates information about installation services provided by IMCOM (includes Army MWR) and Exchange and links to other capabilities and partners like RCI companies and the Defense Commissary Agency.
- Digital Garrison is customizable by the user to provide information specific to one of 62 Army installations.

The Digital Garrison was piloted by 450 Soldiers and families at 10 garrisons, both inside and outside of the U.S. The pilot validated the need for an app, with users requesting even more installation information than in the initial release.

“Garrison Commanders desired a mobile app to facilitate access to installation services without overtaxing resources,” said Scott Malcolm, IMCOM director of public affairs. “In the summer of 2019, IMCOM developed two apps, each to correspond with its two networks - <https://home.army.mil> and <https://www.armymwr.com/>

“Exchange was also developing its own app. Since all three intended to provide information and facilitate access to on-post services, the IMCOM Commanding General and the Exchange Director/CEO decided to work together to develop a single app that could present a more complete picture of available installation services in one place. From retail to recreation, and fitness to financial readiness, Digital Garrison connects users with a full range of quality-of-life services.” In November 2020, Fort Meade began transitioning from its Fort George G Meade App so it could fully integrate the Digital Garrison App into the installation’s Digital Meade platform, which already includes Meade TV, social media sites and our Podcast - Fort Meade Declassified.

“Adding Digital Garrison to our Digital Meade platform helps us continue to provide engaging timely information to our audiences through multiple mediums users actually use,” Jones said.

“Our job is to make information accessible to users where they get their information. Digital Garrison helps us continue to do that.”

The Digital Garrison App is available as a free download as the Army’s enterprise app for its installations.

Digital Meade – On the scene

Digital Meade is the Fort's new digital media platform for providing garrison information to the community. It signifies an evolution in how garrison leadership provides information and news to the command and garrison partners. Digital Meade is now the cornerstone for maintaining, coordinating, and synchronizing garrison communications across its many public affairs platforms.

According to Chad Jones, garrison public affairs officer, the changes are a necessary step in making sure the speed and accuracy of useful information to the community utilizes all available communications technologies and platforms.

Fort Meade's tenants, organizations and community can provide content to Digital Meade by contacting Chad Jones at chad.t.jones.civ@army.mil or meadstv1@gmail.com

Digital Meade is a central location to find news and information elements, the garrison Facebook page — including Facebook Live events such as the town halls regularly hosted by the garrison commander — Fort Meade's Twitter and Instagram accounts, Meade TV, Fort Meade Declassified podcasts, the Digital Garrison App for mobile devices, and the Installation Events Calendar. Installation Calendar: This medium for tracking upcoming events is an outgrowth from members of the community who are part of the Community Council. The calendar is the go-to place for the community to keep up with upcoming community and garrison events available for community participation.

As with all evolutionary changes, the elements of Digital Meade will be adjusted as the Fort Meade community informs us on its ability to meet their needs, said Jones. Digital Meade is also a platform for mission partners and communities to share their stories.

"Digital Meade is easy for the community to share content with us and for us to push that content on our platform," Jones said. "This gives everyone a better idea of the important work we do here on Fort Meade." Send submissions to the Community Calendar to meadstv1@gmail.com

WELCOME

Welcome to the Nation's Platform for Intelligence, Information and Cyber Operations -- Fort George G. Meade, Maryland!

Rooted in its distinguished past, which began in 1917, Fort Meade is now focused on its role as a 21st-century power projection platform. As a garrison, our mission is to provide required services, infrastructure, a safe and secure community, and a quality of life that supports mission readiness and the Fort Meade community.

Fort Meade is the Army's second largest installation by population with more than 64,000 employees that represent the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines, Coast Guard and Space Force. Fort Meade's more than 120 partner agencies include the DoD's newest Combatant Command - US Cyber Command, part of the newest military service the US Space Force, as well as the National Security Agency, DISA/JFH DODIN Combatant Command - U.S. Space Force, U. S. Cyber Command - the National Security Agency, Defense Information Systems Agency/Joint Forces Headquarters for the Department of Defense Information Network, Defense Media Activity, and several non-DoD agencies including the Environmental Protection Agency and Architect of the Capitol.

“Forward Meade”

The military has focused resources on readiness, modernization and ensuring service members and units have the tools they need to win the nation's wars in the “multi-domain fight”, including in the cyber domain. Moving Fort Meade units “forward” are key elements in the effort to harden the nation's networks and protect our cyber infrastructure.

Infrastructure in the form of road construction and improvements, access control point improvements, and building construction and renovation are on-going on and around Fort Meade. These improvements support the warfighter by improving security, enhancing quality of life, strengthening family support, and changing the face of Fort Meade as we move forward to the next century of strategic service.

Fort Meade leadership knows to meet its vision as the Nation's Platform for Intelligence, Information and Cyber Operations, attracting and retaining a talented, diverse, and educated workforce is essential. Fort Meade and its partner units work closely with the Anne Arundel and Howard County schools' systems as well with the University Systems of Maryland and our renowned community colleges to develop curriculum that prepares today's workforce while developing and investing in tomorrow's pioneers. Fort Meade is home to seven Anne Arundel County schools to include three International Baccalaureate schools - Manor View Elementary, MacArthur Middle and Meade High. All our schools provide enhanced courses in science, technology, engineering and mathematics, or STEM. Meade High also has a Homeland Security Signature program. Our school liaison office works closely with the state's educators to ensure our students receive the foundation of learning they need to maximize the opportunities they deserve.

