Memories that help light the way

Kevin Larson
Fort Stewart Public Affairs

Red, white, and blue candles arranged in the shape of heart flickered gentle in the dusk on Fort Stewart's Cottrell Field Sept. 29 as 14 Gold Star Families and other attendees gathered to honor the memory of fallen service members.

One by one or in small groups, the families and other guests placed additional luminaries onto the large concrete Marne patch in front of the parade field's reviewing stand as the sun left a pink blaze on the western horizon.

The event, hosted by the installation's Survivor Outreach Services, happens annually around Gold Star Mother's Day. Gold Star Families from throughout Georgia, Florida, and South Carolina attend the event.

The 3rd Infantry Division's deputy commander for maneuver, Col. (P) Andrew C. Hilmes, told guests the evening's dinner at Club Stewart, followed by the luminary display at the field, is in remembrance and celebration of loved ones and friends lost while serving the nation.

"We reminded our (Gold Star) Families, that we too, share their grief, that they are not alone," Hilmes said.

The 486 white-blooming crape myrtle trees of Warriors Walk stood silent sentinel during the ceremony. The closeness of the living memorial to the parade field, where farewells and homecomings occur, is deliberate, Hilmes said.

"They are fitting locations for community tributes like tonight," he said. "They also serve as a place for individual reflection.

They are a sanctuary where we can retreat to after a long day to reminisce and to feel closer to loved ones and battle buddies taken from us far too early. They can also help us reset our frame of mind and clarify our sense of purpose when the toll of grief and despair seem overwhelming."

The heart-shaped luminary display on the field is a strong symbol, Hilmes said. While physical memorials weather with the passing of time, memories endure.

"The flame of the candles symbolizes the light that lives on in each of us, especially our Gold Star Families, as they continue to adapt to their new normal," he said. "It is our personal memories of the fallen that never fade and they continue to light the way for us. Like the light of a candle, those memories keep our hearts warm."

Sgt. Ryan Tatum
3rd CAB Public Affairs

The sun rose, in vibrant orange and red hues. The winds were low and the pillow like clouds filled the sky which set the perfect conditions for a CH-47 Chinook to fly.

After dedicating more than 25 years of his mind, body, and spirit to the Army and the American people, Master Sgt. Dean DeGenaro, took his final flight as a crew chief for Company B, 2nd Battalion, 3rd Aviation Regiment, 3rd Combat Aviation Brigade, 3rd Infantry Division, on a CH-47 Chinook Sept. 11, at Hunter Army Airfield.

The final flight is a tradition held by aviators to honor the pilots and crew chiefs to signify the end of their Army career.

A San Diego native, DeGenaro grew up knowing what he wanted to at an early age.

"I joined the U.S. Army February 1994," he said. "I knew aviation was the only thing I wanted to do. It was the camaraderie that really got me."

DeGenaro, a rugged person, showed his emotions when he began to talk about his retirement.

"Leaving the Army is very surreal," he said. "I am leaving something has been my life and I know that it is something that I will never do again, it feels like your burying a loved one."

DeGenaro recalled some of his favorite recollections from his service, personally and professionally.

"Personally, watching young crew members - Soldiers, grow into positions of greater responsibility. Knowing you had a hand in their education and mentorship," said DeGenaro. "Mechanically, breaking down a helicopter to its hull and rebuilding it in seven hours. To see it fly away with your combat arms bothers -- it was remarkable."

He went on many missions. One of his toughest moments was during Operation

Red Wing where he lost half his company.

"I lost some of the closest people to me on that mission," said DeGenaro. "A total of 22 people, some of them we grew up in the ranks together. We even lost the first sergeant and commander."

Command Sgt. Maj. Brandon Roush, the senior advisor for 3rd Battalion, 160th Special Operations Regiment, spoke about DeGenaro's character.

"This man is truly one in a million, there will never be another like him," said Roush. "Things you would not know about him is the amount of pain he would be in. You would never know because he is not the type to complain. He just gets the job done."

Roush has known DeGenaro for more than a decade. He knows why DeGenaro has lasted so long.

"He stayed strong because he is truly dedicated to his Family," Roush said. "Together they have stayed strong in their faith."

DeGenaro was surrounded by friends and loved ones from 3rd CAB and Special Operations when he took his last flight.

With the sun setting on DeGenaro's back, he walked away from the CH-47 Chinook, officially closing the book of DeGenaro's Army career.

Spouse reintegration training on-going

As Soldiers from the 3rd ID return from deployment, we want to ensure spouses and Families are properly prepared. Rear detachment commanders and family readiness groups are encouraged to reach out to ACS and schedule a spouse reintegration training, which consists of facilitated small group discussions regarding finances, stress management, effective communication and more. To schedule a training event for your unit, please call 767-1257.

