Where community members say, “I’m Glad I Live Here!”

USAG Stuttgart Public Affairs

The U.S. Army Garrison Stuttgart welcomes incoming community members to the best garrison in the U.S. Army, as judged by the 2017 Army Communities of Excellence program.

Stuttgart is a great place to work and live, with a dynamic joint military community spread across five installations. The operational environment, coupled with all of the off-duty activities the greater Stuttgart area has to offer, makes this a professionally and personally rewarding assignment.

The Army Communities of Excellence program awarded the Gold Medal to USAG Stuttgart for the overall quality of life, how well the garrison provides base operations, and training support. The garrison was graded on seven specific categories using the Baldrige Criteria for Performance Excellence, which focused on garrisons’ processes for providing excellence in facilities and services in support of Soldiers, Civilians, and their families. Using these benchmarks, the ACOE selected Stuttgart for top honors.

USAG Stuttgart is home to multiple tactical, operational and strategic-level Department of Defense organizations; the U.S. European Command, U.S. Africa Command, Special Operations Command Europe, Special Operations Command Africa, Marine Forces Europe and Africa, and Defense Information Systems Agency Europe are all headquartered here. Community members work with members from all services, the State Department and other agencies.

This special edition of the Citizen is your guide to a smooth transition. It includes tools, tips and resources offered by the garrison and its partner units to service members, civilians, contractors and their families. With this guide and the assistance of a sponsor, the transition overseas into this community will be met with a lot of excitement and a little stress. This issue features information on housing, schools, medical and dental care, and other aspects of life in the Stuttgart military community. An introduction to life on our installations and the surrounding local communities will provide you with a glimpse of everything available in your new home.

The garrison motto is, “I’m glad I live here!” There are many local opportunities for leisure activities. Stuttgart, the capital of the state of Baden-Württemberg, offers many possibilities for adventure from historical museums and international festivals to world-renowned companies and music performances. Get out and enjoy living in Germany!

Get connected with your garrison

The U.S. Army Garrison Stuttgart Public Affairs Office (PAO) serves as the voice of the garrison and works to provide command and community information through a variety of different publicity mediums. One of these outlets is the garrison’s official website at www.stuttgart.army.mil, where you can find everything from command policies and a comprehensive phonebook to information about garrison services and activities.

This newcomer’s guide is a special edition of The Citizen newspaper, a free monthly publication distributed to newstands throughout our five installations. The Citizen is a flagship product which showcases news and events around the garrison as well as publicizes important information relevant to our community members. It maintains an active online presence at stuttgarcitizen.com, where you can also find the monthly Community Update (listing facility and construction updates, deadlines, and an overall on-post calendar of events).

Our social media presence can be found on our official Facebook page at: facebook.com/USAGarrisonStuttgart, and the photographs taken by the PAO staff at numerous community events and activities that we provide media coverage of can be found at: Flickr.com/USAGarrisonStuttgart. We are also on Twitter at @USAG_Stuttgart.

The PAO contributes to the weekly Community Update, which airs Wednesdays from 7-8 a.m. on AFN Stuttgart (102.3 FM), as well as the Culture Corner on Thursdays from 8-9 a.m.

Finally, the newest PAO product is the official USAG Stuttgart Mobile App, available by searching “USAG Stuttgart” in the iOS (iPhone/iPad) App Store or Android’s Google Play. The app brings a wealth of important community resources to your fingertips, including emergency telephone numbers, duty bus schedules, and links to event calendars and operating hours for garrison services. The App can also connect you with numerous community support agencies such as AFN, AAFES, DECA, MEDCOM, DENTAC, and DODCA to name a few.

You can contact the Public Affairs Office by clicking the “Contact” tab at the top of the official website, stuttgart.army.mil, or through a direct message on Facebook. We look forward to serving and informing you!

WELCOME TO STUTTGART

USAG Stuttgart Public Affairs

The U.S. Army Garrison Stuttgart is a joint service military community composed of five installations in the greater Stuttgart metropolitan area.