Fort Meade also works closely with Maryland's State Highway Administration and other transportation agencies to find convenient, affordable transportation options. In 2019, the Maryland Transit Association put on route the Crofton Connector as shuttle service to connect the Odenton MARC station with Fort Meade. In June 2018, we began a relationship with LYFT to ensure Fort Meade riders are picked up by drivers with complete background checks that allow them access to the installation.

Beyond that, Fort Meade continues to work with state and county employment organizations as well as the local chambers of commerce to ensure our family members can take advantage of the quality job opportunities in this growing region. Fort Meade has developed a regional partnership with Anne Arundel and Howard Counties Workforce Development Offices that helps family members find quality employment throughout the region. The Fort also hosts several job-fairs every year and works with the nearby Arundel Mills Mall to help our younger community members get full time and seasonal work.

Fort Meade is conveniently located between Washington, D.C., and Baltimore. The installation lies approximately five miles east of Interstate 95 and half-a-mile east of the Baltimore-Washington Parkway, between Maryland State Routes 175, 32 and 198. Fort Meade is situated in Anne Arundel County near the communities of Odenton, Piney Orchard, Laurel, Columbia, and Jessup. More than 12,000 service members and their family members reside on post. Fort Meade is Maryland's largest single employer and has a major economic impact on the region and the state.

Temperatures range from 85+ degrees Fahrenheit in the summer to 30 degrees Fahrenheit in the winter. In the winter, the average monthly snowfall is four to 10 inches. In the early stages of the season, springtime is accompanied by high winds and moderate thunderstorms and summers are moderately hot and humid. Autumn is pleasant with temperatures ranging as high as the mid-70s.

In addition to the many recreational activities available on Fort Meade, the region itself is full of interesting places to visit. You can tour the historical sites of Annapolis and Baltimore; visit the monuments and Smithsonian in our nation's capital, or attend a football, basketball, hockey, or baseball game hosted by one of the many professional and college teams in the Maryland, District of Columbia, and Northern Virginia areas.

This guide was prepared to help the Fort Meade newcomers but can also be a valuable resource to long-time residents and employees. Use it often to find information, including telephone numbers, addresses and web sites of the offices and facilities on Fort Meade. We hope your stay here will be enjoyable and your tour of duty professionally rewarding.

GETTING STARTED ON FORT MEADE

Fort Meade continues to be affected by the coronavirus pandemic of 2020 – UPDATE: As of 3 October 2022, based on local conditions, the Garrison Commander has determined that Fort Meade will move to HPCON A. Due to this change, Fort Meade's building occupancy will move to 100 percent.

The DOD has protocol for public health emergencies, and they're known as health protection conditions – HPCONs. Commanders review and update these HPCONs based on risk levels within a local community and in cooperation with local, state or host nation guidance. Military leaders and public health personnel use them to guide actions taken in response to a health threat.

Here are the DOD's five HPCON levels and what actions they may require:

- When the HPCON is 0, or "Routine," maintain your everyday actions to stop the spread of germs:
- Avoid close contact with people who are sick.
- Wash your hands often and for at least 20 seconds with soap and water.
- Cover your cough or sneeze with a tissue, then throw it in the trash. Cough or sneeze into your elbow if tissues are unavailable.
- Avoid touching your eyes, nose, and mouth.
- Practice a good diet and exercise.
- Make sure all immunizations are up to date, including your seasonal flu shot

When the HPCON is A, or "Alpha," there's a limited health alert. Maintain your routine actions but also:

- Routinely clean and disinfect frequently touched objects and surfaces.
- If you're sick, call your medical provider for instructions on receiving care before going to a clinic or hospital. Make sure your installation leadership is aware of the symptoms of your health threat.
- Stay informed by routinely checking reliable sources of information such as the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and your local public health agencies.

When the HPCON is B, or "Bravo," your area is experiencing an increase in community transmissions. Follow the guidelines for the previous HPCONs along with the following:

- Practice social distancing. Avoid unnecessary contact with others, such as shaking hands and hugging.
- Avoid unnecessary travel, especially to areas known to be experiencing active disease transmission.
- Ensure supplies of food, medication and other items needed for babies and pets are available to last at least 14 days

- Prepare for travel restrictions and cancellation of public gatherings, such as school, religious and other community activities. Make alternative arrangements for childcare.
- Observe local guidance on movement restrictions and access requirements for military installations.
- Seek guidance from employers and unit leaders about changes to work practices (for example, telework) and training events.
- Comply with medical orders for self-isolation or quarantine

When the HPCON is C, or "Charlie," your area is experiencing sustained community transmission. Follow all previous HPCON instructions and:

- Expect cancellation of in-person gatherings (such as school, daycare and all community activities) and restricted ability to travel.
- Plan activities for family members, especially children, in case you are restricted to your home for prolonged time periods.
- Prepare for the potential of limited access to supplies and services, including severely restricted access to military installations
- Implement remote work procedures as directed by your employer.
- If outside the U.S., authorized or ordered departure actions may be implemented

When the HPCON is D, or "Delta," your area is experiencing severe, widespread community transmission. Follow all previous HPCON instructions and implement the following:

- Expect to remain at home for extended periods of time as movement in the community may be restricted; at-home isolation or quarantine may be directed.
- Follow all directives and guidance from local, state and federal authorities; they are enacted to protect the health and safety of you and your family.

Regardless of the HPCON level, always follow the guidance from your installation and local public health agencies.

This guide presents information about the installation and the services available consistent with a normal operating picture that has services available during the time when people would normally expect them to be open to patrons.

