Learn about Storms

Georgia Severe Weather Preparedness Week is Feb. 5-9. Know what actions to take when severe weather is expected and hits. Visit www.weather.gov/ffc/2018\_swpw to learn how to make sure your family is prepared for severe weather, thunderstorm, tornado, lightning safety, and the dangers of flooding. Review your home, school or business preparedness plans. Each day is dedicated to a different topic that addresses severe weather preparedness.

Tornado Drill slated

The National Weather Service will trigger the alert on NOAA radios, 9 a.m. Friday of a statewide tornado drill. The Emergency Alert System will not be activated by radio and television stations. During an actual severe weather event, however, the alert tone will sound on radios and televisions. Tornadoes are Georgia's No. 1 weather-related killer and can occur at any time of the year, making advance preparation vital. Georgia residents are encouraged to put their tornado safety skills into practice as part of Ready Georgia's PrepareAthon! for Tornado Safety. For more information visit: <https://ready.ga.gov/be-informed/tornadoes/tornado-drill-procedures>.

HR for supervisors

DIVARTY cases colors

Col. Robert W. Marshall (left) and Command Sgt. Maj. Robert Craven, 3rd Infantry Division Artillery commander and senior enlisted advisor, case the unit's colors Feb. 2 at Fort Stewart. A small element of DIVARTY and Task Force Marne Soldiers will head to Bagram Airfield, Afghanistan to assist the 3rd Infantry Division Headquarters in their Resolute Support mission as U.S. Forces-Afghanistan's National Support Element. By supporting the division in the defense of our nation, the ceremony marked the return of Marne Thunder to its natural place in the world, Marshall said. "The 3rd Division Artillery is trained and ready to deploy and support our storied division as it has ably done in the past," he said. "We hold on to that legacy even as we write a new chapter in the DIVARTY history." Brig. Gen. Sean Bernabe, Task Force Marne commander, also expressed his trust as he said, "We are confident that Team Thunder is ready to give Marne 6 the fires expertise he needs, and, I'll tell you, Maj. Gen. Quintas is very excited to get more Dogface Soldiers on his team in Afghanistan."

Raiders begin deployment

Special to the Frontline

This week Soldiers of 1st Armored Brigade Combat Team departed from Hunter Army Airfield to the Republic of South Korea for a nine-month deployment.

The 1st ABCT will replace the 2nd Armored Brigade Combat Team, 1st Cavalry Division as part of a regular rotation of forces in effect since 2015.

The Raider Brigade started preparing for this mission in the spring, conducting individual and crew level training exercises, and in the summer, progressed to force-on-force and combined live-fire exercises. In October, the unit culminated with a rotation to the National Training Center at Fort Irwin, California.

"The Raider Brigade has a proud history of answering the nation's call," said Col. Mike Adams, IABCT commander. "Our unit recently completed a rigorous training cycle that culminated with a decisive action training environment rotation to the NTC. We are trained and ready to perform our mission as part of a long-standing alliance between the Republic of Korea and the United States."

"A big part of our mission is to detour North Korean aggression, partner with the Republic of Korea as well as train and build capacity there," said Maj. Peter Bogart, IABCT public affairs officer. "We've been partnered with the Republic of Korea since the 1950s. It's a longtime alliance. This is the first time since the Korean War that a brigade from the 3rd Infantry Division has deployed to Korea."

Soldiers and leaders throughout the 3rd Infantry Division gathered for a Black History Month Observance at Club Stewart at Fort Stewart, Feb. 1.

The event was held to educate attendees about black history with a focus on those who served in the U.S. military.

"With the military being so diverse, our appreciation and understanding of the different heritages and nationalities in the military allows us to understand and respect differences a little bit better," said Sgt. 1st Class Elaine Dorsey, an equal opportunity advisor from 3rd Infantry Division Headquarters and Headquarters Battalion and a Kansas City, Missouri, native.