Love beyond words class is on-going

A good relationship is one which allows for change and growth and for two people to forge a lifetime of memories with each other. Highly effective relationships also allow for growth in the expression of love whether it be action or words. The Family Advocacy Program professionals would like to help you learn how to "Live every moment and laugh every day". Come, express your love, and show your partner how much you truly care not by words but with action. Call 767-2882 at Fort Stewart or 315-3816 at Hunter for further information.

Five love languages courses offered

Do you want to learn how to express heartfelt commitment to your mate? If you do, then come and learn about the five love languages. Learn how to identify and apply them to your everyday life with your spouse. Come by your local ACS Family Advocacy Program and get more information on the class. We hope to see you in the class so you can better understand your spouse's "Love Language". For more information visit the Army Community Service or call 767-2882 or 315-3816.

Play mornings held

Did you know that play is important to healthy brain development? Please join us to learn and play at the Army Community Service play morning. Play Morning features music, story time, crafts, interactive play and an awesome way for parents and children to make lasting friendships. Fort Stewart play morning is located inside the Youth Sports and Fitness Center, building 7338 on Thursdays from 10:30 a.m. to noon. Hunter Army Airfield Play Morning is located in building 6054 on Tuesdays from 10 -11:30 a.m. For questions or concerns please contact the ACS New Parent Support Program at 767-2882 at Fort Stewart or 315-3816 at Hunter.

Sustainment Soldier earns EFMB

Special to the Frontline

PAJU, Republic of Korea -- Pfc. Emily A. Sperling, Dallas native and combat medic, 3rd Brigade Support Battalion, 1st Armored Brigade Combat Team, 3rd Infantry Division, earned the prestigious Expert Field Medical Badge on her first attempt at Warrior Base Sept. 22. at the 8th Army EFMB testing.

The EFMB is only earned by those most qualified field medical personnel who demonstrate exceptional competence and outstanding performance through medical proficiency, Warrior skills and physical ability.

It is not easy or common to obtain the EFMB on a first-time attempt, but Sperling proved it was possible.

"The fact that so few privates attempt to earn the badge motivated me to compete," said Sperling. "Crossing the finish line after the 12-mile ruck march, knowing I had accomplished my goal was the most rewarding part of this experience."

Sperling was one of three Raider Soldiers to earn the EFMB along with Sgt. James Binswanger and Capt. Colin Massey.

ACS spotlights Diane Smith

Michelline Turnbow
ACS Marketing

Diane Smith, Army Community Services Deputy Director, can be described as someone who cares about you and your well-being. She is dedicated to the community. She values outstanding customer service and wishes to spread the ACS message throughout our community.

Smith said the staff at Fort Stewart and Hunter Army Airfield are professional and offer essential programs that often help transitioning Families, especially those who are new to the military. Whether you are a spouse, a parent or a child, transitioning into military life can be hectic and Smith aims to make that transition as smooth as possible. She notes they didn't have programs like the Army Family Team Building Program when she was a military spouse. She feels there was a strong need. Smith encourages spouses and family members to engage the community and learn about military culture and customs.

"There is a place for everyone at ACS" Smith said. She adds ACS can provide assistance ranging from the Exceptional Family Member Program to Survivor Outreach Services.

Smith emphasized how when you use ACS programs, not only will they try to meet your needs; but they'll treat you with kindness and respect.

For more information visit any of the ACS at 71 Lindquist Road on Fort Stewart, or check out www.facebook.com/TeamStewartACS.

Fire Prevention Week openhouse begins

Jose Sanchez
Chief of Prevention, Training

Today's home fires burn faster than ever. In a typical home fire, you may have as little as one to two minutes to escape safely from the time the smoke alarm sounds. Knowing how to use that time wisely takes planning and practice.

The Fort Stewart -Hunter Army Airfield fire department is teaming up with the National Fire Protection Association - the official sponsor of Fire Prevention Week for more than 50 years, to promote this year's Fire Prevention Week campaign, "Look. Listen. Learn. Be aware. Fire can happen anywhere" which works to educate the public about essential ways to quickly and safely escape a home fire.

NFPA statistics show that the number of U.S. home fires has been steadily declining over the past few decades. However, the death rate per 1000 home fires that are reported to fire departments was 10 percent higher in 2016 than in 1980.

"These numbers show that while we've made significant progress in teaching people how to prevent fires from happening, there's still much more work to do in terms of educating the public about how to protect themselves in the event of one," said Lorraine Carli, NFPA's vice president of Outreach and Advocacy. "This is particularly critical given the increased speed at which today's home fires grow and spread."