Digital Meade will continue to provide up-to-date and current information regarding community services, and you are encouraged to stay alert to the information presented in Digital Meade and the installation's social media platforms before your visit to the service provider on the installation.

Fort Meade is virtually a city in itself. It consists of 5,067 acres with 65.5 miles of paved roads, 3.3 miles of secondary roads and about 1,300 buildings. There are three chapels, seven Anne Arundel County public schools, a credit union, post office, Post Exchange mall, and many other facilities. Whatever your interests—crafts, sports, recreation— all are available on Fort Meade.

FORT MEADE HISTORY

Named for Civil War hero

Originally called Camp Meade, the base was authorized by an Act of Congress in May 1917 as one of 16 cantonments built for troops drafted for World War 1. The present Maryland site was selected June 23, 1917, because of its proximity to three railroads, Baltimore's ports and Washington, D.C. The cost for construction was $18 million and the land sold for $37 per acre in 1917. More than 15,000 men were involved in the construction of 1200 wooden buildings that housed more than 400,000 men who deployed through the camp on their way to France. In addition to troops, Camp Meade included a remount station which held 12,000 horses, mules, and a blacksmith school. The 5,400 acres of land on which Fort Meade sits was originally owned by Maj. Samuel Snowden, a Revolutionary War hero. Camp Meade was named in honor of Maj. Gen. George Gordon Meade, whose victory at the Battle of Gettysburg in 1863 proved a major factor in turning the tide of the Civil War in favor of the North.

World War I

In addition to men and horses, Camp Meade included three infantry divisions, three training battalions and one depot brigade. The "Hello Girls"—women who served as bilingual telephone-switchboard operators in the U.S. Army Signal Corps during World War I—were also an important part of Fort Meade history. These women were some of the first to serve as uniformed members of the Army—24 years before the Women's Army Corps was established. In 1928, the post was designated Fort Leonard Wood, but Pennsylvania congressmen, angry at having the name of native son George Meade removed, held up Army appropriations until the Army agreed to name the new permanent installation Fort George G. Meade, which it did on March 5, 1929.

Tank Corps Joe

Around 1923, the famed tank-riding dog Old Joe befriended Soldiers who manned the 66th Infantry's light tanks. Joe became the 66th Infantry's official pet by order of the commanding officer of Fort Meade and acquired fame by becoming the Army's only tank-riding dog. Joe died in 1937 at the post hospital. The entire 66th Infantry honored Joe with a military formation and a procession of tanks. Military trucks escorted Joe to a grave near one of the tank parks.

World War II

Fort Meade became a training center during World War II, and its ranges and other facilities were used by more than 200 units and approximately 3.5 million Soldiers between 1942 and 1946. The wartime peak of military personnel at Fort Meade was 70,000 in March 1945.

Fort Meade was home to many services. The Cooks and Bakers School supplied bread for the entire post—approximately 20,000 people, including families. In 1942, the Third Service Command opened the Special Services Unit Training Center, where Soldiers were trained in all phases of the entertainment field. Entertainers, musicians, and others involved in the entertainment industry, including swing-band leader Glenn Miller, served in Special Services.

Fort Meade was also home to a number of German and Italian prisoners of war. In September 1943, a group of 1,632 Italian and 58 German prisoners arrived at Fort Meade. Some of those prisoners died during captivity and were buried on the installation.

The Cold War

With the conclusion of World War II, Fort Meade reverted to peacetime activities. One key post-World War II event at Fort Meade was the transfer from Baltimore, on June 15, 1947, of the Second U.S. Army Headquarters. This transfer brought an acceleration of post activity because Second Army Headquarters exercised command over Army units throughout a seven-state area. A second important development occurred Jan. 1, 1966, when the Second U.S. Army merged with First U.S. Army. The consolidated headquarters moved from Fort Jay, N.Y., to Fort Meade to administer activities of Army installations in a 15-state area.

Middle Eastern Conflicts

In August 1990, Fort Meade began processing Army Reserve and National Guard units from several states for the presidential call-up in support of Operation Desert Shield. In addition to processing Reserve and Guard units, Fort Meade sent two of its own active-duty units—the 85th Medical Battalion and the 519th Military Police Battalion—to Saudi Arabia. In all, approximately 2,700 personnel from 42 units deployed from Fort Meade during Operation Desert Shield/Desert Storm.

Post 9/11

After the events of Sept. 11, 2001, like all military installations across the country and the world, the Army instituted increased security measures. Roads once used as shortcuts through the installation were closed. Gate guards and changed entry procedures made the installation less accessible. Despite these changes, Fort Meade continues to hold job fairs and other major events for which the public is welcomed.

In addition, Fort Meade Soldiers, Sailors, Airmen and Marines deployed to far corners of the world to provide support to War on Terror on multiple fronts.

Base Realignment, Closure and Transformation

Fort Meade's transformation began with the 2005 Base Realignment and Closure commission decision to move three major organizations to Fort Meade. The Defense Information Systems Agency, the Defense Media Activity and the Combined Adjudication Facility brought thousands of new employees and major construction to the installation, but the changes didn't stop there.

Recent construction includes:

- The Candlewood Suites hotel, a 243-room Army lodging facility.
- A new Army and Air Force Exchange 24-hour Express facility
- A new 167,000 square foot Post Exchange shopping mall and food court.
- A new headquarters for the United States Army Counterintelligence Command
- A new 24/7 installation access control point at Mapes Road and MD Hwy 175
- A new headquarters for the 782nd Military Intelligence Brigade

Fort Meade is currently constructing a new Access Control Point and expanding Reece Road.

