Celebrating 102 years of service

Pat Young
Fort Stewart Public Affairs

The 3rd Infantry Division’s motto, Rock of the Marne, was earned near the banks of the Marne River near Chateau-Thierry on July 15, 1918 following a significant conflict with German forces. Then 3rd ID commander, Maj. Gen. Joseph Dickman told French allies “Nous Resterons La” letting the world know, “We shall remain here.”

The reputation was earned shortly after the unit was formed at Camp Green, North Carolina, Nov. 21, 1917, and has been reflected by the unit’s Soldiers, Families and civilians support ever since.

For their constant vigilance and stalwart service, the 3rd ID Soldiers came to be called Dogfaced Soldiers, with a song aptly named after them. Walt Disney also provided the unit with a mascot – Rocky the Bulldog.

56 Dogfaced Soldiers have been recognized with the Medal of Honor, the nation’s highest award for valor in action against an enemy force. Many others have been recognized with the Distinguished Service Cross, such as Staff Sgt. Stevon A. Booker.

Booker served with the 1st Battalion, 64th Armor Regiment 3rd ID Soldier during the initial ground assault into Baghdad, Iraq, known as the Thunder Run. He was killed in action in Iraq in 2003, while returning fire during combat operations in the heart of the city.

A range in honor of Booker was dedicated to him Nov. 19 on Fort Stewart during the 3rd ID’s Marne Week celebration – an event held each year to salute the legacy of the units, Soldiers and Families.

Other Marne week activities included sporting events such as dodgeball, soccer, volleyball, flag football, tug-o-war, basketball, ultimate Frisbee, swimming relay, Family kickball, the Marne Mudder, the functional fitness challenge, combatives and more. The week also features a Family Day at Newman Fitness Center, which starts today at noon on Cottrell Field. The day’s events include interactive displays with games, food, music, fellowship and a movie on the lawn at 6 p.m. – Aladdin.

Photos of the various events are featured on the 3rd ID Facebook and on Page 10-11 of this edition of The Frontline Newspaper. Look for additional photos in next week’s newspaper too.

Marne Voices Speak Out

If you could add any Marne Week event, what would it be and why?

Ground fuelers learn top flight aviation fueling process

Sgt. Laurissa Hodges
3rd IDSB Public Affairs

U.S. Army petroleum supply specialists, with 135th Quartermaster Company, 87th Combat Sustainment Support Battalion, 3rd Infantry Division Sustainment Brigade "Providers," conducted Forward Arming Refueling Point cross-training with 3rd Battalion 160th Special Operations Aviation Regiment Nov. 6 to Nov. 7 at Hunter Army Airfield.

The Soldiers with 135th QM, 87th CSSB, 3IDSB, traditionally conduct ground fuel missions in support of the armored brigades within the 3rd ID, but with their upcoming scheduled rotation to Honduras, the Soldiers are expected to train and understand how to properly fuel aircraft they may support.

"The training that we do on a regular basis is more contained to ground fuel, not aviation and we use different types of vehicles for ground fuel and aviation fuel, and the Soldiers don't really get to work with the vehicles or train with aviation requirements," said Staff Sgt. Javarzeiya Walker, a petroleum supply specialist with 135 QM, 87th CSSB, 3IDSB. "Even though I've done this before my Soldiers haven't and it's training that they need prior to our deployment."

To prepare and familiarize themselves with FARP operations the 135th Soldiers conducted several training events prior to their cross-training with the 160th SOAR.

"About a month ago we conducted FARP classroom training as well as aviation testing of the fuel to learn the components, what the standard procedures are and identification of equipment," said 2nd Lt. Zachary Freiburg, the 135th QM executive officer. "With the notice of the mission we had all the personnel get trained on forklifts along with some sling load training at the motor pool. When we came out here they already had a baseline knowledge of what equipment pieces were but now they're getting to see how it's all put together."

The training they received from the 160th SOAR FARP teams focused on speed, procedure and safety. During their training the 135th team were instructed how to properly test and sample fuel for aviation use, how to establish a FARP and the safety considerations that come with conducting refueling operations for aircraft.