Carli said although people feel safest in their home, it is also the place people are at greatest risk to fire, with four out of five U.S. fire deaths occurring at home. Avoid complacency in home escape planning and practice.

"Working in the fire service for many years, we know that people often make choices in fire situations that jeopardize their safety or even cost them their lives," said Inspector Gaitten of the installation fire department. "We need to do a better job of teaching people about the potentially life-saving difference escape planning and practice can make and motivating them to action."

Gaitten says this year's "Look. Listen. Learn." campaign highlights three steps people can take to help quickly and safely escape a fire:

- Look for places fire could start.
- Listen for the sound of the smoke alarm.
- Learn two ways out of every room.

"Situational awareness is a skill people need to use wherever they go," said Inspector Gaitten "No matter where you are, look for available exits. If the alarm system sounds, take it seriously and exit the building immediately."

The installation will host events for Fire Prevention Week at grade schools, day cares, the Exchanges, commissary, post library and off post Pre-Ks. For more information visit www.firepreventionweek.

Good grades pay with AAFES program

The Army and Air Force Exchange Service's You Made the Grade program is rewarding Fort Stewart-Hunter students who excel in the classroom during the 2018-19 school year.

Through You Made the Grade, first-through 12th-graders with a B average or higher are eligible to receive a $5 Exchange gift card every grading period during the 2018-19 school year. Students can also enter the worldwide sweepstakes to win a $2,000, $1,500 or $500 Exchange gift card.

To receive a $5 Exchange gift card, students must present a valid military I.D. and proof of a B average or higher during any 2018-19 school year grading period at the Fort Stewart-Hunter Exchange customer service area.

As military families transition from one duty station to another, children often attend many different schools. According to Department of Defense Education Activity studies, the average child in a military family will move six to nine times during a school career—three times more often than non-military families.

"Military students encounter obstacles related to their family's frequent moves and changing surroundings," said Fort Stewart-Hunter Exchange General Manager Common B. Orris. "The Fort Stewart-Hunter Army Airfield Exchanges appreciates the sacrifices military students make. It's an honor to celebrate their achievements in the classroom."

Since February 2000, the Exchange's You Made the Grade program, has rewarded nearly 200 military students for their academic achievements through prizes worth $540,000.

The You Made the Grade sweepstakes entry forms are on the back of the gift card carrier. Students can send completed forms to:

You Made the Grade
PO Box 227398
Dallas, TX 75222-7398

Students can submit one sweepstakes entry per grading period, with drawings typically held in June and December.

National Disability Employment Awareness Month

Special to the Frontline

National Disability Employment Awareness Month is observed each October. This observance celebrates the many and varied contributions of America's workers with disabilities.

The return of service members with disabilities from World War II sparks public interest in the contributions of people with disabilities in the workplace. On August 11, 1945, President Harry S. Truman approved a Congressional resolution declaring the first week in October "National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week." In 1962, the word "physically" was removed to acknowledge the employment needs and contributions of individuals with all types of disabilities.

In his Sept. 28, Presidential Proclamation, President Donald J. Trump states.... "On average, in 2018, more than 5.6 million men and women with disabilities have been employed each month, which is on pace to be the highest annual level ever recorded. Earlier this year, the unemployment rate for Americans with disabilities reached the lowest rate ever recorded. These are positive indicators, and ones that continue to highlight the incredible value that individuals with disabilities offer to the workforce. To accelerate this momentum and build on my promise to America's workers, I signed an Executive Order establishing the National Council for the American Worker. This initiative will develop a national strategy that guarantees American workers have the ability to learn the skills needed to secure sustained employment, especially in high-demand industries, such as medicine, science, and technology. This national strategy will outline policies to provide all Americans, including Americans with disabilities, more opportunities to work, earn competitive wages, and connect with others worldwide." To read the Proclamation go to www.whitehouse.gov/presidential-actions/presidential-proclamation-national-disability-employment-awareness-month-2018/.

On Dec. 31, the Defense Health Agency's TRICARE Retiree Dental Program will end. However, as directed in the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2017, retired uniformed service members and their Families, who were eligible for TRDP, can enroll in the Federal Employees Dental and Vision Insurance Program. The first enroll in FEDVIP will be during the next Federal Benefits Open Season, Nov. 12 through Dec. 10, with coverage effective Jan. 1, 2019.

TRICARE holds open season

Special to the Frontline

Do you want to make enrollment changes to your or your family member's TRICARE plan for 2019? Your chance is around the corner during TRICARE Open Season.