By far, the largest project is the ongoing development of the National Security Agency's East Campus, which is also home to U.S. Cyber Command, Marine Forces Cyber and the high-performance data center. When completed there will be more than 5.8-million square feet of development on what was formerly the Fort's golf course.

Community Partnerships

- As Maryland's largest employer, standing at 64,000 strong, Fort Meade is an economic engine and with it, comes an impact on not only the state and region – but the communities in which our Service Members, Civilians and Families live.

Fort Meade and our friends in the community outside of the fence line work together for the betterment of our Service Members, Families and civilians who live and/or work on the installation. One key relationship is the Fort Meade Community Covenant Council, which focuses on collaborating and combining resources to fill the gaps so Service Members, Civilians and Families have a supportive community.

In addition to Fort Meade's Local and federally elected officials, including the governor of Maryland, the Community Covenant Council is made up of many supportive civic and business organizations including:

– Anne Arundel Community College, Anne Arundel Public Library, The BWI Business Partnership, the Fort Meade Alliance, and the Central Maryland Chamber of Commerce. Fort Meade and the Fort Meade Alliance, a member of the Community Covenant Council, won the 2019 Army Community Partnership award for the Kuhn Hall project. The FMA is gifting Fort Meade the more than $3 million renovation of Kuhn Hall into an education and resiliency center. This center puts resources and services in one place and provides access to mental health professionals in a setting we hope will help erase the stigma of seeking help.

This year, the Covenant will be focusing its efforts on bringing the community together around the newly renovated Meade High. This $120M project is scheduled to be completed in SEPT 2024. The Covenant's goal is to use this state-of-the-art facility to highlight all of the great programs and opportunities in the entire Meade High Cluster.

For more information on Fort Meade's community programs and resources contact the Community Relations Chief at 301-677-6806.

Kuhn Hall - Education and Resiliency Center AT FORT MEADE

Fort Meade, as well as many Army installations around the country, has developed a resiliency campus to promote the concept of Comprehensive Soldier Fitness and provide hands-on training and support to Soldiers, family members and DA civilians.

It took 11 years of planning, a $5.1 million fundraising campaign, meticulous processing of an 800-item requirements list and extensive collaboration with six garrison commanders, numerous on-post agencies and innumerable community members to transform Fort George G. Meade's historic Kuhn Hall into a modern Education and Resiliency Center.

The Fort Meade Alliance, Fort Meade Alliance Foundation, the U.S. Army, and the Fort George G. Meade Garrison embarked on a significant partnership to establish a Resiliency Campus for the service personnel, their families, and civilians at the Installation. The plan included the renovation of Kuhn Hall and its conversion into the Education and Resiliency Center, which will serve as the hub of information, programming, and services — providing a much-needed resource for the Fort Meade community.

“The partnership and fortitude of the Garrison, the Fort Meade Alliance, the FMA Foundation and the community — which began in 2011 — could not have been stronger as we progressed through requirements, design, fundraising, construction and now the official opening of this vital center,” said Deon Viergutz, FMA Foundation President. “The Education and Resiliency Center will connect and enrich the Fort Meade installation by providing an integrated system of care that will help our greatest resource — our people.”

The DoD community has long known that its most important asset is its people – service members, military family members, military retirees, veterans and DoD civilians. As the Nation's center for information, intelligence and cyber operations, Fort George G. Meade leadership is acutely aware that mission readiness is only possible with a superior team of people who can endure the rigors and challenges of a demanding profession and who are supported by their families and community.

“The people of this community - whether service member, family member, civilian, or retiree - are the foundation of everything,” said Col. Michael A. Sapp, Fort Meade Garrison Commander. “As such, it is imperative they are provided an environment that enriches their wellbeing. Kuhn Hall affords the community with versatile space and the services to help us all navigate and cope with the stressors of daily life.”

The goal of Fort Meade's resiliency campus is building strong, healthy service members, families, and civilians.

That mission is accomplished through a combination of military and civilian agencies that work together to enhance strength of all things spiritual, emotional, social, family, and physical within individuals.

The Fort Meade Resiliency Shield was designed by the Fort Meade Alliance, in partnership with the Fort Meade Community Health Promotion Council. The logo was created as part of an effort to assist the Fort Meade community in identifying resiliency programs and facilities throughout the installation. The Fort Meade Resiliency Shield is a combination of individual shields that support the five pillars of resiliency – Family, Emotional, Physical, Spiritual and Social.

KUHN HALL: Fort Meade along with The Fort Meade Alliance, a local support organization, partnered to renovate the Fort's former distinguished quarters into the installation's new Education and Resiliency Center. Construction was completed in November 2022. And as part of the gift, the Fort placed several information kiosks throughout post where individuals can get access to quality-of-life services both on and off post and throughout the region. U.S. ARMY GARRISON

Fort Meade's structure is provided by the U.S. Army Installation Management Command (IMCOM) through the Army Material Command, which oversees all facets of installation operations—construction, family care, food management, environmental programs, morale and well-being programs, public works, and installation funding.

The Military District of Washington (MDW) provides the installations within its region real-time guidance, direction, and resources, and responds to installation management requirements.

Fort Meade mirrors the visions of both IMCOM and MDW to ensure quality of life for those who live, work, and play on the installation. Improving everyday life for the community and customers of Fort Meade is critical to providing a safe and secure environment. The installation is constantly improving its installation infrastructure and facilities, technology, and environment to meet expanding mission requirements.