Stuttgart is in southwest Germany, in the state of Baden-Württemberg. There are 16 states in Germany, including three cities which carry the same status as states. With a population of more than 5.3 million in the region, Stuttgart is the fourth largest metropolitan area in the country. It is a thriving major German population center with a wide variety of industry and tourism. Its annual Cannstatter Volksfest is the second largest beer festival in the world, after Munich’s Oktoberfest.

More than 20,000 U.S. military personnel, civilians and family members make up the garrison community working at Panzer Kaserne, Patch Barracks, Kelley Barracks, Robinson Barracks and Stuttgart Army Airfield.

Panzer Kaserne, located in Böblingen, is home to the garrison headquarters and is where most in-and-out-processing tasks are performed. It is the location of Stuttgart and Patch Elementary Schools and Stuttgart High School. The garrison’s main Exchange, the Panzer Hotel and a small commissary are located here. Panzer Kaserne is also where incoming personnel pick up their personally owned vehicles, have them inspected and get them registered; additionally, the Family & Morale, Welfare and Recreation’s Auto Skills Center and the Exchange Car Care Center are here.

A short distance away along highway K1055, AKA “Frog Road” because of the signs warning drivers to be aware of migratory frogs crossing the road, is Patch Barracks in Stuttgart-Vaihingen. Patch is home to the U.S. European Command. The installation features Patch Middle School, the garrison’s main commissary, a gas station and shoppette, movie theater, food court, car wash, Thrift Store and other services.

Kelley Barracks in Stuttgart-Möhringen is home to U.S. Africa Command, the Stuttgart Legal Assistance Office, the award-winning Kelley Theatre, a commissary, gas station, the Kelley Club and a child development center. The more than 1,300 housing units at Panzer Kaserne and Kelley Barracks combined hold approximately 40 percent of the family housing units, and 50 percent of the unaccompanied housing.

Robinson Barracks, located in Stuttgart-Bad Cannstatt, is primarily a residential installation. Together with Patch Barracks, it has approximately 60 percent of the family housing and 50 percent of the unaccompanied housing. It features Robinson Barracks Elementary School, a commissary, furniture store and broadcast studios for American Forces Network Stuttgart.

Finally, Stuttgart Army Airfield in Filderstadt is the home for the aviation arms of each respective combatant command, as well as the primary platform for military cargo. It is etched in history as one of the main locations for aircraft used during the Berlin Airlift, 1948-1948.
In-processing made easy at Stuttgart CPF

The USAG Stuttgart Central Processing Facility (CPF) is your one-stop in-processing center. Newcomers will be scheduled for a 10-day in-processing period beginning one or two duty days after arrival. There are approximately three days built in to the schedule to allow time to complete the in-processing checklist and accomplish unit check-in.

Unit-assigned sponsors will ensure that newly assigned military and DA civilian personnel report to the CPF within 24-48 hours after arriving in the community. Newcomers will attend all required community in-processing before being released by the CPF. This ensures new personnel are not assigned duties until CPF processing requirements are completed, per AE Reg. 612-1. On your first or second day, you’ll attend a half-day community briefing consisting of the following:

- CPF overview of the schedule and in-processing checklist;
- Transportation briefing including information on dates of arrival of your shipments; and
- Housing Office briefing which is required before you are assigned to quarters or given a statement of non-availability for off-post housing and provided with approved addresses (contractors are not authorized to use housing services.)

The rest of the schedule allows for two full days of mandatory in-processing training covering a number of subjects to include antiterrorism, TRICARE, housing and the Garrison Command brief, just to mention a few. In addition, there are two days of mandatory resiliency training.

Several half-days are reserved for driver training and testing, tours and individual unit in-processing. All personnel assigned to Germany must have a USAREUR driver’s license before renting, driving or registering a vehicle on post. Online testing is also available through the Joint Knowledge Online site.

You can sign up at the CPF office for one day of host nation orientation. This orientation, provided by Army Community Service (ACS), is an overview of German language and customs with a bus trip to learn what to expect in restaurants and how to operate the local public transit systems. Bring euros and be sure to wear comfortable walking shoes!

