

ARMY FLYER

SERVING THE U.S. ARMY AVIATION CENTER OF EXCELLENCE AND THE FORT RUCKER COMMUNITY SINCE 1956

VOLUME 73 • NUMBER 2 • FEB. 2, 2023

A 19th Special Forces Group (Airborne) paratrooper pushes off a UH-60 Black Hawk after receiving the go-ahead to conduct his first jump with the unit Jan. 21 near Camp Williams, Utah. The red tape on the Soldier's helmet signifies it is his first jump with the unit since completing airborne school ensuring more experienced jumpers can mentor these new members of the community, while affording them extra space to begin to master this skillset. U.S. Army Aviation Museum's patch collection tells Soldiers' stories

(Editor's note: This is the first in a three-part series on the U.S. Army Aviation Museum's patch collection.)

Army shoulder sleeve insignias tell a story about the Soldiers who wear them and the Soldiers who came before them.

Walking around Fort Rucker, Soldiers wear many different patches, either current unit or combat patches. But according to Bob Mitchell, curator at the U.S. Army Aviation...

EFMP Sensory Gala

Susan Hesser, Fort Rucker Exceptional Family Member Program coordinator, plays with a child at the quarterly Sensory Gala held at the Mini-CDC Jan. 27. "There is a lot of learning involved with play. Sensory play helps children develop methods, leading to skills used in math and science. It helps to exercise logic, the cause and effect," Hesser said.