Installation Management Command

IMCOM, a single organization headquartered in San Antonio under the U.S. Army Materiel Command, is organized to manage U.S. Army Installations at home and abroad.

IMCOM was launched to meet a number of objectives: implement a standardization process so that Soldiers and families can count on quality, consistent and uniform services at all installations; streamline how installations receive money and ensure installation funds are used for installation services (as opposed to combat training or other missions); relieve warfighters and mission commanders of installation-related tasks so that they can focus on combat training and tactical-related issues; and support mission readiness and execution.

Military District of Washington

MDW is a leadership extension of IMCOM and provides real-time guidance, direction and assistance to Army garrisons located in the region.

The mission of the regional office is to guide, direct, enable and oversee assigned garrisons; assess and convey resource requirements to IMCOM; and respond to installation management requirements. MDW also acts as a command-and-control headquarters relative to all base operations, functions, contingency operations and crisis management operations.

MDW reviews and oversees resource allocations, interfaces with major commands and other services, and implements IMCOM policies and programs. MDW also interact with congressional delegations when necessary

- Mobilization and Deployment Readiness

Military life often means separation. Whether the first experience or one of many, separation is never easy. Having some sort of support system is essential, whether it's a family readiness group, a social group, or a friend. Talking to someone and staying busy may help pass the time more quickly.

The Soldier Readiness Program assists units and family members to prepare for a deployment.

Plans, analysis, and integration office programs provide support directly to the Garrison Command Group. The PAIO oversees the annual Installation Planning Board (IPB) and integrates action plans across the Garrison into a cohesive strategic plan, measures performance against the plan, and ensures Garrison leadership maintains visibility of overall Garrison success in implementing the IMCOM

Commander's strategic vision and ensuring all long-range plans fully support installation sustainability goals. The PAIO directs and manages continuous improvement projects to close performance gaps and manages performance and requirements determination reporting such as the Installation Status Report (ISR), Customer Management Services, Stationing, the Army stationing, and Installation Plan (ASIP), Partnership with Local, State and Federal government agencies and Army Communities of Excellence (ACOE).

Stationing

This process assigns responsibilities for and prescribes policies and procedures governing organizations using space/facilities on the Fort Meade installation. Your request should be submitted at least 3-5 years in advance if a new facility is required. If a new facility is not required, your request must be submitted at least 18 months in advance. All requests must be sent to HQDA/Pentagon Stationing Branch and they will execute unit stationing actions (activation/establishment, activation/discontinuance, realignment, and relocation) at the lowest cost consistent with mission accomplishment and with the maximum use of existing available facilities at the gaining installation.

Performance Management

Installation Status Report components - There are 3 ISR components: ISR-I, ISR-MC, and ISR-S. This business model provides policy, responsibilities, and guidance for the Installation Status Report Program within the Department of the Army. ISR evaluates the quality and cost of providing base support services at reporting Army installations worldwide, assesses installation service quality against established standards and the cost to provide those services, and communicates the condition of installation services to the Army.

ISR-Services evaluates the cost and quality of service delivery of ISR Program reporting organizations to established Army standards. ISR-S is used in the standard service costing process to develop cost estimating relationships used by the Base Operations Support Requirements Model to develop base operations support requirements.

ISR-Infrastructure provides an evaluation of the facilities on a installation. ISR-I assesses the quality, quantity, and mission support of rated facilities, and provides estimated costs to improve the base's current infrastructure through revitalization or modernization.

ISR-Mission Capacity measures capacity and capability of the Army's natural infrastructure assets (for example, air, land, water, and energy) to support the current and future mission.

The Defense Adjudication Activities (DAA) consists of three agencies that determine security clearance eligibility for personnel occupying sensitive positions or requiring access to classified material. The primary tenant is the Department of Defense Consolidated Adjudications Facility (DoD CAF) which executes personnel security determinations for non-Intelligence Agency DoD military, civilian, consultant, and applicant personnel in addition to determinations for employment suitability and Common Access Card credentialing of DoD civilian employees, plus fitness eligibility of non-cleared DoD contractors. The DoD CAF services approximately 96% of DoD and 84% of cleared personnel in the federal government, making approximately 1.1 million personnel security determinations in 2016. The DoD CAF was created in 2012 with the consolidation of seven of the 10 DoD activities that co-located to Ft. Meade in 2011. Due to the unique nature of their missions, the intelligence activities were not part of this consolidation.

The DAA facility is the proud home of adjudicative offices of the Department of Defense, ensuring a trusted work-

U.S. Army Claims Service
Bldg. 4411 Llewellyn Ave
Executive Officer: 301-677-9068
Administration: 301-677-9078

The U.S. Army Claims Service (USARCS) supervises the payment of Army claims throughout the world. It oversees payment of more than $70 million to Soldiers, family member and civilians. It is also responsible for recovering more than $19 million in medical care recovery and property affirmative claims on behalf of the United States.

USARCS was created as an independent agency in 1963 and has been on Fort Meade since July 1971. It has been at its current location since 1978.

USARCS has a staff of about 85 attorneys, investigators, and other claims professionals, including civil service employees, active-duty military personnel and temporary employees.

The staff is augmented by several Army reservists who spend their two-week annual tours of duty with USARCS.

One of USARCS's most important missions is to settle tort damage claims made against the Army. For example, if an Army driver is at fault in an accident with a civilian car, U.S. Army Claims Service employees settle the claim for damage to the car and/or injury to the civilian driver. If they can settle the claim through negotiation, it saves the Army, the claimant and taxpayers the time and expense of a lawsuit and trial.

