Special to the Frontline

A new digital app will be released to Fort Stewart-Hunter Army Airfield beginning Aug. 5.

Digital Garrison is a one-stop information source for Army communities.

The app puts real-time information into Soldiers', Families', and civilians' hands and keeps military communities connected, a key part of readiness and resiliency.

The app is customizable to provide information specific to one of 62 Army garrisons selected by its user. It will replace all locally-managed apps such as the existing Fort Stewart-Hunter Army Airfield app. However, the existing app is still available in the Apple and Google Play stores.

In addition to online shopping through AAFES, users can access customized information such as gate hours, an installation Directorate of Family and Morale, Welfare and Recreation events and facility information, and garrison-specific push notifications, among other functions.

The Digital Garrison app is available for free download on both iPhone and Android devices.

Command Sgt. Maj. Michael Coffey, right, senior enlisted advisor for 3rd Infantry Division, passes the 3rd ID colors to Maj. Gen. Tony Aguto, commander of the 3rd Infantry Division, during Coffey's relinquishment of responsibility ceremony, July 31, on Fort Stewart. Coffey assumed responsibility of the 3rd ID and Fort Stewart-Hunter Army Airfield on Jan. 29, 2019.

Forever a Dogface Soldier; senior enlisted advisor moves on

Master Sgt. Shelia Cooper
3rd ID Public Affairs

The 3rd Infantry Division held a relinquishment of responsibility ceremony July 31, at Marne Garden outside of the command's headquarters on Fort Stewart.

Command Sgt. Maj. Michael Coffey, relinquished his roles and responsibilities after serving 19 months as the senior enlisted advisor for the division and Hunter Army Airfield.

During his tenure, Coffey played a vital role in essential division operations both tactically and nontactically. He advised the commander, instilled discipline, mentored, and set the standard for all to emulate all while preparing units for rotations to the Joint Readiness Training Center and National Training Center and deployments around the world.

Maj. Gen. Tony Augto, commanding general of 3rd ID presided over the ceremony.

"Mike Coffey is not flashy or loud, he is actually the 'E.F Hutton' of our Division, when he speaks everyone stops to listen," Aguto said. "He is a gritty, tough, wise and caring leader and he is the epitome of a Dogface Soldier."

Aguto stated that during hurricanes, mission changes, deployments and a global pandemic, that Coffey coached the Division to stay the course, use common sense and simply embrace it because this operational environment is the new norm.

Aguto touched on Coffey's impact throughout the Marne Division.

"No one is more professional than I, the Noncommissioned Officer Creed that has served our Army well and helped build an NCO Corps that is the envy of every military across the world," Aguto said. "Mike Coffey lived that every day, he led by example, lived by example and every day wanted to make Soldiers and their lives better. Whether in the field, in motorpool, on the street, or in the post exchange, he would stop what he was doing... not to make a correction, but to simply talk to Soldiers and ask, 'hey, how are you doing today,' and 'what can I do to help?'"

Although Coffey was selected to serve as the senior enlisted advisor for the United States Military Academy West Point in New York, he will still have the ability to impact Soldiers lives.

"While we are sad to see Command Sgt. Major Coffey and [his wife] Leslie depart Fort Stewart, I am incredibly excited to know that they are heading to the United States Military Academy in West Point, New York, and will help shape the next generation of future leaders for our Army."

With his selection and new position, Coffey will serve alongside Lt. Gen. Darryl A. Williams, current USMA commander.

During the ceremony Coffey took a few minutes to focus on the impact senior leaders made on the Marne community.

"To the brigade and battalion commanders and command sergeants major, there is no mistaking this simple truth, you and the formations you lead are absolutely what makes any adversary think twice before doing anything silly. You have the hardest yet most rewarding responsibilities of all of us because the orders you give and the decisions you make have the greatest impacts. Remember always to take care of your Soldiers and each other and every things else will work itself out."

Coffey thanked his fellow leaders at the Marne Division, Fort Stewart, Hunter Army Airfield and the local communities for all of their support.

"Thanks for allowing me into your formations," Coffey said. "Thanks for trusting me with your biggest challenges and concerns and for always giving me the best seat in the house to watch the lethality and power of your formations and for your dedication to remain ready and responding where needed."

Coffey thanked everyone for being there for him, his family, and for making sacrifices to better the Division and Army.

His final remarks to the Marne Division, Fort Stewart and Hunter Airfield were simple.

