Marne Voices Speak Out: Veterans Day edition

Retired Sgt. 1st Class Vicki Ervin
American Legion, Post 168

What does Veterans Day mean to you?

It is amazing. Veterans Day is a day for all veterans, for everyone who has served.

As a female Veteran, what is important to you?

It doesn't matter what war you fought in, it's all the same, we all protected the same thing. I know so many people from the 3rd Infantry Division, I know more than half of those people on Warriors Walk.

What does it mean to you to be part of the Veterans community?

Veterans don't care if you laugh, cry, have a good or bad day, they'll always be there.

Retired Staff Sgt. Corey Jones
VFW, Post 6602

What does it mean to you to be part of the Veterans community?

It means a lot to me to be a part of the Veteran community and to be able to share my Army story. I have a lot of experience in many areas to share with new Soldiers.

Why is it important that our Nation continues to acknowledge our Veterans?

If you don't acknowledge our Vets, you'd have less patriotism and that would be a disgrace to all those who have served before me.

Twenty-five Veterans of World War II, the Korean War and the Vietnam War received a warm and respectful send-off from Hunter Army Airfield in a ceremony Nov. 2 prior to the Veterans boarding a charter bus that took them to Washington, D.C., to tour the various war memorials and other sites in their honor.

"It's always humbling to stand in the presence of greatness," said Lt. Col. Ken Dwyer, Hunter Army Airfield commander, from the podium to the Veterans. "There are no words to express the thanks that our country owes you."

World War II Veteran Euel Akins, 98, described the sentiment in Hunter Army Airfield's Tominac Fitness Center as "amazing and humbling."

3CAB consolidated trunk-or-treat

Sgt. Ryan Tatum
3CAB Public Affairs

Soldiers and Families from the 3rd Combat Aviation Brigade participated in a trunk-or-treat at Hunter Army Airfield, Oct. 30.

Over 1,500 Families and friends participated in the morale-building event in order to encourage esprit-de-corps within the community and relationships on the installation.

"We have Soldiers from many different units coming together for the Families of Hunter Army Airfield," said Kristy Adams, sports fitness and aquatic director for Fort Stewart-Hunter Army Airfield's Family, Morale, Welfare and Recreation Directorate. "The Soldiers have opened and decorated the trunks of their vehicles to distribute candy to children."

Getting children hyped up on candy is just one of the things that took place during the trunk-or-treat.

"The Soldiers are competing for the best decorated trunk judged by Lt. Col. Kenneth Dwyer, the Hunter Army Airfield garrison commander, and Command Sgt. Maj. LaVander Wilkerson, the Hunter garrison senior enlisted leader," Adams said. "Following that they will judge the participants for the best costume."

As the wave of Families slowly dwindled, every child happily walked with their decorative Halloween pail filled to the brim with candy and smiles on their faces.

Fall cemetery tour recalls area history

Dina McKain

Fort Stewart Public Affairs

The Fort Stewart Cemetery and Historical Communities Council conducted the Fall Cemetery Tour Nov. 1, 2018. Participants visited Long County and Liberty County associated cemeteries Poplar Head, J.E. Moody, Bethel, Strickland Pond, Taylors Creek and Pleasant Grove.

Forty-five people - some who lived on the land before the government turned it into a military installation, and descendants of those who used to live here, attended.

The lands on Fort Stewart were purchased by Congress in 1940 to build an anti-aircraft training facility in preparation for World War II. While the mission has changed at Fort Stewart, the tour denotes the area has always been home to heroes.

Fort Stewart holds two cemetery tours a year on behalf of the Cemetery and Historical Communities Council in April and November.

Follow the Fort Stewart-Hunter Army Airfield Facebook page for information on the next event in the spring <https://www.facebook.com/FortStewartHunterArmyAirfield/>

What does being a veteran mean to you?

It is an honor and a privilege, I believe that every young man and woman should be in the military for at least a little bit.

What does it mean to you to be part of the veterans community?

There is a sense of pride and camaraderie.

Youth Center offers fun

Molly Cooke
Frontline Staff

The Fort Stewart-Hunter Army Airfield Youth Activity Center offers a close-to-home option for youth looking to learn life skills, make friends and have fun.

Part of the installation's Directorate of Family, Morale, Welfare and Recreation, the Child and Youth Services division is free and open to CYS registered youth in grades 6-12. It is home to a number of activities geared toward developing youth into contributing members of society.

"The Youth Activities Center provides direction for our youth," said April Parker, Youth Activities Center director. "They enjoy the support they receive here. Our programs keep them busy and making better choices."