Newcomers may also accompany the TRICARE patient liaison on a visit to a few of the local German hospitals where they could be taken in an emergency situation or referred to for specialty care. The Patch Medical Clinic does not have after hours or emergency care, and the nearest military hospital is Landstuhl, about three hours away by car.

Spouses of incoming personnel are welcome to attend any training and tours. Your sign-ups can also be made through the “Appointments” section on the garrison mobile app. Children under 18 are not allowed on the tours or in the training classes.

The Central Processing Facility (CPF) located in building 2913 on Panzer Kaserne is where you will start your in-processing to the Stuttgart Military Community. Also located in building 2913 is both on/off-post housing, transportation, furnishings & appliances, and a German kantine.

Get started earlier
The CPF is located on Panzer Kaserne, on the first floor of Bldg. 2913. Normal business hours are 8:00-11:50am and 12:50-4:30pm. Call DSN 431-2599 or civ. 07031-15-2599 for more information.

Protective tips for house hunting off-post

Compiled by Holly DeCarlo-White
USAG Stuttgart Public Affairs

Prior to selecting a location

• Use an internet mapping tool such as Google Maps to verify the selected location provides more than one entry/exit route.
• Determine availability of adequate, nearby parking.
• Ensure there are no major industrial areas within close proximity of selected residence.

Safety and security question to ask

• Ask local security agencies, such as Military Police, Antiterrorism Officer, or G2 / S2 about security concerns within selected area.
• Conduct a terrain walk of selected area, look for signs of attempted break-ins on doors and windows.
• Does the neighborhood generally seem to be safe and well kept, or does it look run down and unsafe (check residence during daylight hours and hours of darkness)?

Dwelling layout considerations

• Overall look and appearance, verify adequate general maintenance, such as no broken windows or damaged doors.
• If necessary, verify fire escapes / exits are available and functioning, and ensure they can be secured.

Test lighting inside and out

• Check area lighting, are street lights installed (check during hours of darkness).
• Check residence lighting, does the residence have exterior lighting / interior lighting.
• Check entrance ways, hallways, walkways, parking areas, elevators, stairwells, mail areas, and laundry areas for adequate lighting.

What to do

• Ensure the dwelling has multiple entry / exit doors to provide emergency escape alternatives.
• Ensure all exterior doors have dead-bolt type locks.
• Ensure all doors and frames are heavy and solidly constructed.
• Ask if lock cylinders can be changed.
• Ensure the entrance door has a peephole or intercom system.
• Windows with grills, bars, or horizontal blinds installed provide greater security.
• Ensure windows can be secured from the interior.
• Built-in security alarm systems can help deter break-ins.
• Ensure the dwelling has fire or smoke detectors / alarms installed, and purchase fire extinguishers if not already present in the dwelling.
• Good external lighting can provide additional security.
• Fences may deter theft and add privacy.
• Consult with personnel within your local housing office, security officials, and your local antiterrorism officer prior to, during and when making a final selection.

What not to do

• Don’t choose a dwelling near an industrial zone, power plant, or other hazards i.e., flood zones increases the likelihood of damage due to fallout from man-made/natural disaster.
• Don’t choose a dwelling located on a dead-end street. It limits emergency entry and exit and could increase likelihood of house break-ins.
• Avoid dwellings with unsecured underground parking. It can increase the effect of vehicle borne improvised explosive devices.
• Don’t choose a dwelling with obvious signs of forced entry or attempted forced entry, such as scratches on doors, putty around latches and window frames.
USAG Stuttgart Public Affairs Office

One of the top things on the minds of the entire family during a permanent change of station move is the new residence. Where will we live? How big will it be? What’s the neighborhood like?

For those coming to Stuttgart, the answers to these questions can vary widely.

Approximately 30 percent of the Stuttgart military community lives in the 1,300 on-base housing units, with the remaining 70 percent residing off the economy.

On-post family housing units throughout Stuttgart are stairwell apartments ranging from two to five bedrooms. They are located on Panzer Kasernen, Kelley, Robinson, and Patch Barracks. Most five bedroom units are located on Kelley Barracks.

In-home amenities for on-base housing include a laundry room with U.S. appliances for each unit, individual storage space, and 110 and 220-volt outlets for both U.S. and German appliances.