Open season is an annual period when you can enroll in or change your healthcare coverage plan for the next year. TRICARE beneficiaries will experience

Open Season for the first time Nov. 12-Dec 10. TRICARE Open Season will happen each year from the Monday of the second full week in November to the Monday of the second full week in December. Enrollment choices made during this period take effect on Jan. 1.

During TRICARE Open Season, you may enroll in or change your TRICARE Prime or TRICARE Select plan. Any changes you make take effect on Jan. 1, 2019.

If you remain eligible and make no changes during TRICARE Open Season, you'll stay in the same plan for 2019. You may also change your type of enrollment, for example switching from individual to family enrollment.

Outside of the TRICARE Open Season period, you may still enroll in or change enrollment within 90 days after you or a family member experience a Qualifying Life Event. For more information please contact TRICARE at 800-444-5445.

What friendship could, should be

Maj. Doug Yoder
Winn ACH Chaplain

Several years ago, during a time of personal struggle, I received a letter from a friend that ended with these words; "Go back, Sam. I'm going to Mordor alone." "Of course you are Mr. Frodo, and I'm going with you." It was his paraphrase of an exchange between Frodo and Samwise Gamgee in Tolkien's Fellowship of the Ring, (Tolkien, J.R.R. The Lord of the Rings, Great Britain; Harper Collins Publishers, 1994). I will never forget that letter. That statement, "and I'm going with you," both reminded me that I was not alone and told me that he was committed to journey with me through the challenges ahead.

I believe that Samwise Gamgee's pledge of companionship is a great example of the kind of friendship that Jesus Christ modeled. Jesus addressed his followers as friends (John 15:13, New International Version of the Holy Bible) and modeled what community in friendship could and should be (John 13:34-35 NIV). Jesus' opponents called him a "friend of sinners" (Matthew 11:19, Luke 7:34 NIV) as he consistently offered relationship to people that the religious culture of the day rejected and excluded. Jesus even made one final offer of friendship to Judas the night Judas betrayed him (Matthew 11:19 NIV).

I cannot think of a better way for us to live out our faith than in meaningful friendships. To be honest, Jesus sets the bar pretty high. I'm not sure I can quite live up to his example. For me, Samwise is much less perfect, and a bit more relatable picture of loyal friendship.

Samwise accompanied Frodo through hardship and pain and he was there in times of celebration. He was not simply physically present, but he was engaged emotionally and intellectually. He laughed and joked with his friend at times, encouraged and even admonished when it was necessary. Whatever the circumstance a faithful friend is in touch with and seeks to be aware of what is happening with others and shares in both the joys and sorrows of life.

Faithful friendships create authentic community. It is in authentic community that we can face the hardships, pain, loss, and grief that life and our humanness encompass. It is through these friendships and in these communities that we can find healing and be reminded of hope even when hope seems a lost and impossible possibility. The faithful friend joins in and journeys with us and accepts us as we are: flawed, frail, and even foolish at times. This kind of friendship is not based on performance, but this kind of friendship is unconditional.

The faithful friend can reorient us to reality. At times our pain can be so great that we see nothing else. Pain and suffering are sometimes the result of our own sin, selfishness, or poor choices. With gentleness and respect the faithful friend can guide us to confession, forgiveness, and redemption, modeling what it means to be truly forgiven and accepted. Gentleness and respect need not be weak or passive. As with Samwise, he was gentle and, on the surface, unimpressive, but Samwise was strong, and he was loyal. The faithful friend reminds us that there is more, and guides us patiently through our struggles and pain until we can see clearly again.

There is a very practical principle in the Bible that says you reap what you sow. If you want to have the kind of friendship that Samwise and Frodo enjoyed, try being the kind of loyal and faithful friend that Samwise was. Imagine how fulfilled your life might be if you had a friendship like Samwise and Frodo.

Say 'Shoo' to the Flu this season with TRICARE

Special to the Frontline

The best way to keep the flu at bay is prevention. Make sure you and your family members use your TRICARE benefit and get a flu shot. You can also adopt good practices to avoid the spread of germs. Flu viruses are serious, contagious viruses that can lead to hospitalization or even death. To combat the flu, take these three actions:

1. Get vaccinated.

•The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention recommends a yearly flu vaccine as the first and most important step in protecting yourself.

•Children six months and older should get a flu vaccine every fall before flu activity begins since it takes about two weeks after vaccination for antibodies that protect against flu to develop in the body. Getting vaccinated later during the flu season can still be beneficial.

•Certain groups of people have an increased risk of becoming very ill from or developing complications from the flu. These include pregnant women, people with certain chronic health conditions, people age 65 and older, and health care workers.