"This is good training preparation for deployment because we are going to be working with aviation," said Walker. "I hope the Soldiers retain the knowledge that they need to know how to Aqua Glo and Millipore these trucks to make sure that the fuel that we are issuing out to the aircraft are on grade and specification."

The unit leadership stressed the importance of their training prior to the mission in Honduras.

"It's important because we come from a bulk-fuel ground platoon company and we will be transitioning to aviation, which many of the new Soldiers have not participated in," said Freiburg. "Many of the NCOs are familiar with the aviation side and can provide great training as well as knowledge to the new Soldiers, but as far as hands on they need to become familiar and adaptive with the equipment and to take advice from the leadership."

With the cross-training the Soldiers received the 135th Soldiers will be better prepared for their mission ensuring they live up to the Provider name offering superior sustainment support to the forces in their area of operation.

Lady Bulldogs basketball compete with grit against NCAA team

Staff Sgt. Todd Pouliot
50th Public Affairs Detachment

Savannah State University women's basketball hosted the Fort Stewart Lady Bulldogs team, Nov. 8, as a tune-up for their upcoming season.

With just two bench players in reserve, the Lady Bulldogs showed a lot of grit against a very athletic Tigers squad.

For two elite basketball players from the Fort Stewart women's basketball team, it was an opportunity to not only compete, but also to share their knowledge and experience with their younger opponents.

"There were several situations when I gave advice to their players," said U.S. Air Force 2nd Lt. Charmaine Clark. "I wanted to do as much as I could to help them become better players and a better team."

Clark, a member of the All-Air Force women's basketball team, and Fort Stewart teammate, 1st Lt. Jala Harris, a member of the All-Army team, both have competed at the collegiate level and are drawn to developing the next generation of college athletes.

"It was fun to get out there with college kids and see if you still got it," said Harris, a maintenance platoon leader assigned to 3rd Brigade Support Battalion, 1st Armored Brigade Combat Team, 3rd Infantry Division.

Harris, a native of Madison, Alabama, played at Tennessee Tech for two years before joining the Army, and scored 20 points for the Lady Bulldogs.

Clark, a native of Hinesville, was born at Fort Stewart and earned a scholarship to play for the University of Miami while playing for nearby Bradwell Institute. After playing a year of professional ball overseas, she joined the USAF and has been a member of the All-Air Force team since 2016.

When Fort Stewart's coach Chief Warrant Officer 3 Aaron Bryant, who is also an assistant coach of the All-Army team, became aware that there was no team for which Clark could play at Robins Air Force Base, he invited her to play at Fort Stewart. Clark led the Lady Bulldogs with 23 points and 9 rebounds.

The game was fast-paced with a lot of scoring. There were seven lead changes in the first three periods before SSU extended their lead to 14 with 9 minutes left in the game. The Lady Bulldogs mounted a valiant comeback but came up short as SSU finished with a 95-91 victory.

Fort Stewart top performers:

Charmaine Clark - 23 points, 9 rebounds

Jala Harris - 20 points

Khaliah Watson - 16 points

Tia Fleming - 15 points, 8 rebounds

April Cromartie - 14 points, 16 rebounds

Education benefits transferability change

All actively serving members of the armed forces who have 16 or more years of service will no longer be able to transfer their Post-9/11 GI Bill benefits to their dependents. This new restriction was put in place per change 1 to DoDI 1341.13, Post-9/11 GI Bill, dated Friday. As a result of this change, Army National Guard Soldiers are highly encouraged to transfer their Post-9/11 GI Bill benefits as soon as they become eligible (not flagged, have six or more years of service, and at least one eligible dependent in DEERS) to avoid missing out on this extremely generous family benefit. To transfer your benefits go to https://www.dmdc.osd.mil/milconnect or https://www.milsuite.mil/book/docs/DOC-634821. The deadline is Jan. 12.