Settling such damage claims is the job of the Tort Claims Division, which supervises the settlement of more than $30 million in tort claims each year. The Tort Claims Division also settles tort claims asserted on behalf of the Army to recover property damage, as well as the cost of medical care and lost pay provided to Soldiers injured by the negligence of third parties.

Another critical mission of the USARCS is to settle claims from military personnel for loss or damage to their property.

This is the job of the Personnel Claims and Recovery Division (PCR). In recent years, the Recover Branch of the PCR division has recovered about two-thirds of the $15 million recovered by the Army from household goods moving and storage claims. The division's Personnel Claims Branch sets the policy for and oversees the operation of 80 installation claims offices throughout the world that pay about $26 million annually.

USCYBERCOM was a sub-unified command subordinate to U.S. Strategic Command until it reached Full Operational Capability. USCYBERCOM's mission is to plan, coordinate, synchronize and conduct activities to direct the operations and defense of specified DoD information networks; prepare to, and when directed, conduct full-spectrum military cyberspace operations to enable actions in all domains; ensure U.S./Allied freedom of action in cyberspace; and deny the same to our adversaries.

The USCYBERCOM commander is also the director of the NSA and chief of CSS, though the organizations perform different critical functions. The command has three focus areas: defend DoD information networks, provide support to combatant commanders for execution of their missions around the world, and strengthen our nation's ability to withstand and respond to cyber-attack.

USCYBERCOM is designing the cyber force structure, training requirements and certification standards that will enable the services to build the cyber force required to execute our assigned missions. The command also works closely with interagency and international partners to ensure the nation's cybersecurity efforts and resources are coordinated while ensuring the best support to joint military operations. The command does this in compliance with all laws, respecting the civil liberties and privacy of U.S. persons.

Service Cyber Components affiliated with USCYBERCOM, and maintaining a presence at Fort Meade, include Army Cyber Command, the Navy's Fleet Cyber Command, Air Forces Cyber and the Marine Forces Cyber Command.

U.S. Army Cyber Command
8543 6th Armored Cavalry Road

U.S. Army Cyber Command was established Oct. 1, 2010, as the Army force component headquarters supporting U.S. Cyber Command. Army Cyber Command consolidates the operations of numerous elements that previously reported to U.S. Army Network Enterprise Technology Command, U.S. Army Intelligence and Security Command, and 1st Information Operations Command, creating a unified operations center responsible for all Army networks.

Army Cyber Command headquarters is located at Fort Belvoir, Va., with staff elements assigned to Fort Meade. Army Cyber Command is the Army's lead for all missions, actions, and functions related to cyberspace. It's responsible for planning, coordinating, integrating, synchronizing, directing, and conducting network operations and the defense of all Army networks.

When directed, Army Cyber Command also conducts cyberspace operations in support of full spectrum operations to ensure freedom of action in cyberspace, and to deny the same to our adversaries. We operate and defend all Army networks around the globe and prepare for full spectrum-cyber operations to support our forces worldwide.

The command serves as the Army's single point of contact for reporting and assessing Army cyberspace incidents, events, and operations, and for synchronizing the Army's responses.

The Relationship between U.S. Army Cyber Command and Second Army began in 2010. From its establishment in October 2010 to March 2014, Army Cyber Command perpetuated the lineage and honors of the inactive Second Army, which traced its history to World War I. In March 2014, the Army activated a new unit designated Second Army that resulted in the Second Army's lineage and honors being withdrawn from Army Cyber Command and assigned to the newly activated unit. The Commander of Army Cyber Command was designated as the Commander of Second Army, a Direct Reporting Unit of the Chief Information Officer/G-6, Headquarters, Department of the Army (HQDA), to optimize the Army's force structure in support of Army Cyber Command's mission.

Cyberspace Operations, to include operating and defending the Marine Corps Enterprise Network (MCEN), conducting Defensive Cyberspace Operations, and when directed, conducting Offensive Cyberspace Operations in support of the Marine Air-Ground Task Force (MAGTF), Joint, and Coalition Forces in order to enable freedom of action across all warfighting domains, and deny the same to adversaries.

MARFORCYBER is comprised of a command element and two subordinate units: Marine Corps Cyberspace Operations Group (MCCOG) and Marine Corps Cyberspace Warfare Group (MCCYWG).

MARFORCYBER was established to shape the tools, doctrine, processes, and capabilities to ensure Marine Cyber Mission Teams support USCYBERCOM and the joint force, while also ensuring MAGTFs achieve victory on the modern battlefield. MARFORCYBER is the physical manifestation of the Corps' commitment to providing unique skills and capabilities to the MAGTF, the joint force, and our allies.

Exceptional Family Member Program

The Exceptional Family Member Program (EFMP) is a mandatory Department of the Army enrollment program for active duty service members that provides comprehensive and coordinated community support, housing, educational, medical and personnel services for those military families with special needs.

Soldiers on active duty enroll in the program when a family member has a physical, emotional, developmental or intellectual condition that requires specialized services. The Army defines an exceptional family member as any family member, regardless of age, who has a disability that limits that individual's ability to function daily, and requires ongoing counseling, training, education, therapy or treatment.

The family member's needs are then taken into consideration in the military personnel assignment process. Soldiers are responsible for keeping their EFMP enrollment updated as the exceptional family member's condition changes, or every three years, whichever comes first. The EFMP program can also assist eligible family members of retired Soldiers, Department of the Army civilians, Army National Guard and U.S. Army Reserve Soldiers.

