BACKGROUND

The Joint Services Transcript (JST) is a synchronized transcript presenting data for the United States Army, Marine Corps, Navy, and Coast Guard.

Each JST is “owned” by the service member’s or veteran’s specific service, so you will see each service’s seal with the American Council on Education (ACE) seal at the top.

Each JST includes:

- ♦ Personal service member data
 - ♦ Military course completions—all courses that have been evaluated by the American Council on Education (ACE), with full descriptions and credit recommendations
 - ♦ Military occupations—full descriptions, skill levels, and credit recommendations
 - ♦ College level test scores—CLEP, DSST, and NCPACE
 - ♦ Other learning experiences—additional completed courses and occupations that have not been evaluated by ACE for college credit
 - ♦ An academic institution courses page (not available for Army JSTs)
- The JST is accepted by more than 2,300 colleges and universities.
 - Electronic JSTs are free.
 - Stakeholders (service members, veterans, colleges, and universities) can create JST accounts and receive transcripts at <https://jst.doded.mil>.
 - For technical support questions, contact jst@doded.mil.
 - For questions about a particular service, see the resources section on the back page of this brochure.

PERSONAL SERVICE MEMBER DATA

This section will clearly state whether the transcript is official or unofficial. Service members and veterans can request unofficial copies of their transcripts at any time. Official transcripts must be issued directly from the JST Operations Center to the college or university registrar.

This section shows the service member's:

- name,
- social security number,
- current rank and pay-grade level, and
- status (active or separated).

The status is important for colleges and universities, because active service members may have additional transcripts to provide.

MILITARY COURSES

- This section presents ACE credit recommendations for the courses that the service member or veteran has completed.
- Key things to note include the military course ID number in the far left margin, the ACE identifier in bold text to the right, and the dates the coursework was taken.
- The credit recommendations are listed as subject-area bullets with the semester hours (SH) and level of the credit (V=vocational, L=lower, U=upper, and G=graduate) aligned to the right.
- At the end of the credit recommendation, two sets of dates appear in parenthesis (mm/yy). The first date indicates when an ACE faculty evaluation team conducted the hands-on review. The second date indicates any administrative adjustment to the course data.
- The JST includes a brief description of the course, but you can find more information about the course on the ACE Military Guide (acenet.edu/militaryguide). Additional data listed in the Guide include course length, version, and related competencies or learning outcomes connected to each subject area.

What is the ACE ID number?

All courses and occupations reviewed by ACE have a corresponding ACE identification number (ACE ID). The ACE Military Guide can be searched by ACE ID number to view additional data about a course or occupation, such as related competencies and learning outcomes.

What is the new version number after the ACE ID and why is it important?

The version number for the course is listed to the right of the ACE ID number. When the course curriculum changes, ACE evaluates the new version and tracks the history of curriculum changes and credit recommendations using the same ACE ID, with different dates and different version numbers. The course version on a JST is based on when the service member started the course and successfully completed it.

What is an occupation?

An occupation refers to the service member's job while in the military. The ACE occupation review process is focused on the recommendation of credit for learning that occurs on the job, above and beyond the formal classroom training.

How does an occupation review differ from a course review?

The occupation evaluation is more experiential in nature and is an assessment of the "profession" assigned to the service member to determine what learning has occurred above and beyond formal military training. The combination of the written materials and the interviews validate the professional duty expectations and the learning that occurs on the job.

What does the date on the occupation exhibit mean?

The date that is displayed on the JST in the occupation area shows when the service member achieved a particular rank in that occupation. There are no end dates for a particular rank on the JST because end dates are not recorded in the service member's personnel record.

How can a user determine the end date of a particular rank?

The end date of a particular rank can be determined by viewing the date of the next occupation entry on the JST.

How are the occupational credit recommendations populated on the JST?

Occupational credit recommendations from the Military Guide appear on the JST based on the pay grade/skill level rank that is achieved by the service member and the dates covered by the occupation exhibit. For example: A soldier in the Human Resources Specialist MOS achieved skill level 40 on January 2, 2011. The Military Guide exhibit MOS-42A-001 is dated 4/03–11/13, so this service member would receive the credit recommendations from this exhibit because the service member reached the skill level during the time period covered by this exhibit.

Do I add together the credit recommendations from different pay grades or skill levels?

No, the occupation credit recommendations are structured as building blocks, so each level already incorporates the credit recommendations for all of the levels below it.

What if the service member's training and experience has not been evaluated by ACE?

The services decide which courses and occupations ACE will evaluate. Colleges and universities can conduct personal learning assessments for students whose training and experience has not been evaluated by ACE.

What if a course is missing from my JST?

Service members who find errors or omissions on their JSTs should contact their service training resource, listed on the back cover of this brochure.