Looking for a challenge? Join the SAMC

Are you a Sergeant Audie Murphy Club member? Do you have aspirations of becoming a member? The Fort Stewart-Hunter Army Airfield "Rock of the Marne" SAMC is reaching out to all members across the installation. We are actively updating our contact rosters and want to ensure we are capturing our members for updates with the Club. Please contact Sgt. 1st Class Karl Kirven at karl.w.kirven.mil@mail.mil for more information. We look forward to hearing from you. The meeting is the third Wednesday of each month at noon at building 1 on Fort Stewart in the SAMC conference room.

Garrison Super Saver Program offered

Are you interested in winning $500? If so, this program is for you! Take a look around. Is there something you see that is wasting money? Is it a problem we can solve locally? If you are a Garrison employee and submit the best idea for saving the Garrison money, you will win $500. Submit your ideas on the Super Saver nomination form available in the Garrison civilian incentive awards recognition guidance, Appendix B. Nominations are boarded with the Garrison of the quarter award submissions. For more information, contact Barbara Cardinal or Dr. Robin Ellert at barbara.cardinal3.civ@mail.mil or robin.k.ellert.civ@mail.mil.

Learn about Troops-to-Teachers

Soldiers, retirees and veterans are invited to attend one of the installation's Soldier for Life briefings regarding the Troops-to-Teachers Program, scheduled 10 a.m. to noon, at the Stewart Education Center, on the fourth Thursday each month. Use care, don't grease the pipes

Amanda Price
DPW Environmental

Grease, oil, and fat clog pipes and sewer lines just as they block arteries. As with arteries, blocked sewer lines cause serious problems, eventually resulting in overflows and potentially causing health hazards, damage to home interiors, and adverse impacts to our environment. "Grease-clogged pipes continue to be a cause of sewer spills on Fort Stewart and Hunter Army Airfield – most particularly during the winter months. Cooler weather makes the problem worse," states Tressa Rutland, the Directorate of Public Works' Prevention and Compliance Branch Chief.

Flushing grease down the drain can be disastrous! Clogged lines can cause raw sewage to overflow into your home or your neighbor's home, parks, yards, streets, ditches, streams, and other waterways. Cleaning up after such a mess is not how you want to spend your time! In mass, grease that makes it down the lines from several houses in a neighborhood can result in problems at the lift station once the grease hardens into large chunks. All this means problems for residents, and money for increased operation and maintenance of the sewer system and spill response teams.

The grease found in plumbing systems typically originates as a cooking by-product that has been washed down the kitchen sink. Meat fats, cooking oil, shortening, butter/margarine, food scraps, baking goods, sauces, and dairy products all contain grease and add to the problem once washed down the drain. Use of home garbage disposal units only shreds solid material into smaller pieces, but does not remove grease. Like arteries, grease will stick to the inside of the sewer pipes and will build up and block the lines over time.

"A common mistake is to flush grease down the sink with hot water," Rutland said. "Because this will only push the grease farther down the lines where it will later re-solidify and clog lines. Commercial additives and chemicals, including soaps and detergents, that claim to dissolve grease may only do so temporarily and actually just push grease farther down the pipes. When the pipes get clogged it's only a matter of time before everything you put in them (bath water, dish water, and yes – sewage) backs up where it can cause problems both on and in your property and in the streets."

With your help, we can minimize the probability that you will be dealing with the unpleasant annoyance and inconvenience associated with sewage spills. Help us protect you, your property, and our environment. If you have any questions, please contact the DPW Environmental Division at 767-2010.

Some sewage spills can be prevented if grease, fats, and oils are kept out of the sewer system. You can help prevent future problems:

- Never pour fats, oils, or greases (especially bacon grease) down sink drains, toilets, street gutters, or storm drains.
- Pour into a container, seal, and place in the trash (or recycle).
- Wipe pots, pans, and dishes with dry paper towels before rinsing or washing them; then throw away the paper towels.
- Spread the word by speaking with your family, friends, and neighbors about how to keep fats, oils, and greases out of sewers.

Marne Division honors Native American service

Staff Sgt. Joel Salgado
3rd IDSB Public Affairs

Soldiers from across the Marne Division came together at Club Stewart Nov. 13 to attend the Native American Heritage Month observance hosted by the 3rd Infantry Division Sustainment Brigade.