The facility is a registered Boys and Girls Club affiliate and will soon offer a variety of clubs and activities such as Torch Club, Passport to Manhood, Triple Play, Keystone Club, Smart Girls, and Junior Military of the Year - to name a few. Additionally dances and lock-ins are held quarterly. Other weekly activities include open recreation, basketball, homework assistance, arts and crafts, technology, and games.

To ensure that the facility remains enjoyable, monthly surveys have been implemented so the youth can express their vision for the center.

"We want the kids to know that they have a voice while they're here in the center," Parker said. "We want to know how to make our activities more enjoyable."

Recent surveys have included future field trip destinations, snack options, and future weekly programming ideas.

"We aim to make our center a fun place for kids to keep busy and active while also helping promote their educational, social and emotional growth," Parker said. "The center is a great place to come and learn important developmental life skills in a welcoming and friendly environment."

Hours of operation are 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday-Thursday, noon to 9 p.m. each Saturday.

The Youth Activities Center recently moved to the heart of Fort Stewart's Bryan Village housing area off of Austin Road in building 7338. Hunter Army Airfield's Youth Activities Center is located off North Perimeter Road in building 6054 near the New Gannam housing area. ### What does Veteran's Day mean to you?

Veteran's Day honors what my father and uncles have done. When I joined the Army, it gave me a sense of pride, to be able to help veterans and have children look up to me. On Veteran's Day we show our appreciation to older veterans, the younger generation, and we remember our fallen on the 11th. We take it personally to help our veterans.

What does it mean to ### you to be part of the veterans community?

It's an honor. I've been part of the VFW for 15 years and we move forward with veterans and bring in new veterans. I don't think there is a whole lot different between old and new, the heart and soul are the same.

How do you honor your service to our country?

I think about the positives of serving, the friendships. There are some things you can only talk about with another veteran, and when you do, you get the feeling that you are part of something that is never going to stop.

Two-hundred and fourteen graduates from 33 colleges and universities participated in the 37th annual commencement ceremony held at the Main Post Chapel on Fort Stewart, Nov. 2.

Third Infantry Division Commander Maj. Gen. Lee Quintas was the guest speaker at the event.

Quintas, who holds three masters degrees, expressed the importance of education, paraphrasing William Butler Yeats who once said education is not the filling of a pail, but the lighting of a fire.

"Lifelong learning is the bedrock of the Army Continuing Education Center and a critical component of every professional's commitment to their craft," Quintas said. "Including members of our professional Army."

Quintas said adult education in the Armed Forces traced back to 1776 at Valley Forge, when George Washington directed an Army chaplain to teach reading to the wounded troops.

He applauded the efforts of those attending, and the Families and friends of those graduates who supported them in their endeavors.

"Education is essential to developing critical thinkers for tomorrow, especially as we enter an unprecedented age of uncertainty and competition for our nation," Quintas said. "Our Army is the best in the world because of our ability to thrive in uncertain and hostile environments-- education enables success in this environment."

The majority of the participants completed degrees with organizations associated with the Sgt. 1st Class Paul R. Smith Army Education Center's on-post colleges and universities: Webster University, Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University, Columbia College and Central Texas College; but also the individuals who completed their degrees this year, away from the local area.

Pam King, the Fort Stewart Directorate of Human Resources education service officer, said the Department of Defense has had a relationship with the above named schools for more than 46 years, with the establishment of the Service Members' Opportunity College in 1972.

King noted this year's Army Continuing Education System's college graduation was one of the largest within the Army's Installation Management Command.

CHAPLAIN'S CORNER

No pain, no gain

Capt. Sean Post
DHHB, 3rd ID Chaplain

This is the saying that was written in my high school weight room. It always made me a little uncomfortable thinking about what it was actually saying. In my high school mind I understood it to read this, "If you do not suffer, you will not gain anything in life." It's funny that almost twenty years later I have seen this to be truer than ever.

Growth never happens without pain. To grow, something must struggle. To grow your muscles you must lift something, run somewhere, or push something. There has to have some sort of resistance in order for your muscles to breakdown so that they can build back up. With correct and accurate recovery they not only heal and build back up but they actually become stronger.

What if like muscles, our lives need to have pain to grow? What if we have allowed ourselves to become too comfortable in our day to day life? What if to truly understand this life, we must experience hardship and pain? What I want to do is challenge you to look at your pain as an opportunity to grow.