The event kicked off with the national anthem and a short history speech. The speech centered around prominent black figures who have fought for equal rights throughout the history of not only the United States Army, but the nation as a whole.

"I hope that those who attended will gain more knowledge on African-Americans in the military," said Warrant Officer Regina M. Crump, a human resource technician, with 3rd Infantry Division Artillery, a Detroit, Michigan, native. "Of course we know Martin Luther King Jr., Frederick Douglass and Sojourner Truth, but to see that there are so many others builds knowledge, comradery and appreciation of what African-American culture has to offer, not only to the military but to the world."

Following the history speech, Crump stood proud and recited "Ain't That Bad" by Maya Angelou. The phrase "ain't that bad" is used throughout the poem to show the audience that just because one is of a different nationality, they are no different in spirit.

"I wanted them to hear and feel the words I read and put themselves into the poem," Crump said. "I really wanted to read it for the African-Americans who feel like we are feeling underappreciated and not in the frontline. Know that you don't have to be anything other than who you are in order to be a productive part of society. Don't let your skin color dictate who you are or who you can be. It doesn't matter where you're from, it matters what you bring to the table."

Following Crump's speech, 3rd ID welcomed Kenneth Howard, the first black person to be appointed as the Hinesville city manager, to recognize and celebrate where African-Americans came from and where they stand now in today's society.

"I tried to focus on African-Americans in times of war," Howard said. "When they started serving the military, they weren't given the equal rights to serve in the war. I discussed how Buffalo Soldiers came to be to put items into perspective. The term was used for all black Soldiers who served during the Indian Wars.

They had the lowest desertion rate in the Army despite their poor living conditions they returned to."

Howard said he wanted remind the audience of the ones who paved the way for the African-Americans who stand in today's ranks and serve in today's wars. The United States is one of the most powerful nations in the world because of everything it's overcome.

Dorsey echoed Howard's sentiments.

"I enjoy helping out at these observances because it reminds me of how far the United States have come," said Dorsey. "I hope attendees will leave with more insight and be more aware of the contributions that were made."

Nurse Corps turns 117 years old

MaryTherese Griffin
U.S. Army Warrior Care and Transition

ARLINGTON, Va. – Many contributions to the American way of life as we know it today were developed in 1901. The first major oil discovery happened in Texas, professional baseball's American League were created, the vacuum cleaner was invented and the Army Nurse Corps was established. Army nurses have taken care of Soldiers on the battlefield and in the hospital since then and have become a lifeline for those Soldiers in the Warrior Care and Transition program.

Congress mandated the creation of the Army Nurse Corps in 1901 to support the growing military and the new Army Medical Department. This included establishing a reserve force so there would be no shortage of nurses during war time. What started out as an organization with just 202 nurses has evolved with thousands upon thousands of women and men caring for our Soldiers at home and abroad.

Lt. Col. Genera Miller became a nurse in 1987 and now serves as Chief Nurse, Warrior Care and Transition Clinical Liaison Division. "I chose to become a nurse because I felt it to be one of the most respected customer service professions in the world and, by striving to be the best nurse that I could be, I could make a difference in the health of the patients," said Miller. She saw the transition to nursing in the Army as an opportunity to challenge herself as a nurse while taking care of Soldiers and families from all walks of life anywhere, anytime.

The nurses assigned to Warrior Transition Units experience far exceeds the 117 years the Nurse Corps has been around. Nurses in the WTUs serve as Nurse Case Managers and are required to provide holistic nurse care management for wounded, ill and injured Soldiers and their Families. The Army Nurse Corps motto, Embrace the past, engage the present, envision the future, is a not only a staple at WTUs, it is enhanced. Miller broke down what the motto means to her.

"Embrace the Past - this motto personifies how far we have progressed from past practices and lessons learned in the care and management of wounded, ill and injured Soldiers.