"I miss you all already," said Coffey. "My name is Mike Coffey, and I will forever be a Dogface Soldier."

Paymasters set to deploy, provide services

Spc. Marquis Hopkins
31DSB Public Affairs

Soldiers from the Detachment B, 24th Financial Management Support Unit, Special Troops Battalion, 3rd Infantry Division Sustainment Brigade, held a virtual color casing ceremony July 27 on Fort Stewart.

The Paymasters with Det. B, 24th FMSU, conducted the casing ahead of their deployment to Qatar where they will provide financial support for forces deployed in the area.

The colors casing ceremony is a traditional ceremony held by Army units that symbolizes the unit's movement if operations from their home station to their deployed area of operations.

"I was ecstatic to train and plan for this upcoming mission," said Capt. Estee Robinson, commander of Det. B, 24th FMSU. "Being able to take command and deploy with my Soldiers is a dream come true."

The 24th FMSU participated in multiple training events to get them prepared for this deployment. The detachment participated in a field training exercise in March training on disbursing, commercial vendor services and military pay support operations in an austere environment.

The unit also completed their validation exercise with U.S. Army Financial Management Command June 8-12 on Fort Stewart.

"Honestly, I am very excited about this deployment because I feel like this is what the Army is all about," said Pfc. Bryanca Cheeks, a disbursing technician with Det. B, 24th FMSU. "Being with 3rd Sustainment Brigade it is our responsibility to sustain the force and our team is ready to provide our services."

The VALEX focused on the various financial management operations the detachment would conduct while deployed and ensured that the Soldiers from the detachment were proficient in their skills.

"I expect my unit to be successful in providing financial management support to all military personnel, contractors, and civilians," Robinson said. "I have a great team, and we are ready to deploy and complete the mission."

With 24th FMSU being a small unit deploying, every Soldier will have a huge responsibility to add to their team. The many training exercises gave the Soldiers the expected knowledge that they will need down range to ensure they are ready to provide high-quality support.

"I am excited to have this opportunity and to be able to gain the experience down range," said Spc. Idai Austin a disbursing technician with 24th FMSU. "I've prayed for greatness and safe travels, plus we're the Paymasters! We're ready to sustain the force."

The unit held a final ceremony Aug. 4, where they said their goodbyes to Families and the rest of the 24th FMSU before departing Fort Stewart.

Auto, recreation services reopen on Hunter

Daniel Malta

Hunter Army Airfield Public Affairs

While essential services such as the commissary and gas stations have remained open through the COVID-19 pandemic, the Hunter Army Airfield Splash Park and Auto Skills Center opened back up Aug. 1.

“We know that all these limitations and closures have been tough on everyone,” said Andy Arrington, Tominac Fitness Center facility manager. “Believe me when I say, we are more than excited that we get to open back up these services to our community.”

While open, both services will have limitations to ensure the safety of patrons.

The Hunter Auto Skills Center will operate at 50% capacity, will only allow two guest per bay and require everyone in the facility to wear a face covering. The Splash Park is only allowing 20 people to play at once, counting both parents and children over the age of 3.

While services have been limited, the community’s continued patronage is necessary in order for services to remain open long term.

“We are not a fully funded program and have to make money to keep these doors open, so running at least 50% is necessary,” said Keith Pritchett, Hunter Auto Skills Center facility manager.

Even if Soldiers and community members are not an experienced mechanic, the Hunter Auto Skills Center has readily available resources to assist patrons in most repairs.

“We are here to guide and teach you all and help provide one-on-one instruction when possible,” said Randy Schmitz, automotive technician with Fort Stewart’s Libby Auto Skills Center. “Not only will we help you, but we have great automotive software at both facilities that provide step-by-step instruction.”