Community Information Program

The Community Information Program provides commanders, service members and families with comprehensive information regarding military and civilian community resources.

Hearts Apart Deployment Support Group

The group meets monthly and has members from all military branches as well as DoD civilians. The group also runs a "Hand-in-Hand" program, a deployment support group that travels to area schools to support children whose parents are deployed. Community members are invited to connect with other families while learning about managing separation.

Survivor Outreach Services (SOS) demonstrates the Army's commitment to the families of fallen soldiers by providing support services. Financial counselors provide assistance to surviving families through investment and estate planning education and counseling. The SOS support coordinator functions as long-term support for survivors by facilitating support groups, providing life skills education and connecting survivors with valuable resources.

Four center-based programs on post provide childcare services for children ages 6 weeks through preschool. Three of the CDCs at Fort Meade have earned accreditation from the National Association of Education of Young Children, a rigorous voluntary process by which early childhood programs demonstrate that they meet national standards of excellence.

Programs seeking accreditation undergo an intensive self-study, collecting information from parents, teachers and administrators while conducting classroom observations.

Centers receive on-site visits conducted by early childhood professionals to validate the self-study results. A team of national experts who grant or defer accreditation independently reviews all information.

The best way to describe the curriculum is that it follows developmentally appropriate practices: a child-centered, child-initiated and teacher-supported program. The Creative Curriculum program allows for meaningful and long-lasting learning involving active thinking and experimenting to find out how things work. This is best accomplished through purposeful play facilitated by highly intentional teaching practices. The Strong Beginnings Pre-K is an Army initiative designed to prepare children for kindergarten. The program focuses on social and emotional development of children.

Staff members follow a primary care-giving philosophy in which a child is assigned to one staff member who observes and documents the child's interests, strengths and weaknesses and enhances the curriculum around these observations.

The goal is to develop an individualized program that will support school-ready children by enriching their learning experiences. The CDC strives to expose the children to the "Six Pillars of Character," (trustworthiness, respect, responsibility, fairness, care and citizenship) as well as promote the physical, social, emotional, cognitive and creative side of each child. CDC staff seeks to integrate these traits into everyday interactions between children and their parents.

Family Child Care Office
4550 Parade Field Lane
301-677-1378
Monday through Friday, 7:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

The Family Child Care Office (FCC) is a childcare option offered to eligible families through CYS Services. FCC is provided by military family members working as independent contractors in individual housing units located on the installation.

FCC providers have their programs listed in the FCC online system at the Parent Central Services office. All patrons wishing to use the FCC program must begin the registration process at Parent Central Services. Parents using FCC are eligible for fee assistance through the Fee Assistance Program in which the majority of providers participate.

Homes provide flexible hours, a comfortable family-like setting and activities based on life experiences in the home and neighborhood. In FCC, siblings can stay together, younger and older children learn from each other in a small group setting, and school-age children can remain in a neighborhood setting. Most homes offer full-day, part-day and hourly care. Special services may include 24-hour and long-term care during mobilization and training exercises, evening and weekend care and care for special-needs. The flexibility of FCC providers is an asset in meeting the diverse work hours of military families.

Parents of children enrolled in an FCC home can expect to receive the same quality of care as in a CDC or school-age program. FCC providers receive the same training and support as CYS Services facility-based staff. Each group of 25 to 40 providers is designated an FCC network with its own director and managed like a childcare center without walls.

The capacity of the FCC home is determined by the size of the home and the ages of the children enrolled in the home.

Generally, the capacity in an FCC home at any one time is six children, including the provider's own children who may be enrolled in the program. Homes serving infants and toddlers exclusively (children ages 4 weeks to 2 years) can serve a maximum of three children. Homes serving school-age children exclusively (children ages 5 to 12 years) can serve a maximum of eight children. If you are interested in becoming a provider, call the FCC office.

Hours of operation:

Monday through Friday, 11:00 a.m. to 7:30 p.m.

SKIES Unlimited provides the framework for instructional programming in the CYS Services System worldwide. It encompasses instructional programs for children and youth from infancy to adolescence (four weeks through the end of the senior year in high school). Through SKIES Unlimited, youth in programs have access to opportunities that expand their knowledge, inspire them, allow them to explore and acquire new skills.

Young people spend as much as 80 percent of their waking time outside the classroom. When involved in instructional programs during the critical hours of 3 to 8 p.m., studies show they are less likely to engage in undesirable behavior.

Instructional programs foster the development of critical life, leadership and social skills. The latest educational research confirms that student's involvement in after-school instructional programs is beneficial on all levels. Instructional programs have been shown to promote the intellectual development of children and youth.

2474 Ernie Pyle Road (Adjacent to Kimbrough)
301-677-2006

Monday through Friday, 7 a.m. to 4 p.m.
Closed noon to 1 p.m.

The Army Wellness Center is a U.S. Army Medical Command Initiative overseen by the Preventive Medicine Services Division at Kimbrough Ambulatory Care Center.

The Army Wellness Center helps Service Members, retirees, their families, and DoD civilians build and sustain good health. It empowers them to set their own health goals and achieve them. It addresses lifestyle change in areas that affect both short- and long-term health, engaging people in their “life space” – the places where they live, work, relax and rest.

The Army Wellness Center provides a standardized core of health services: a health assessment review, which is an analysis of the patient’s health status, risk for disease and ability to exercise safely; physical fitness testing and exercise prescription; healthy nutrition using metabolic testing to provide individualized strategies for weight loss, gain or maintenance; stress management using biofeedback to reduce stress; general wellness education through classes on topics such as healthy lifestyles, increased resiliency and self-care; and tobacco education using assessments to determine an individual’s readiness to become tobacco-free.