The event was held as part of the National American Indian Heritage Month which runs from Nov. 1-30. The observance recognizes American Indians who have served in the armed forces and gives Soldiers a chance to share in the cultures of the Native American people.

"We hold events like the Native American Heritage Month to enhance cross-cultural awareness throughout the Army," said Sgt. 1st Class Juan Mejia, the equal opportunity advisor for 3IDSB. "The observances are an extension of the equal opportunity program and are directed to encourage interaction and not just recognition."

The event featured several depictions of Native Americans who have distinguished themselves through valorous service, Native American artifacts, food and guest speakers who spoke on their service in the military and its connection to their native roots.

"During our most recent hosted observance we were able to utilize the EO channel as a network to identify a guest speaker to share the rich culture of the American Indians," said Mejia. "The high degree of participation meant many were able to hear about the great culture, see some of the artifacts, as well as try some of the food through the food sampling provided by some of our own American Indian service members."

Sgt. 1st Class Rolanda Wilder, the guest speaker for the event and a member of the Turtle Mountain Band of Chippewa Indians, spoke during the ceremony about the similarities of the Army and a lot of native cultures.

"I love that we're so diverse and that we get to meet people from all around the world with different cultural and ethnic backgrounds," said Wilder. "Growing up it didn't matter where you came from, it was just about being a big family and the Army really represents that."

Equal opportunity events like the Native American Heritage Month also show how far the Army has come in blending the rich tapestry of cultures that make up the nation.

"I think the Army has come a long way in having these observances," said Wilder. "America is really the melting pot, but the military really represents that because we're from everywhere and we get to come together."

As the observance came to a close, Wilder would finish her speech to the audience with a message of unity.

"It is extremely important to know the history of who we are and where we all came from, not to define who we are, but to better understand each other so we can continue to grow as a United Nation."

Sgt. 1st Class Yolanda Wilder, the guest speaker for the event and a member of the Turtle Mountain Band of Chippewa Indians, addresses the audience during the Native American Heritage Month held Nov. 13 on Fort Stewart. National Native American Heritage Month is held to recognize the continuous achievements of all Americans to American culture and to increase awareness, mutual respect and understanding.

CID seeks military police investigators to join special agent warrant officers

Special to the Frontline

QUANTICO, Virginia – As part of the U.S. Army Criminal Investigation Command's continued effort to recruit the best of the best to become special agents, CID is currently seeking Military Police Investigators from career management field 31 to become CID special agent warrant officers.

"The MPIs possess valued training, investigated skills and experience," said CID's Command Chief Warrant Officer 5 Joel Fitz, who served as an MPI early in his Army career, "These Soldiers will undoubtedly bring a lot to the fight and have a positive impact on CID's highly-skilled teams by providing what they have learned from the Military Police Corps. MPIs are strongly encouraged to take the next step and take advantage of this career growing opportunity by applying now."

The application timeframe begins in December and runs through May 2021. Approved applications will be considered by warrant officer accession boards convening in Fiscal Year 2020 -21. Qualified MPI applicants are encouraged to coordinate with the USACIDC Recruiting Operations Cell at USArmy.Join-CID@mail.mil to speak with the USACIDC recruiting team regarding questions about the process and to start the application process.

Eligible applicants must be Regular Army Soldiers who hold military occupational specialty 31B or 31E in the ranks of staff sergeant, staff sergeant (promotable), and sergeant first class (non promotable). They are required to have completed V5 training at the U.S. Army Military Police School and have at least two years of investigative experience in the past four years, according to Military Personnel Message 19-346, MPI Application Requirements for Appointment to CID Warrant Officer (MOS 311A). Upon completion of the required military and law enforcement training, the Soldiers will qualify for appointment to warrant officer as a 311A. Agents receive training at the USAMPS and advanced training in a wide range of specialized investigative disciplines.

"CID agents are sworn federal law enforcement officers who investigate felony crimes with an Army nexus," said Thomas Seaman, Chief, Special Agent Management Division, and retired CID special agent. "Our highly trained special agents receive some of the most state-of-the-art law enforcement training in the world today."