"Engage the present - With embedded NCM support, processes are advanced and procedures are operationalized in the Warrior Care Program that affords NCMs to not only track wounded, ill and injured Soldiers, but ensure prioritized care plans are directed at healing and include dedicated efforts to achieve return to duty status or a successful transitions into civilian communities as Veterans."

The present also includes the family in the WTU. Every Soldier and their family in the program is assigned a dedicated nurse who is guided by the case management process and standards. Individualized and holistic care management provided by nurses as part of the Triad of Care demonstrates positive outcomes and improved health service delivery.

As for the last part, Envision the future, Lt. Col. Miller sees the future as beyond bright. "In the present and into the foreseeable future, NCMs will continue to serve as advocates for the delivery of quality health service. They will consistently make a difference at the center of providing case management for Soldiers in transition and this service will continue to multiply positive outcomes in health service delivery and healing.

"WTU Nurse Case Managers are experienced in providing one to one case management for Soldiers who often times have multiple medical concerns. In the WTU, nurse care management extends beyond the priority to coordinate medical appointments," said Miller. Happy Birthday Army Nurse Corps! Thank you for all you do for our Soldiers and their Families.

DHR holds All-Hands-Update, EOQ Ceremony

Lisa Pokorny
Fort Stewart DHR

Fort Stewart-Hunter Army Airfield Directorate of Human Resources employees attended the First Quarter DHR All-Hands-Update for fiscal year 2018, which included employee recognition for significant accomplishments and the Employee of the Quarter Ceremony.

The event was held at the Sgt. 1st Class Paul R. Smith Education Center auditorium, Jan. 18. The updates also served as a platform to share upcoming events, provide information on key topics of interest, and boost the morale of directorate employees.

The DHR director, Thomas Allmon, recognized new and departing employees, a recipient of the Commander's Award for Civilian Service; and announced nominees and the final winner for the EOQ.

Tameka Franklin was welcomed as a new employee. DHR also bid farewell to departing employees including Barry Norris, Patricia Battle, David Bennett, Margaret Faye Ward, and Tina Hysaw. Wanda Wright received the Commander's Award for Civilian Service.

Linden was named the DHR EOQ. She was nominated for demonstrating genuine care for her internal and external customers. It was noted Linden has exceptional focus regarding customer care.

Linden also consistently volunteers to be a part of process improvements. Her new ideas generated a direct impact on fiscal savings and cost-avoidance for her organization. The title of EOQ also came with a $250 cash award, a certificate, and a 24-hour time off award.

The next DHR EOQ is scheduled for April 19.

DHR director, Thomas Allmon, stands with Karen Linden as she is recognized as the first quarter DHR EOQ, Jan. 18.

Monica Johnson, Meghan Page, Mark Swindal, Charles Collins, Brenda Green, and David Williams, were recognized Jan. 18, as nominees for DHR employees of the quarter.

COMMUNITY & LEISURE

FEBRUARY 8, 2018

Photos by Spc. Noelle Wiehe

USO representatives Susan Cahoon; Dr. J.D. Crouch, II; Mary Lou Austin, and Regina Wages, stand with the Fort Stewart-Hunter Army Airfield garrison commander and command sergeant major, Col. Jason Wolter and Command Sgt. Maj. Martin Conroy; and the TF Marne commander and TF Marne senior enlisted advisor, Brig. Gen. Sean Bernabe and Command Sgt. Maj. John Johnson, as they cut the ribbon to officially open the new Fort Stewart USO, Feb. 1.

USO opens for Marne Soldiers

The United Service Organizations, known to service members and their Families as the USO, cut the ribbon Feb. 1, symbolizing the grand opening of their new facility on Fort Stewart, to provide service to Soldiers and Families.