Craig Groeschel writes in his newest book, "Peaks are nice, but you don't see many farms on mountaintops. Why? Because things grow better in valleys. You're time in the valley may not be pleasant, but it's in the valleys of life that you grow closer to God and stronger in your faith."

Many times in my life I have had the choice of what path to take. I could have either walked towards the problem or away from the problem. I have chosen both paths and I have found that when I walk towards pain, there is growth. I think that it sometimes difficult to know that the path that you have chosen is going to be more difficult. But when we look at it with perspective, it may be just a little easier to handle.

The perspective that I am talking about is through knowing who God is. If we know who God is and trust who He has made us to be, we will be able to walk in faith. Trusting that He will lead us, direct us, and guide us through that valley. Psalm 23:4-5 says, "Even though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, for you are with me; your rod and your staff, the comfort me." God will walk with us through the pain. He will be there as we grow. He will guide us to be more like Him.

Your pain can be growth if you look at it with the correct perspective. God loves you and wants you to know Him more. Trusting Him is the key to this relationship and all it takes is that. Begin trusting him right now by sharing your pain with Him. He wants to walk with you through your valley.

Celebrating Native American heritage

Special to the Frontline

November is National Native American Heritage Month, honoring American Indians and Alaska Natives. This year's theme is Standing Together. American Indians and Alaska Natives have profoundly shaped the character and cultural heritage of the nation.

During this month the Army will recognize the contributions of Native American Soldiers who have served in the U.S. Army with great honor, dedication and distinction, building a legacy of courage, professionalism and selfless service that will inspire future generations.

During Native American Heritage Month, Army leadership encourages the entire Army family to recognize and express appreciation for the past and present contributions of Native American Soldiers, Veterans, civilians and Family members.

Throughout history, Native Americans have served in this nation's military with great courage and distinction. Historically, American Indians have the highest record of military service per capita when compared to other ethnic groups.

Today more than 9,000 Native Americans serve in the Total Force.

The National Museum of the American Indian has an on-line collections search which includes representative samples of NMAI's object and historic photo collections. To view this collection which features jewelry, paintings, photographs and music, go to <http://www.nmai.si.edu/searchcollections/home.aspx>. NMAI also issues free, quarterly e-newsletters which explore many topics such as storytelling, women's contributions, and our relationships with all living things, cultural history and many other aspects of Native American / Alaska Native culture. More information may be found at <http://nmai.si.edu/>

For more information about National Native American Heritage Month, go to <https://www.deomi.org/human-relations/special-observances.cfm?tab=12>

In recognition of the great strength in diversity, shared in the Army culture, the 3rd Infantry Division Equal Opportunity Office and 1st Armored Brigade Combat Team held the annual Native American Indian Heritage Month observance yesterday at Club Stewart. The theme was Sovereignty, Trust and Resilience. See next week's edition of The Frontline for coverage of that event.

SAFETY SPOTLIGHT:

Avoid distracted driving

Richard Rudolph
AFSBn Safety Office
Commentary

You tell your children I love you, then start the trip to take them to school. While driving, you get a text from a friend asking if you are free for lunch. As you text – what time, it happens. You are involved in an accident. You rear-ended a vehicle stopped at a red light.

Hopefully this never happens. But if you text and drive, your chances increase.

Texting while driving is against Georgia Law, HB 673, effected since July 1. It is also against Fort Stewart policy 32 CFR 634.25 (c) (3); which prohibits the use of cell phone and other electronic devices while operating a motor vehicle. This information is displayed at each gate entrance on Fort Stewart.

There are three types of distracted driving according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Association at www.nhtsa.gov.

Visual: Taking your eyes off the road.

Manual: Taking your hands off the wheel.

Cognitive: Taking your mind off what you're doing.

The NHTSA said distracted driving is a significant problem across the nation.

•Nine percent of fatal crashes in 2016 were reported as distraction-affected crashes.

•Six percent of all drivers involved in fatal crashes were reported as distracted at the time of the crash.

•Nine percent of drivers 15 to 19 years old involved in fatal crashes were reported as distracted. This age group has the largest proportion of drivers who were distracted at the times of the fatal crashes.

•In 2016, there were 562 non-occupants (pedestrians, bicyclists, and others) killed in distraction-affected crashes.

•In 2016, 70 percent of the distracted drivers in fatal crashes were male, as compared to 74 percent of drivers in all fatal crashes.

•Hand-held cell phone use while driving is highest among 15- to 29-year-old drivers.