CID special agents routinely work closely with other federal, state and local law enforcement agencies to solve serious crimes of corruption, fraud, homicide, sexual assault, cybercrimes and drug trafficking. They also provide protective services to high ranking DoD and Army officials.

Once individuals become CID special agents, opportunities exist to become forensic science officers, digital forensic examiners or even polygraph examiners. There are many other professional opportunities for career growth within CID.

For questions about application procedures, see MILPER 19-346, MPI Application Requirements for Appointment to CID warrant officer, or contact the CID special agent management division ROC team at USArmy.Join-CID@mail.mil or 571-305-4348, 305-4369, 305-4337 or 305-4112.

DECA expands patronage

Keith Desbois
DeCA Public Affairs

FORT LEE, Virginia – Starting Jan. 1, all service-connected disabled veterans, Purple Heart recipients, former prisoners of war and primary veteran caregivers will be eligible to shop at commissaries worldwide.

"I want to be one of the first to welcome home this group of veterans to their commissary," said retired Rear Adm. Robert J. Bianchi, DOD special assistant for commissary operations. "Whether they shopped at the commissary when they were on active duty, or are first-time shoppers, we are sure they will enjoy the savings and excellent customer experience associated with this benefit."

The newly eligible customers, about 3 million in all, will also be able to shop the military exchanges and use certain morale, welfare and recreation activities. The expanded privileges and access are the result of the 2019 National Defense Authorization Act.

The DoD, Veterans Affairs and Homeland Security (the expansion also applies to Coast Guard facilities) have partnered to make the expansion possible. Details of eligibility and military installation access follow:

- Disabled and other eligible veterans: The Veteran Health Identification card, with "Purple Heart," "Former POW" or "Service Connected" printed on the front, will be required for access to the stores.

- Caregivers: The benefit applies to the approved and designated primary family caregiver of service-connected disabled veterans who are registered in the Department of Veterans Affairs Program of Comprehensive Assistance for Family Caregivers to receive shopping privileges. Visit the VA's caregiver page for more information. The VA will send memos for caregivers to be used for access at the front gate, along with a REAL ID-compliant driver's license or other approved government-issued photo ID.

Winn touts flu drive-thru community success

Kaytrina Curtis

Winn ACH Public Affairs

On one of the coldest mornings this month, the U.S. Medical Department Activity-Fort Stewart, Winn Army Community Hospital's Installation Department of Public Health staff as well as a host of MEDDAC volunteers stood ready to immunize the Fort Stewart Soldiers, Family members, retirees and DOD Civilian population, during the two-day, 12th Annual Winn ACH Drive-Thru Flu Clinic Nov. 14 and 15.

Although pneumonia and influenza related deaths which typically occur this time year are down, so far this season, 30 states and one U.S. territory have reported flu activity. From a readiness standpoint the flu-drive thru clinic is one way Winn prepares the community.

"It's an exceptional way to get your flu vaccine, because very few installations do it this way," said Winn ACH Commander, Col. Michelle Munroe. "It allows us to vaccinate almost 2,500 people in one setting."

Major Atia Mbah, the IDPH chief said the flu clinic has far reaching affects.

"What we are doing here today is actually part of the annual pandemic exercise," Mbah said. "In case there was an outbreak of any infectious disease, and the hospital commander or the installation commander wanted us to do a mass vaccination, then we will be prepared. So this is part of what we do on an annual basis to prepare."

In less than two hours from the time the flu clinic opened, more than 500 beneficiaries had received the vaccine. Specialist Nickolas Stringer, 3rd Combat Aviation Brigade, 3rd Infantry Division found the convenience of the flu clinic a great asset to the community.

"It should be very important to the entire army to make sure you're green on MEDPROS [Medical Protection] because the battlefield doesn't stop for sickness," Stringer explained. "Overall being healthy in general should be very important to everyone."

The CDC recommends everyone 6-months of age and older should get the flu vaccine each year.

Conversely, there are those with the rare exception to receiving the shot. However, the vaccine is important for people who are at high-risk if they were to get the flu.

Family member Sabrina Chandler was one of the first cars in line to get her and her 7-month old daughter vaccinated.