The new 14,000 square-foot facility, located behind the Popeye's on Gulick Avenue on main post, features seven televisions, a projection screen, foosball, pool tables, an Xfinity game room, wireless internet capabilities, computers available for use and donated refreshments for visitors.

commitment of the USO to our Families," said Col. Jason Wolter, garrison commander. "I can think of no greater symbol of this commitment than this beautifully renovated building and this club for our dog-face Soldiers, especially as (3rd Infantry Division) celebrated our 100th birthday this year."

Regina Wages, Fort Stewart USO director, said the USO, with the new facility, offers several volunteer opportunities for Soldiers, Family programs – Stronger Families, Impact Programs – as well as the new Pathfinder Transition Services Program, designed to help Soldiers transitioning back into civilian life.

"To all of you who are active duty, you are the reason our volunteers volunteer," said Susan Cahoon, USO Georgia Board Chair.

USOs were established prior to the onset of America's involvement in World War II in 1941 by Franklin D. Roosevelt to unite several service associations into one organization to lift the morale of our military and nourish support on the home front.

There are now about 180 USOs – reaching nearly every continent – around the world, operated by volunteers like Pat Horvath who has been with the USO for 20 years.

"I am biased, but I will tell you, there is not a finer establishment across those 180 than you are standing in here today," Wolter said. "It is truly amazing."

Horvath volunteers at the USO in the Atlanta airport. She said her husband, Jack, is a veteran, having served in the U.S. Army.

"We saw one USO in about 25 years, and that was in New York in 1963," Horvath said, noting she was directed to the USO to be able to get show tickets at a reasonable price.

She said she began volunteering after reading an article in her local newspaper which said that the USO needed volunteers to donate turkeys around Thanksgiving. She and her husband bought the turkey, cooked it and took it to the USO.

"We just liked what we saw, and we realized how important it is for the Soldiers and their Families to have a safe place to be in the airport, so we decided to volunteer," Horvath said. "It is just such a pleasure – the people are nice and they need to have someone from home to welcome them and to see them as they were taking off. We're kind of their Family when they're Family isn't there or can't be there."

The USO strengthens America's military servicemembers by keeping them connected to Family, home and country throughout their service to the nation, said Dr. J.D. Crouch, II, USO chief executive officer and president. From the moment they join, through their assignments and deployments and as they transition back to their communities, the USO is always by their side.

The USO is a commercially chartered, private organization which is not a part of the federal government, but instead funded by the generosity of individuals, organizations and corporations. The USO is powered by a family of volunteers and employees to accomplish the USO's mission of connection.

"Especially for us – we're stationed in North Carolina – we don't really know what there is to do on this base," said U.S. Marine Sgt. Jacob Quickel, 2nd Maintenance Battalion at Camp Lejeune Marine Corps Base, North Carolina. "The USO is always a friendly place to go and hang out."

The grand opening event featured snacks, drinks, entertainment, a catered barbecue lunch from Texas Roadhouse, a raffle drawing and remarks from several 3rd ID leaders and USO representatives.

"Not only are we cutting a ribbon on this magnificent new establishment to serve our Soldiers and Families, but in doing so, we are demonstrating a renewed commitment for a vital 70-year plus partnership with the USO and hopefully helping you fulfill your mission of keeping our Soldiers and Families connected wherever they may be throughout the world – always by the side of the Soldier," Wolter said.

Lt. Col. Fran Marks, commander, 3-15th Inf. plays Pac-Man in the Xfinity Game Room within the new USO facility, opened Feb. 1, on Fort Stewart.

Walker speaks anti-stigma, resiliency at Winn, Hunter

Kaytrina Curtis
Winn ACH Public Affairs

Winn Army Community Hospital is situated on the largest Army base this side of the Mississippi River, and is located in the heart of University of Georgia Bull "Dawg" fans, so when the 1982 Heisman Trophy Winner and former NFL football player, Herschel Walker, visited U.S. Army Medical Department Activity-Fort Stewart, many Soldiers and Civilians clamored at the chance to meet and hear him speak.

