Souvenir munitions can be deadly

Souvenirs, UXO, duds, training rounds, war trophies... No matter what you call them, they can be deadly! People are the Army's greatest asset, to include our Veterans and retirees. The Army cannot complete the mission without our people and we want to ensure everyone is kept safe and comes home at the end of the day. You never know the impact you have and what accidents you can prevent by turning in souvenir munitions.

Like father, like son: Flight school student becomes third generation to train at Fort

For Warrant Officer Charles S. "Scotty" Niles, a flight school student at Fort Novosel, learning to fly an Army attack helicopter has become a family tradition. Two generations before him, the late retired Lt. Col. Gary W. Niles completed training at then-Camp Rucker in the 1960s — back when the four-lane boulevard that now runs from the installation to the city of Enterprise was a dirt road. The Vietnam veteran flew multiple fixed-wing and rotary-wing airframes during his career, including the Huey and the Cobra.