"Me and my husband made the decision to get her vaccinated for everything mainly because there's a lot of stuff that with their immune systems being so weak, they can get sick very easily," Chandler said. "We don't want her to have to deal with lifelong repercussions of not getting vaccinated."

Chandler said the drive-thru flu clinic was "quick and easy."

"The only reason I had to get out of my car was help them with her," said Chandler. "It makes life just that much easier when you have a 7-month old to be able to just do something quick and easy to make sure she's safe."

The MEDDAC staff was partly driven indoors by the rain and wind second day of the clinic. Resiliently the whole team pulled together and carried out the contingency inclement weather plan. Everything was moved to the Army Wellness Center. Beneficiaries were rerouted via social media as well as physical presence at the prior location.

Although the bulk flu vaccine arrived late this year throughout the medical military region, Mbah said getting the community vaccinated before the winter travel season kicked off is important to him, and he is passionate about the clinic from a public health perspective.

"The more people you vaccinate you develop that heard immunity," Mbah explained. "From a public health standpoint you have a healthy community and it protects people from getting sick."

Munroe agrees, and said Winn's focus is on the readiness of the military community on and off the installation.

"This is not just about the active-duty force, but our installation as a whole," Munroe said.

At the end of the two-day flu clinic, more than 2,100 beneficiaries were vaccinated.

The Great American Smokeout-you can quit

Kaytrina Curtis
Winn ACH Public Affairs

Today, marks the day many have vowed to put down tobacco/nicotine related products for the Great American Smokeout.

The Fort Stewart-Hunter Army Airfield Installation Public Health Nursing department at Winn Army Community Hospital developed the Nicotine Cessation Program and is here to help.

As one of the leading causes of preventable deaths in the U.S., the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention reports more 16 million Americans have at least one disease caused by smoking. If youths were prevented from starting to use nicotine products such as vapes and smokeless tobacco, CDC officials say about $170 billion in direct medical costs could be saved yearly.

In addition to medical costs, two Soldiers currently in the cessation program said they already see the benefits of quitting the use of nicotine/tobacco products.

Staff Sargent David Hyde, Warrior Transition Unit, said he got started using nicotine products at the early age because he was influenced through his parents and sibling's usage of smokeless tobacco.

As a 31-year former user of tobacco related products, Hyde said he was prompted to seek assistance because he did not want his own children to begin using nicotine products.

"I didn't want to repeat the same mistakes my parents made with me," Hyde said. "I just wanted to break the chain and stop with me."

The program gave Hyde the right support and guidance he needs in order to quit he said.

"I quit at least a half-dozen times on my own and failed, and just went back to it," Hyde explained. "It's okay to fail as long as you keep trying."

Even though it may be hard to quit, Hyde said it is important to remember what tobacco is doing to your body, children, family, friends and career.

"Just make that conscience decision to quit," Hyde said. "There is nothing to be afraid of."

Spc. Oderi Duke, 1st Armored Brigade Combat Team, 3rd Infantry Division, used to smoke a pack of cigarettes a day for the past three years and sought help through the nicotine cessation program. Duke spent more than $2,000 a year supporting his nicotine addiction. He said his commander recommended for him to enroll in the program, but Duke wanted to go it alone.

"I am pretty sure I can do it by myself," Duke said to his commander. "Which I did before, but I fell off. But after coming to the program, [it] made me understand that it's much easier when you have a purpose and direction and understand the reason why you are quitting... it's a lot easier when you are in the program."

Duke said the organization of the program was beneficial for him to quit. Participants have to journal why they want to quit, be it family, career, children, when writing down his reasons, Duke was motivated to quit using nicotine products.

"They are actually going to give you a plan. So you are going to set up a date where you actually quit," Duke said. "They are not forcing you to quit, they slowly wean you off of it [nicotine]. If you need it [additional help], they give you medications."

Duke said he would tell others who were seeking solutions to kick the habit to get help and not be embarrassed.

"If you want to quit, it shouldn't matter," Duke advised. "Just go get help."