The official part of Walker's visit centered on a cause near and dear to his heart, Universal Health Services/The Patriot Support Program's Anti-Stigma Campaign, which at its center, believes "treatment begins when a service member asks for help." Walker came to help dispel the stigma of seeking help for mental illness and substance abuse and spoke about how to be resilient in the face of crisis. As a part of his visit to Winn, Walker took a windshield tour of parts of Stewart, with stops at the MEDDAC

Behavioral Health clinics, where he was well received.

"I was happy to see all the clinics," Walker said. "I was very impressed. That's one thing, and I've been saying it forever, that the military life is a whole lot more advanced than the civilian life in regards to behavioral health. I wanted to thank them [the Soldiers]. I don't think they get enough thanks for what they do for this country. This is the best country in the world, and it's because of them."

Winn ACH infection prevention and control specialist and longtime Walker fan, Stephanie Deloach, said meeting Walker captivated her.

"He is a legend, with humble roots and a strong work ethic, which are only amplified by his amazing athletic ability," Deloach said. "He had me mesmerized at the early age of nine; a little South Georgia girl simply fascinated with his grit and determination to move an oval ball 100 yards to score, and no one did that better than Mr. Herschel Walker. Thirty-six years later, I got the chance to meet the figment of my fascination, the very one that ignited my love for college football, and he did not disappoint."

WALKER

Winn ACH's Cynthia Wilkinson, risk management administration assistant, who grew up watching sports with her father, said it was an honor to meet Walker and shared her message to him.

"Thank you to Mr. Walker for supporting our troops and sharing your life story... amazing," Wilkinson said. "When I found out Herschel Walker was coming, boy did I get excited! One of the greatest, here at Winn! I got my footballs to be signed and sure enough got me a big ole' Georgia Hug! [I am] so grateful and thankful he came and shared his story."

Other than his football prowess on the field, his anti-stigma lecture to Winn and at Hunter Army Airfield during his two-day visit, he focused on the positive side of seeking help. Walker said many people turned away from him when he decided to address his battle with Dissociative Identity Disorder.

"Friends that I've helped so much, they shunned me, and they wouldn't even talk to me," Walker said. "They were afraid of me. But, I went ahead and I felt so much better, I feel more peaceful. I mean to sleep at night in peace not pacing the floor, not having someone I love be afraid of me, and it's so much relief, so much pressure is off of me now and I feel so much better."

Walker said if others are having similar thoughts like he had of taking his own life, the action is unnecessary. He explained the first step may be difficult because of being a 'warrior'.

"There are people out there that can help you," Walker said. "Sometimes when you get at that point you're thinking that you're all alone; you're thinking that there's no one that can help you, but I'm living proof, because I've been there."

He challenged leaders to continue to be involved with those who they are leading, by encouraging those below them to look out for one another too. Walker also stressed the importance of erasing the stigma behind seeking help for mental health. As he stood in Winn's Patriot Auditorium, willingly signing autograph after autograph, his message to Soldiers and Civilians stayed constant.

"I think for all our young men and women of service remember that no matter how hard it gets, there's people that can help you," Walker said. "No matter how tough it gets, that you got to get up! That you got to know that when you get knocked down, it's ok to be down for a little while, but you get back up."

And he wants all to know the importance of seeking support.

"There is no shame in asking for help, I did," Walker said.

The Winn App is here!

Winn Army Community Hospital now has an application available only for Android devices for now. Search for Winn Army Community Hospital in the Google Play store to download the app. The purpose of the app is to provide our customers with important information at the touch of their fingers.

The Winn app provides a phone directory to many of the various clinics, help desk, and appointment lines. Users now have access to Relay Health and TRICARE online. The Winn app also provides useful phone numbers such as the Veterans Crisis Line, and the local sexual assault response coordinator as well as helpful websites. The App offers convenient features like the local weather, and has a direct feed into Winn's Facebook and Twitter pages.