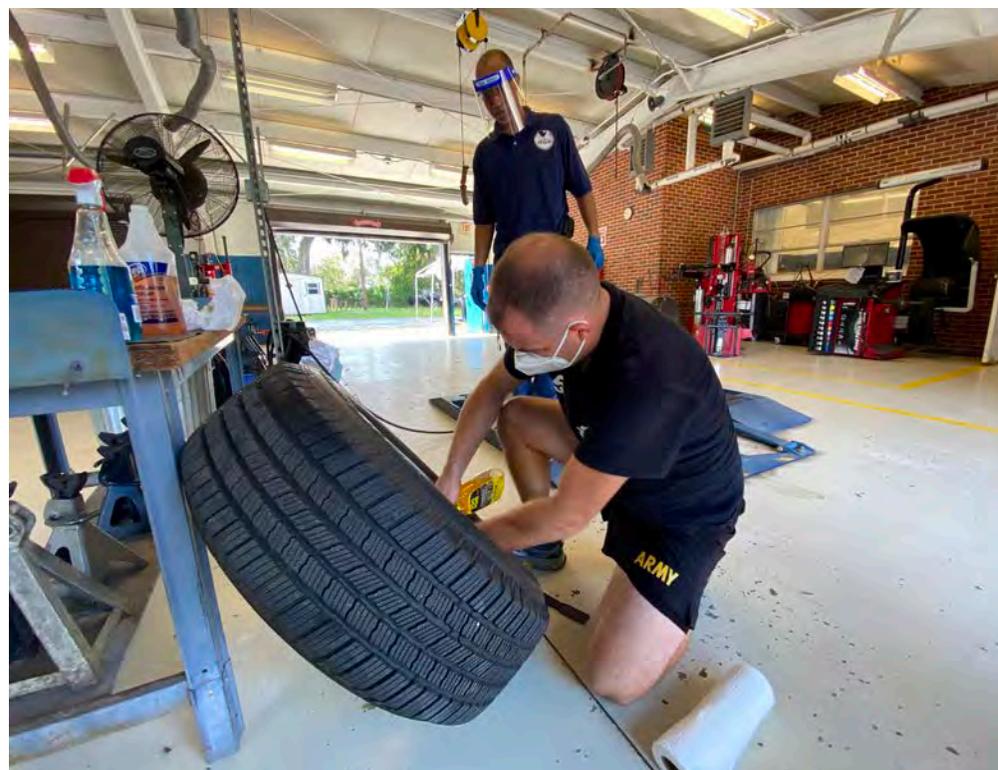

According to Schmitz, the facility can support everything from an oil change to replacing a motor or changing out a transmission.

The Splash Park will be open Thursday through Monday from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. The Hunter Auto Skills Center will be open Saturday and Sunday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Both the Splash Park and Auto Skills Center have associated costs. For information visit StewartHunter.ArmyMWR.com.

Rental scams on the rise

Criminal Investigation Division

QUANTICO, Va. — Housing rental scams are on the rise worldwide. The U.S. Army Criminal Investigation Command, commonly known as CID, reminds the Army community to be cautious when responding to any advertisement regarding home or apartment rentals.

According to Edward Labarge, director of CID's Major Cybercrime Unit, scammers use a variety of tactics to steal people's money before the victim determines the listing is fake.

"A typical rental scam works by a property being listed at a low price, usually below market rate, to get the attention of potential renters," said Labarge. "Then the scammers will pressure the renters to pay a deposit and the first and last month's rent to secure the rental."

Army CID reports there are currently millions of fake listings for apartments, duplexes, and houses listed on classified ads and reputable rental sites worldwide. The scam is accomplished when rentals are advertised, but they do not actually exist, are no longer available, or are up for sale.

"Rental scams will be more prevalent in larger metro areas where there are a large number of real estate rentals on the market," said Labarge. "This makes it easy for these types of scams to go unnoticed due to the large volume of rentals."

Although rental scams may be targeted toward anyone seeking a rental property, military members may be more prone to falling victim due to frequent permanent change of station moves.

Labarge also said areas surrounding military installations are targeted due to competitive rental markets and service-members having unique housing situations where they may not be available to view a property in person prior to arriving in the area.

Fake listings often lure victims in by offering military discounts, low rent, good neighborhoods, and great amenities.

"If a house or apartment is being listed well below market norms, there is a reason," said Labarge. "If it's too good to be true, it usually is. Also, a good telltale sign that the listing is a scam is that the landlords won't want to meet you in person or there is no screening process. Every landlord will want to make sure they meet you in person, no matter how brief since they are making a major decision to trust that you'll follow the rules of the lease."

Protect yourself

- Do not rely solely on email to contact the owner and be wary of foreign telephone numbers.
- Do online research of the rental company, property address, and the owner. Conduct a reverse image search of the photos to see where else the images are being used.
- Ask for additional photos. The actual owner or property manager should be able to provide additional photos
- Compare rent amount to other rentals in the area.
- Take a tour, or have someone you know in the area tour for you, in person or by video.
- Call the company to verify before signing a lease agreement.
- Never pay a security deposit, first month's rent, or application fee with cash, wire transfers, gift cards, prepaid cards, or payment apps because once you send it, there is no way to get your money back.
- Obtain and review a copy of any contract prior to sending any money or providing any personal information.
- Do not make rush decisions. Scammers will often pressure suspecting victims to complete the deal quickly due to increased interest in the property, creating a false sense of urgency.