For those interested in setting a new healthy-habit goal, the Cessation Program has three locations available: Tuttle Army Health Clinic on Thursdays from 10-11 a.m. at Hunter Army Airfield; Richmond Hill Medical Home from Thursdays from 10-11 a.m.; and here at Winn ACH on Tuesdays from 10-11 a.m. or Wednesdays from 3-4 p.m.

To get into the program patients can visit their primary care provider or call the MEDDAC appointment line to schedule to be seen at one of the aforementioned locations. The process for getting into the program is as easy as calling 435-6633. The program is four-weeks long and follow-up is available for continued support.

To see the full video interview, visit the Winn ACH Facebook page at <https://www.facebook.com/winncares/videos/2288297308148762>.

Today is the day to quit. Look for an update on this exciting project in 2020!

Pile up some rocks for Thanksgiving

Capt. Jonathan Howard
2-69 Armor Chaplain

“And whatever you do, whether in word or deed, do it all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God the Father through him.” Colossians 3:17

This Thanksgiving, I want to encourage you to start a new tradition. Make a pile of rocks as a way to remember and be thankful!

Most of us have some type of Thanksgiving tradition that we do every year. Whether it’s food, football, or fun, this is a great time of year to be with family and friends. Being in the Army can be challenging, so it’s easy to focus on the not so great parts of it.

This holiday I would like to encourage you and your family to remember those things in your life that are worth celebrating.

Author Jefferson Bethke wrote, “Thankfulness is the quickest path to joy.” You might be wondering what making a pile of rocks has anything to do with Thanksgiving and having joy. Well, let me tell you. In the Old Testament of the Bible, in the book of Joshua 3 and 4, God stopped the overflowing Jordan river so the people could cross over to safety. God saved them! Surely this would be something to celebrate for many years to come.

Much like the Israelites, we are quick to forget the many ways that God has blessed us. After they had crossed the river, they took 12 rocks (one for each tribe) from the river bed to make a large pile as a way to remember what God had done.

Years later, as they would walk by the Jordan River with their children, and they would see that pile of rocks, the kids would ask, “Why is that there?” The parents could then share with their children about how God had saved them. I don’t know about you, but I need to make some more “piles of rocks” for myself and my family so we can remember.

Let’s not forget the many ways that God has been kind to us. It’s so easy to focus on those parts of life that aren’t going the way we would like.

Forgetting what God has done in our lives is the quickest way to lose our joy.

So this Thanksgiving, amid all the turkey and dressing, remember to make a “pile of rocks” and remember the many ways that you are blessed and give thanks!

703rd BSB Soldiers recognized at Florida State University military appreciation football game

Spc. Devron Bost

2nd Brigade Combat Team, 3rd Infantry Division Public Affairs

Florida State University thanked military members both past and present during the previous weekend football game.

FSU also invited members of the 703rd Brigade Support Battalion, 2nd Armored Brigade Combat Team, 3rd Infantry Division, to watch the Florida State Seminoles play Alabama State University at Doak Campbell Stadium in Tallahassee, Florida, Nov. 16.

Each year FSU hosts an annual military appreciation football game to recognize the selfless service of service members, retirees, and family members of those who have served in the military.

Before the event kicked off, the Soldiers from 703rd meet with the players from both football teams then moved to the center of the field where the crowd recognized them with applause.

Throughout the event the Seminoles expressed their appreciation for the Soldiers coming to the game, the fans and the opposing team as they put on an epic competition.

"Having my brother Sgt. Trevor Lloyd, a biomedical equipment technician from 703rd BSB, 2ABCT, 3rd ID, and Soldiers across the U.S. attending our football games each year is a dream come true," said Tight End Tre' Mckitty. The respect I have for the military is unreal as they sacrifice their lives every day in order for civilians to live a safe life."

The Seminoles scored on the first play of the game with a 69-yard touchdown pass to wide receiver Tamorrion Terry. During the second quarter they took a lead of 21-6 leaving Alabama State with only two field goals. In the second half of the game, the Seminoles went on a scoring spree and were able to add 28 additional points to the scoreboard.

The game finished with a final score of FSU 49, Alabama State 12.