Users will also have the ability to receive notifications from Winn and place interactive customer evaluations from their personal cell phone or tablet. The Apple version of the app is coming in the near future. Stay tuned.

Winn Health Tip of Week: February is Heart Disease Awareness Month

Every 43 seconds someone in the United States has a heart attack. The major signs of a heart attack are chest pain/discomfort, nausea, feeling lightheaded or unusually tired, pain/discomfort in the arm or shoulder, shortness of breath and pain/discomfort in the jaw, neck, or back. If you notice symptoms, please call 911 immediately. Some cases require CPR or electrical shock (defibrillation). Getting trained in both can save someone's life.

TRICARE Website changes

Special to the Frontline
Winn ACH Public Affairs

The Tricare website is your first stop when you have questions about your benefit. At the start of the New Year, we introduced some redesigned features on the Tricare website that make it easier for you to take command of your health. Beyond the new look and feel of the website, new features and tools will now help you find what you're looking for quicker. Check out these improvements to the Tricare website:

Find Information Faster. Need to compare Tricare plans, find a doctor or find a phone number? Three new search wizards on the home page have been optimized to make sure you'll answer fewer questions and get to your results faster. Use the find a Tricare Plan, find a doctor and find a phone number tools to see what plans you qualify for, locate a nearby provider or get contact information.

Understand Your Benefit. Tricare is changing, so the Tricare website is better organized to help you quickly understand your benefit. Use the Tricare website to know what's covered or what a qualifying life event is. Need to submit a claim or file a form? You'll find "Forms and claims" in the top navigation bar.

Access Tricare on-the-go. According to Pew Research Center, half of smartphone users use their phone to look up health information, and 62 percent used their smartphone to look up a health condition. With that in mind, the Tricare website has been improved for viewing on mobile devices.

And while you're here, now is the perfect time to tackle that to-do list: schedule your next appointment, change your primary care manager, review costs and much more. Take command of your health and your health care in 2018.

CHAPLAIN'S CORNER

Finding unbinding faith, courage

Chaplain Michael Scholes
5-7 CAV

One of the more well-known biblical characters, even among secular scholars, is the man Samson. The famed hero is best identified by his long hair, incredible strength, and ultimate demise brought about by his inability to resist the seduction of unscrupulous Delilah. His life is often used as an illustration of the dangers of failed intimacy with God, unfulfilled potential, and the like.

Contrary to popular belief and Sunday school mythology, Samson did not possess superhuman strength and ability. While it is true he demonstrated great feats and strength well beyond human capability, his strength was not owned by him but rather given him as "the Spirit of the Lord" rushed upon him. He was not strong all the time.

The truth is, even the greatest and most resilient person is no different. There are times by the grace of God, we are given great strength and supernatural ability to accomplish the daily grind of life, overcome adversity, or conquer the myriad of trials and tribulations that come upon us. Yet, there are days even the greatest of prophets lose their strength.

In the case of Samson, he forsook his covenant promise with God, fell prey to seduction, and though he went out as before thinking God to be with him, he instead found himself blinded and bound by his enemies.

At the risk of sounding preachy, it is much the same today. Many of us journey through life inadvertently relying of the supernatural Grace of God, all the while neglecting the reality that His ultimate destiny for our lives is nothing short of our covenantal relationship with him.

It is then we wake up to tackle life and its issues as we once have, only to find that we have likewise fallen prey to the seductions of life and unwittingly forsaken any connection we may have had with the one true God. As a result the enemy of our existence leaves us spiritually blind, bound and defeated.

Quite the depressing account if it ends in defeat. Unfortunately for many, the story does end in defeat. They drudge through life convinced that their bondage (be it physical, psychological, financial, etc.) is the way things are and will always be.

In the case of our long haired hero, though he indeed found himself captured in bronze shackles the Bible tells us "his hair began to grow again". Of great encouragement to many is the truth that even in the darkest situation, our faith can begin to grow again.