In addition, the Criminal Investigation Command's Major Cybercrime Unit continues to warn the Army community of ongoing Coronavirus-themed phishing attacks impersonating organizations with the end goal of stealing information and delivering malware.

Labarge said the Major Cybercrime Unit continues to "aggressively pursue cybercriminals both domestic and abroad who target our Soldier's and their Families in their online campaigns."

Hundreds gather at vast outdoor space

Kevin Larson

Fort Stewart Public Affairs

Outdoor enthusiasts from across southeast Georgia gathered at Fort Stewart's Holbrook Pond Aug. 1 to see all the recreational activities the installation has to offer.

The event was host by the installation's Directorate of Family and Morale, Welfare, and Recreation.

More than 300 people gathered at socially distant intervals across the vast outdoor space to learn how to participate in outdoor recreation. The big draw was the lottery for 29 alligator hunting tags—a first at Fort Stewart.

Susan Chipple, DFMWR's recreation division chief, said more than 450 people signed up for a chance to win an alligator tag. Georgia's Department of Natural Resources was instrumental in making the alligator hunting season possible on Fort Stewart.

"Today's event was designed around the upcoming first ever alligator hunting season," Chipple said. "We decided to take that event and showcase what outdoor recreation has to offer, not only to the Soldiers and Families, but to the general public."

Outdoor facilities open to the public include skeet shooting, the rifle range, the archery range and paint ball.

Equipment checkout, like boats and kayaks, are restricted to DoD ID cardholders only, Chipple said.

The outdoor recreation open house also featured information displays by Fort Stewart's Directorate of Public Work's Fish and Wildlife, Forestry, and Environmental branches, and Directorate of Emergency Service's Conservation Law Enforcement.

The law enforcement display included information on how to properly hunt, fish and boat in the installation's outdoors. It also featured a robotic turkey and deer—controlled by the game warden—used to catch poachers and out-of-season hunters.

The environmental exhibits included an opportunity to go out on the pond with a shock boat to catch fish. The installation's biologists use the boat to stun and scoop up fish for population studies. Once counted, the fish are released, unharmed.

258th Movement Control Team Soldiers reintegrate

Spc. Pablo Ulloa
31D SB Public Affairs

The Soldiers from the 258th Movement Control Team, Special Troops Battalion, 3rd Infantry Division Sustainment Brigade, held a Family Readiness Group event July 31st on Hunter Army Airfield.

The event was held to help reintegrate the Soldiers, who recently returned from a 10-month deployment in the Middle East, with their Families and build camaraderie and esprit de corps within the organization.

"Family Readiness Groups are important to get the Families involved with the unit, help with events and fundraisers, but most of all helps build a giant comradery between the Soldiers and Families together," said the director of the 258th MCT's FRG Kayla Jenkins. "The FRG is a support system, so you have to understand who is part of it, what they need and know them at a personal level so that when they are having a bad day we can recognize it."

Another area of emphasis for the event was to introduce the recently returned Soldiers to their new company commander and FRG director.

"We're going to try to do some kind of event like once a month," said Capt. Loren Jenkins, the commander of 258th MCT. "Obviously with COVID we've got to be careful. We kind of have to space things out and make it as safe as we can and encourage social distancing and wearing a mask."

The Soldiers of 258th MCT welcomed the involvement of the FRG in helping to build cohesion within the unit.

"This is something that we haven't really had before," said 1st Lt. Bailey Austin, a movement control officer with 258th MCT. "It really builds cohesion with Family and getting the Family involved, getting them to feel involved with the unit and just getting people together."

The event also allowed the Soldiers and Families and opportunity to reintegrate.

"It gave us a chance to meet everybody's Families and the new people," said Sgt. Carter Quantavius, a movement Non-Commissioned Officer with 258th MCT. "It gives us a chance to mingle and get back to society."

The event will be part of an ongoing effort to continue building the unit's morale and cohesion.

"I think it went pretty well," Jenkins said. "It's our first one, so we kind of gave everyone a taste of what we are looking for in the unit. It's our first big step to building a stronger unit and a stronger Family base foundation for our Soldiers."