•Female drivers with a cell phone have been more likely to be involved in fatal distracted-driving crashes as compared to male drivers every year since 2012.

Please think about and discuss with any new drivers in your family and set the example for them if you need to answer your phone (without hands-free devices) pull over to a safe place and stop your vehicle.

Things to know about Tricare's open enrollment

Courtesy www.tricare.mil

Do you want to make enrollment changes to your or your Family member's TRICARE plan?

Your opportunity is just around the corner during TRICARE Open Season.

Open season is an annual period when you can enroll in or change your health care coverage plan for the next year.

TRICARE beneficiaries will experience open season for the first time Nov. 12– Dec. 10, 2018. TRICARE Open Season will happen each year from the Monday of the second full week in November to the Monday of the second full week in December. Enrollment choices made during this period will take effect on Jan. 1.

During TRICARE Open Season, you may enroll in a new TRICARE Prime or TRICARE Select plan. Any changes you make take effect on Jan. 1, 2019.

If you remain eligible and make no changes during TRICARE Open Season, then you will stay in the same plan for 2019. You may also change your type of enrollment, for example you may switch from individual to family coverage.

If you need to enroll in or change your TRICARE Prime or TRICARE Select plan outside of TRICARE Open Season you can only do so within 90 days of when you or a family member experience a Qualifying Life Event. A QLE is a life event, like getting married, having a baby, or retiring from active duty. With these events, your TRICARE options may also change.

Whether during TRICARE Open Season or following a QLE, you have three ways to make an enrollment choice:

- Online: Go to the Beneficiary Web Enrollment website at www.dmdc.osd.mil/appj/bwe.

- By phone: Call your regional contractor. Contact information is available at www.tricare.mil/about/regions.

The TRICARE Retiree Dental Program ends on Dec. 31, 2018. This means your TRDP dental coverage will end this year. If you're enrolled in or eligible for TRDP, you're eligible for dental coverage in 2019 through the Federal Employees Dental and Vision Insurance Program. FEDVIP is offered by the Office of Personnel Management and is also available to federal civilian employees.

You will not be automatically enrolled in a FEDVIP plan when your TRDP plan ends. For 2019 coverage, you must enroll in a FEDVIP dental plan during the Federal Benefits Open Season, which runs from Nov. 12 through Dec. 10, 2018.

Although Federal Benefits Open Season is held at the same time as the TRICARE Open Season.

Snelson-Golden recognized as flagship school

Special to the Frontline

A Fort Stewart-Hunter Army Airfield local school, Snelson-Golden Middle School, was selected by the Georgia Department of Education as one of six schools in the state to be recognized as a Military Flagship School.

This award recognizes schools going above and beyond to provide a supportive environment for military students and families. They provide specific outreach to military families and recognize and accommodate their unique needs.

"The faculty, staff and administration at Snelson-Golden are excited to be included in the inaugural group of six Georgia schools recognized as Military Flagship Schools," said Principal Roland Vanhorn. "We understand the unique sacrifice military Families face and we are proud to offer the extra supports necessary to meet the unique needs of our military Families."

At Snelson-Golden, a Military and Family Life Counselor offers individual and group counseling to military children and their families. The MFLC is present at parent engagement events and interacts with children throughout the day to offer encouragement. Several days a week, a lunch group is hosted for military students, and the school has a Student Ambassador program that connects new students with another student who has the same schedule. Because active duty parents are often unable to attend parent and family events, the school uses Skype to allow them to participate. "Military students and families are an integral part of our school district," said Dr. Franklin Perry, Superintendent of Liberty County Schools. "LCSS will continue to care for all children. The mission of our district is to provide all students an education, which promotes excellence, good citizenship, and a love of learning. Congratulations to Snelson-Golden on this outstanding recognition."

Each 2018 winner will receive a special visit from Superintendent Woods and other officials and will receive a banner to display in their school advertising their status as a military flagship school. "As the child of a military Family myself, it means so much to me to recognize schools that are doing an exceptional job caring for Georgia's military students and Families," State School Superintendent Richard Woods said. "I commend each one of these schools for their service on behalf of military Families and children." GaDOE plans to make the Military Flagship School Award an annual recognition, with a new cohort of schools honored each year.

Winn bemoans loss of therapy dog

Kaytrina Curtis
Winn ACH Public Affairs

The pitter patter of George S. Patten's fury feet slapped against the cool tile as he traversed the halls and floors of Winn Army Community Hospital. As his official hospital badge dangled from his leash, George's eyes would make contact with those looking for a bit of solace. George, donned in his red vest and handkerchief, would patiently sit or stand while Winn ACH Soldiers, staff and patients would gently rub his back.