•TRICARE covers the flu vaccine.

2. Take basic health precautions.

•Wash your hands frequently with soap and water. Use an alcohol-based hand rub if unable to wash your hands.

•Avoid touching your eyes, nose, and mouth.

•Avoid contact with people who are sick and stay home if you have flu-like symptoms. These include fever, cough, sore throat, runny or stuffy nose, body aches, headache, chills, and fatigue.

•Cough or sneeze into a tissue or the crook of your elbow, not into your hands. Throw the tissue in the trash after use.

3. If you have the flu, take antiviral drugs as prescribed by your doctor.

•It's best to take antiviral drugs within two days of getting sick.

Antiviral drugs can make illness milder, shorten the time you're sick, and prevent serious flu complications.

•Speak with your provider to learn more about antiviral drugs.

CAP policies change

Special to the Frontline

The Computer, Electronic Accommodations Program is a federally funded program whose mission is to provide assistive technology and accommodations to support individuals with disabilities and wounded, ill and injured service members throughout the Federal Government in accessing information and communication technology. CAP program goals are to ensure quality service and accommodations to federal employees, federal agencies and wounded, ill and injured service members; increase awareness through partnership engagement and training programs and improve operational performance by identifying optimum government resources.

Effective Oct. 1, CAP will require an approving official's concurrence email to approve reasonable accommodations on behalf of employees at their agency or component. In most cases, the approving official will be the immediate supervisor. CAP will not process requests for the assistive technology accommodations or execute federal funding on the requests until the official email is received from the authorized approving official within the agency. This new policy ensures that CAP processes are fully audit ready from request to delivery.

CAP provides training to help customers learn how to use some software provided by CAP. To qualify for this training service, the software must have been provided by CAP; no more than eight hours of training will be provided. CAP customers also have the option of requesting self-pace tutorials on some software. Some of the training offered by CAP includes: voice recognition and prediction software; screen magnification and reading software and reading, writing and comprehension tools.

CAP also works closely with wounded service members across the nation to empower them by providing appropriate assistive technology for their needs. CAP also provides training to service members to help those with dexterity impairments cognitive difficulties, vision loss and hearing loss recover and transition to civilian employment. In 2004, CAP began the service member Initiative. This was a special initiative designed to cover active duty service members, to include guard or reserve who are on active orders, including title 10 orders. The initiative operated exactly as others in the past, until Public Law 109-364 was passed on Oct. 17, 2006. This allows the Service members to keep the assistive technology CAP provides to them upon separation. For more information this Initiative, please visit the CAP website at: www.cap.mil/wsm.

Pep talks are an essential part of life and hold a fabled place in football.

Following a disappointing 2-10 season last year, the Georgia Southern Eagles found themselves at 2-1 this year, with its only loss to powerhouse Clemson. But they were scheduled to play the Arkansas State Red Wolves Sept. 29, a 3-1 team whose only loss was to Alabama, a team that defeated the Eagles each of the last two seasons.

The game was also Military Appreciation Day. In fitting fashion, they sought Lt. Col. Ken Dwyer, a Special Forces officer who would not let life-threatening combat wounds prevent him from staying on active duty and in the Special Forces. Dwyer, who was struck by a rocket-propelled grenade while serving in Afghanistan, is also the garrison commander of Hunter Army Airfield. He addressed the team following their practice, Sept. 27, and spoke of teamwork and sacrifice.

“There are 468 trees planted at Fort Stewart’s Warriors Walk in memory of Soldiers of the 3rd Infantry Division who made the ultimate sacrifice not only for our freedom, but also to defend the man to his left and to his right,” Dwyer told the team. “These were men and women who will never again have the opportunity to be husbands to their wives or wives to their husbands.”

“I can feel that same brotherhood in this room. (On a football team) everyone on the field sacrifices for the men to his left and right. You hold each other accountable to your own blocking and pass coverage assignments. That’s how a team works ... be it a military unit or a football team. I challenge you to take that mantra with you when you take the field to play Arkansas State Saturday.”

Dwyer closed his presentation by placing a sticker of the 3rd Infantry Division patch on a Georgia Southern football helmet.

“Each of you will have this patch on your helmet Saturday,” Dwyer boasted. “Let it empower you to remember what our Soldiers gave to their battle buddies, who you call teammates.”

On Saturday, Georgia Southern upset Arkansas State in Statesboro. With the game tied at 21 and only 29 seconds remaining, Wesley Kennedy III took a reverse pitch down the sideline for the score, giving the Eagles a 28-21 victory.