Samson's faith grew. He remembered his God, and he remembered his divine destiny. In the end he cried out to God in faith, who ultimately unbound his captivity, and gave him strength to walk once more in his destiny.

Be encouraged: regardless of the struggle and trials of your life you can do the same. Perhaps your struggle has taken captive your own faith and left you bound in shackles. Know with certainty that the God of heaven seeks to grow your faith even in the midst of your captivity. Know that the King of Kings seeks to deliver you and draw you once more into the direction and fulfillment of his divine destiny for your life.

You too have the freedom to call out to the heavens and reclaim the destiny that is rightfully yours. Your captivity was never God's design and His love seeks to liberate you from the bondage of your enemy.

Baby boot camp for dads

According to a recent survey, 86 percent of dads spend more time with their children today than their own fathers did with them. However, seven out of 10 also reported that they could use tips on how to be a better parent. The smallest moments can have the biggest impact on a child's life. Take time to be a dad today. For more information call the Family Advocacy Program at 912-767-2882 and speak with our New Parent Support Program Staff.

Marketing Volunteer needed

Do you enjoy marketing and are you creative? Do you have a design eye that could resonate to flyers to inform the public? Would you like to help Army Community Service build new followers on different social media platforms like Instagram, Pinterest and others to better reach Soldiers, Spouses and Army Families? If you answered yes, then ACS needs you. You must have your own computer and be willing to submit these items in a timely manner for approval. Registration in the Volunteer Management Information System. Tracking volunteer hours is required. Call 912 767-1597 for more details.

Learn the five love languages

Do you want to learn how to express heartfelt commitment to your mate? If you do, then come and learn about the five love languages. Learn how to identify and apply them to your everyday life with your spouse. Come by ACS regarding the Family advocacy program and get more information on the Five Love Languages class. We hope to see you in a future class so you can better understand your spouse's "Love Language". For more information visit ACS or call 912 767-2882.

CARE team training offered

CARE team training is designed to educate Spouse volunteers how to assist a Family that has suffered a catastrophic event. The training is on Feb. 15 in ACS building 87, 10 a.m. to noon. When a CARE team is activated there is no time to prepare. This training teaches the volunteers the different roles and how to set up a team. Please call 912 767-1257 or 717-4047 to register or register at the ACS Eventbrite page.

Growth, Progression, Strength

Join the team from the Soldier and Family Assistance Center, Feb. 22, as the next GPS Event is conducted. ## Special Troops Battalion Celebrates 100 Days

Spc. Elizabeth White
3rd Sustainment Brigade

BAGRAM AIRFIELD, Afghanistan - Soldiers with the 3rd Infantry Division Resolute Support Sustainment Brigade celebrated their first 100 days on deployment with a physical fitness competition Jan. 31 at Bagram Airfield, Afghanistan.

Six teams from Special Troops Battalion, the 3rd Inf. Div. RSSB, 135th Combat Sustainment Support Battalion and Bosnian-Herzegovinian security platoon competed against each other for the top spot that day. The teams and the instructors enjoyed this show of esprit de corps and a chance to compete.

"I thought the competition was fun, the groups looked like they were having fun doing it," said Sgt. 1st Class Pearlie Love, the non-commissioned officer in charge of petroleum, oil and lubricants with the 3rd Inf. Div. RSSB, who acted as the NCOIC for the competition. "It was fun preparing for it and thinking of the events to have for the competition."

The competition consisted of ten different physical exercises, such as tire flips and pull-ups, followed by a three mile ruck march to a range, casualty treatment and evacuation and finally a stress shoot.

"These are skill level one tasks, something that everyone should know as a Soldier," said Love.

"We had one team who didn't meet the requirements for personnel," said 1st Lt. Kevin McNicholas, the Force Protection Platoon leader with the 3rd Inf. Div. RSSB, who put together the whole event. "They did the competition anyways because they wanted to work on those Soldier skills."