Referrals can be made to the Army Wellness Center by medical providers or unit commanders. Self-referrals are always welcome and can be made by contacting the Army Wellness Center.

Our mission is to promote health and build resilience for Warriors, Military Families, and all those entrusted to our care.

Kimbrough Ambulatory Care Center (KACC) is not a hospital and does not have an emergency room or night and weekend urgent care coverage. Anyone who requires an emergency room is advised to go to the closest military ER or civilian hospital. If you have a medical emergency, call 911.

We provide primary care, selected specialty care and same day surgery for TRICARE Prime patients, Monday through Friday between 7:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. We also provide occupational health services to civilian employees working at the installations within our extensive area of responsibility throughout Maryland, Virginia, and, and Pennsylvania.

We partner with Walter Reed National Military Medical Center at Bethesda to offer elective, same day outpatient surgical procedures in our four state-of-the-art operating rooms. If you require ambulatory surgery and would like to avoid going into the city, we encourage you to discuss your options for having your procedure here at Kimbrough. We are a proud member of the National Capital Region Multi-Service Market.

The Fort Meade MEDDAC has a rich and proud history that extends back to Camp Meade Hospital, which was organized in July of 1917 as part of the original post. As a result of the 1995 Base Realignment and Closure Commission (BRAC) Act, several major changes occurred within our MEDDAC's structure, including U.S. Kimbrough Army Hospital converting to an outpatient facility. The U.S. Kimbrough Army Hospital officially discontinued as an organization on Oct. 1, 1996, and Kimbrough Ambulatory Care Center (KACC) was officially established.

Today the Fort Meade MEDDAC is a subordinate command to the Medical Readiness Command, East (MRC, East) located in Fort Belvoir, Va. Our medical treatment facilities, clinics, healthcare providers, and staff are working hard to provide safe, quality healthcare to each of our beneficiaries. We look forward to serving you!

Maryland
www.maryland.gov

Capt. John Smith first explored Maryland in 1608. Since that time the state has furnished the nation with some of its most brilliant diplomats and patriots. Famous Marylanders include Benjamin Banneker, Francis Scott Key, Edgar Allan Poe, Upton Sinclair, and Babe Ruth. The bravery of Maryland troops in the Revolution won the state its nickname, "The Old-Line State." Named after Queen Henrietta Maria, wife of Charles I of England, Maryland is the eighth-smallest state in the union with a total area of 10,460 square miles. Two hundred Europeans settled Maryland in 1634, and the state has flourished ever since. Maryland was the seventh of the original 13 states to ratify the Constitution on April 28, 1788.

In the War of 1812, a British fleet attempted to seize Fort McHenry in Baltimore. During a 25-hour bombardment from Sept. 13 to 14, 1814, American troops successfully defended the fort, inspiring Marylander Frances Scott Key to write the "Star Spangled Banner," which later became the national anthem. The historic sights of Maryland are a great attraction for tourists and residents alike.

Baltimore
www.baltimore.org

The original town of Baltimore was founded in 1729 but wasn't incorporated until 1796. Baltimore was named to honor the title of Maryland's founding family, the six Lords Baltimore. It was a tiny village of 200 homes in 1768 when it became the Baltimore County seat. The city grew and became an important ship-building center where merchants prospered, and the city's port flourished. The city was separated from Baltimore County and given status equal to that of the counties in 1851. Baltimore was the third-largest city in the nation by 1860 and today is the 18th largest. With a world port, government offices, significant medical and educational institutions and major tourist attractions, Baltimore is one of the most vital cities on the East Coast.

Neighborhoods in Baltimore include Federal Hill, Fells Point, Little Italy, and Mount Vernon Place. The popular neighborhood of Federal Hill was named for a huge celebration the residents held in honor of the ratification of the federal Constitution. The cannon on the hill overlooking the Inner Harbor is a reminder of the Civil War, when federal troops seized the railroads and occupied Baltimore and Annapolis to keep Maryland in the Union and to prevent Washington, D.C. from being surrounded by Confederate states. Among Baltimore's literary landmarks is a house lived in by Edgar Allan Poe, who died in Baltimore in 1849. He is buried in Westminster Cemetery, where Baltimore teachers and school children erected a monument in 1875.

Washington, D.C.
202-789-7000
www.dchomepage.net

The District of Columbia, named for George Washington and Christopher Columbus in 1791, is the seat of the federal government and the nation's capital. This 63-square-mile city boasts a population of more than a half million residents with hundreds of sights and points of interest that attract visitors from around the world. The city's climate is described as humid subtropical with the temperature in winter averaging 34 degrees and 77 degrees during the summer, although these are subject to wide fluctuations.

Maj. Pierre L'Enfant designed Washington D.C. in 1791. It was the first American city planned for a specific purpose. L'Enfant laid out the city around numerous circles and squares connected by straight boulevards. The layout has often been described as reminiscent of a series of wagon wheels. This design, often described as brilliant, allowed for growth; however, L'Enfant could not have foreseen the advent of automobiles in a nation of more than 330 million people. Four sections make up Washington: northeast, southeast, northwest, and southwest. Any address is always followed by an abbreviation of the appropriate section of town: NE, SE, NW, and SW. Washington have one of the most comprehensive and attractive public transportation systems on the East Coast. The Metro not only connects the numerous sights in the city, but it also branches out to parts of Virginia and Maryland.