Combat veteran saves life of Hinesville neighbor

Pat Young
Winn ACH

Sgt. Scott Barron, a noncommissioned officer assigned to Winn Army Community Hospital, was sitting at home June 27 with his wife when his training, quick reflexes and courage lead him to save a neighbor's life in Hinesville.

Barron and his wife, Gianni, were talking in their living room, when a loud noise erupted from outside their house.

Barron went to the window to investigate.

"Initially, it sounded like my neighbor was throwing something away when the wind took the lid and slammed it shut," Barron said.

Then, he heard screams of pain in the rainy night.

Barron, who deployed to Africa in 2013 to 2014 in support of Operation Enduring Freedom as a combat veteran, went into action.

He ran toward the screams and discovered an accident scene between a bicyclist and an automobile.

Barron saw the cyclist had significant injuries, including a wound to the left arm that was bleeding profusely.

Barron asked the nurse to stay with the cyclist and ran to his house for his aid bag.

Upon his return, he saw blood loss as the most significant threat and applied a combat application tourniquet to the cyclist's upper left arm.

The rain was so heavy, Barron said he didn't know if the tourniquet had stopped the bleeding.

He felt for a pulse and felt movement, so he added another twist to tighten the tourniquet and applied 4x4 gauze to determine if the bleeding continued.

The blood didn't penetrate the gauze.

He was satisfied the bleeding was controlled – at least for the moment.

Jim Ochoa, Chief of Emergency Services, said the cyclist was received at the Level 4 Trauma Center at Winn ACH, stabilized and transferred out for follow-up care.

Ochoa said it was good Barron was there.

"Barron was aware of the seriousness of the injury and was able to apply his Army training to provide lifesaving care," Ochoa said.

Barron was commended on his swift actions by fellow Winn ACH workers.

"I think it's natural to want to help out when you see someone is in need," he said. "I think learning some basic first aid skills goes a long way; they pay dividends in the long run."

He said he appreciates the combat lifesaver skills taught by the Army, which ultimately aided him in saving the victim's life.

"You never know when something crazy will happen; I just wish I could have done more for the guy on the scene."

The American Red Cross website, redcross.org, offers a variety of first aid classes and training resources and promotes blood donation opportunities.

CHAPLAIN'S CORNER

Challenges of the heart

Maj. Angel Berrios
DIVARTY Chaplain

As the senior pastor of the Gospel Service at the Main Post Chapel on Fort Stewart, I would like to encourage and challenge Soldiers and their Family members to consider the following heart issue in light of the following counsel.

And do not grieve the Holy Spirit of God, with whom you were sealed for the day of redemption. Get rid of all bitterness, rage and anger, brawling and slander, along with every form of malice. (Ephesians 4:30-31)

Bitterness - the word even sounds ugly. Bitterness grows when people feed their hurts and anger which results in a long-standing resentment that refuses to be reconciled. In time, the actual offenses blow out of proportion. The problem at hand and to one's personal detriment, these people have not yet learned how to forgive.

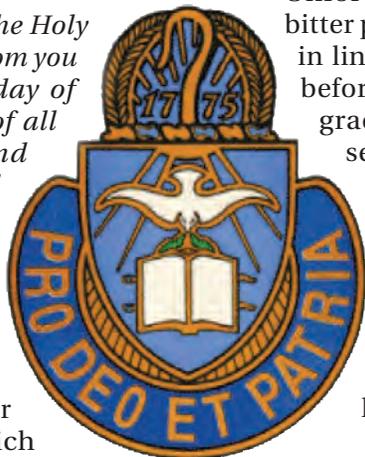

Bitterness is a disposition that expresses the heart with a tongue as sharp as a razor. Resentment is alive and well in this person. As a result, it belittles others as a way of communication. They will sting others with words and tones because of an uncontrollable habit of "flying off the handle" or better yet, becoming extremely angry. The repercussions are devastating as this person interacts with others.

Unfortunately, we all know bitter people. I will be the first in line to examine my heart before God's mercy, love and grace. I have personally seen the results of bitterness and I refuse to be bitter as a representative of the family of faith. Let me close by encouraging you to cling to the sacred words that follow:

See to it that no one falls short of the grace of God and that no bitter root grows up to cause trouble and defile many. (Hebrews 12:15)

These are words of wisdom for the heart. I pray the God will richly bless you as you meditate and grow from the inside out. As this is a matter of the heart.