The challenge signified the 100th day in theater day mark for the unit. The teams came together to celebrate all of their hard work over the course of the past few months and look forward to the rest of the deployment.

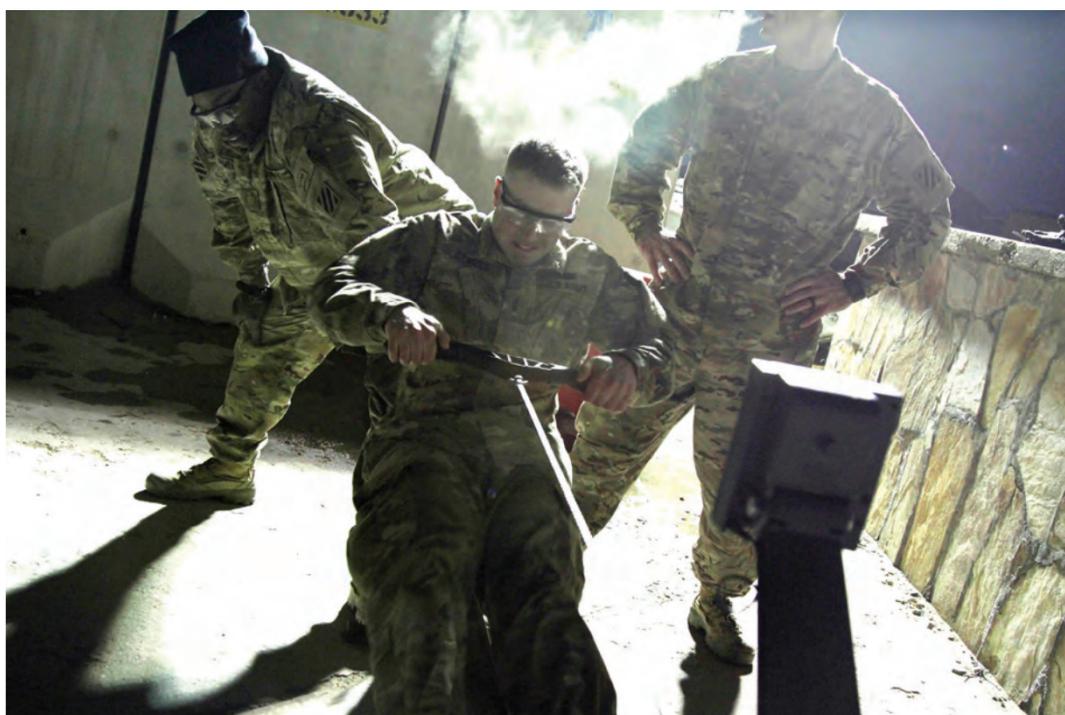

"It's significant because we're more than a third of the way done with our deployment," said McNicholas. "It gives us an opportunity to celebrate all that we've accomplished in those hundred days."

Over the past three months the brigade has pushed out over 20 million gallons of fuel, over 100 million dollars worth of ammunition and millions of cases of rations throughout the Combined Joint Operations Area - Afghanistan. These sustainment Soldiers ensure mission readiness by supplying the basic necessities for accomplishing a task. Whether it's during a competition or doing their jobs, these Soldiers give it their all every day.

BAH recertification policy

The Fort Stewart Defense Military Pay Office has been inundated with requests from Soldiers for a copy of their DA Form 5960. In order to recertify Basic Allowance for Housing Soldiers need to see their Battalion S1, not the Fort Stewart Defense Military Pay Office. The S1 will validate all supporting documents are loaded into IPERMS. Soldiers will need to complete a DA Form 5960

and have it certified by their company level commander. If designated by the company commander, the first commissioned officer in the Soldier's chain of command can certify. Then the S1 will upload the DA Form 5960 into IPERMS. The Fort Stewart Defense Military Pay Office will only be involved in the recertification if there is a change to be made in the payment of the BAH entitlement.