George was with the Fort Stewart American Red Cross-Winn ACH Pet Visitation program. Sadly, unbeknownst to everyone, George lost his battle with kidney disease and passed away in September after a short illness.

George was born in Australia and traveled to Hawaii as small puppy where he joined the home of Lida Atkinson, Stewart Red Cross manager. He worked hard to earn his intermediate obedience certificate, earning a K9 Good Citizen Certificate in the process.

In a move to San Diego, George had the opportunity to learn agility. He really enjoyed racing around a course of obstacles. By 2011 he retired to a life of chasing squirrels in the back yard. But George found he did not like retirement, he missed meeting new people and when his mom took a position as the Fort Stewart Red Cross Manager, he wanted to do his part and volunteer as a pet visitation therapy dog.

Even though he was a little old to start a new career, George passed his therapy dog test with flying colors and began visiting Winn where he quickly became a fixture. George will be missed.

Atkinson said although George was the first dog in the Red Cross pet visitation program at Winn, she hopes he is not the last and invites other pet lovers to get involved. If you are interested in joining the team, please contact the Red Cross office on Fort Stewart at 767-2197 or FortStewart@redcross.org.

Drive-Thru Flu Clinic readies community for winter wellness

Kaytrina Curtis
Winn ACH Public Affairs

According to the Center for Disease Control, 100 years ago in 1918, the flu pandemic shattered many homes throughout the U.S. taking approximately 675,000 lives. Today, we are more transient thanks to a populous of trains planes and automobiles. Many people have an opinion about getting the influenza vaccine--good, bad and indifferent.

However, the CDC reports the level of flu activity is low right now, but is expected to pick up in the coming weeks.

The outbreak of flu related cases in the 2017-2018 season rose to a staggering 49 million flu illnesses, with more than 959,000 people hospitalized with complications related to the flu and a whopping 79,000 plus deaths were attributed to the flu.

Therefore, the U. S. Army Medical Department Activity-Fort Stewart, Winn Army Community Hospital Army Public Health Nursing team is working painstakingly hard to ensure the Fort Stewart-Hunter Army Airfield Soldiers, Family members, retirees, Department of the Army civilians and MEDDAC staff are ready for the flu season.

Since October 19 of last month, APHN team members tirelessly administered more than 3,500 vaccines throughout the Fort Stewart footprint. During the Drive-Thru Flu clinic, more than 2,500 flu shots were given.

One beneficiary, Capt. Jennifer Yurk, 3rd Infantry Division, said she sees the importance of getting her family vaccinated.

"As a mom myself, I know it's really important for me to have my kids be healthy and ensure that they're feeling well throughout the flu season," Yurk said. "The flu, in the last several years, has gotten really bad and enabling them to get the shot to build those antibodies is very important to me."

The Drive-Thru Flu Clinic Yurk attended has a two-fold purpose, one, to conveniently vaccinate as many Tricare beneficiaries as possible, and two, the clinic also provided training for the APHN staff in the case of a pandemic.

"This is especially important for the medical folks here to do this because just as we do with Soldiers we train as we fight," Winn ACH APHN health promotion coordinator, Diane Carlton said. "In order for them [APHN nurses and staff] to be effective, and ready to affect the population if there were to be some sort of wide spread virus they now have the practice of setting this up, actually executing and tearing down, so they're going to be much more proficient in the long run."

The effect of readiness of Soldiers here is also affected by the well-being of their Family members.

"If you are in a deployed environment and you do have all your vaccinations and you know your family is vaccinated as well, you do have less of a stress on you, because you know that they'll be healthy," said Master Sgt. Yolanda Scipio-Jones, Division Head Quarters, Head Quarters Battalion, 3rd ID.

The Fort Stewart-Hunter Army Airfield Garrison Commander, Col. Jason Wolter, led by example and got his flu vaccine alongside his staff.

Wolter said the vaccination is important because having the flu shot is directly related to readiness.

"Keeping the force ready, is a proven and important part to do that and for all of our soldiers, but for our Families as well," Wolter said.

The APHN team continues to inoculate the Stewart-Hunter population and will hold the next Drive-Thru Flu Clinic Nov. 15 and 17 in the Hunter Exchange parking lot, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., respectively.

Please be sure to bring your DOD/military ID card with you to the clinic and be prepared to wait 15 minutes after the vaccine is administered to allay any possible side-effects.