Community services include fitness centers, a club for social events, elementary, middle and high schools, and libraries within walking distance.

Upon receipt of permanent change of station orders, uniformed members and U.S. government civilians are strongly encouraged to complete the application for assignment to housing Department of Defense Form 1746. This is the official form used to create a customer housing record and is updated within 48 hours after the customer arrives in Stuttgart.

For those living off-base, the variety of homes is nearly endless. Everything from modern homes and apartments with art nouveau architecture, to centuries-old half-timber converted barns and everything in between are available here. While rental prices throughout the area vary slightly, as a general rule of thumb the areas closer to Stuttgart/Böblingen city center are higher in rent. Those properties located further out in the suburbs/countryside tend to be lower in rent and larger in size.

Start finding your home by searching www.HOMES.mil, the military home finders’ tool — even here in Europe. This site contains listings of rental homes in and around Stuttgart, most within the school zones, and all are free of realtor fees.

There are many home types in Germany. Apartments, penthouses, maisonette apartments (which are two- or three-storied apartments), townhouses, duplexes and free-standing houses with multiple bathrooms, large yards and five-plus bedrooms. Though these latter types of homes are harder to find, apartments, townhouses, and duplexes are easier to find and are generally less expensive.

The cost of rent needs to align with the uniformed member’s overseas housing allowance rate and living quarters allowance for U.S. government civilians or the cost of additional rent is an out-of-pocket expense. Financial overseas housing entitlements are listed on the Department of Defense overseas allowance calculator webpage at www.defense.gov/dod.mil.

Housing referral services

The Housing Referral Office offers home-finding services to U.S. government civilians and service members who are authorized to live off-post. Contractor personnel are not eligible for housing referral services in accordance with Army Regulation 420-1, “Army Facilities Management.”

Pervin Estates is the housing referral contractor. The office manages the HOMES.mil listings website and provides up to three escorted home tours, home inspections and individual counseling to discuss rental units found on HOMES.mil.

All homes listed on HOMES.mil guarantee a furnished kitchen and light fixtures. Be aware that homes found on other home rental websites in Stuttgart may not include kitchen cabinets, appliances or light fixtures and some require payment of a realtor fee.

On or off-post administrative steps

USAG Stuttgart offers two types of housing briefs to assist customers in finding the most suitable rental for their needs.

The Central Processing Facility (CPF) offers a newcomers brief that is mandatory for both uniformed members and U.S. government civilians. The CPF housing brief provides an overview of the housing office services and highlights off-post housing processes.

Housing’s in-processing brief is a one-on-one between a housing counselor and the uniformed member. This brief is mandatory for uniformed members and optional for U.S. government civilians.

At the housing brief, civilian sponsors will receive a Pervin Estates customer routing form, and unit detail request form. After one business day, Pervin Estates will return the landlord details by email. For the initial request, the routing and detail request forms are emailed to Pervin Estates. All subsequent requests for unit details will require the return of each comment card for each new landlord request listing. Comment cards are included in the unit detail request form.

Rental contract process

The USAG Stuttgart Housing Office-approved contract is a legally-binding agreement between the landlord and the tenant, and is in both English and in German.

The first step in this process is when the prospective tenant submits a completed copy of the contract cover sheet after the contract is signed by the landlord or property manager. This must be sent via official U.S. government encrypted email to the housing office at usarmy.stuttgart.id-europe.mbx.dpwhsg-off-post@mail.mil to the attention of Pervin Estates and off-post housing. Make sure to complete and send the cover sheet as soon as possible; it guarantees that the property will be removed from HOMES.mil and becomes that much closer to being yours. The next step is when the prospective tenant schedules a contract review with the housing office no later than four business days from the date the landlord signs the contract.

“As soon as the landlord’s signature is on the contract, schedule an appointment immediately,” said Konrad Herzig, USAG Stuttgart housing lead customer service counselor.

A housing counselor can save the customer time. “I wouldn’t wait until the contract review appointment. Email the contract to the housing office in advance of the contract review appointment and if time permits a housing counselor will review the contract,” said Herzig.

Personnel on TDY or deployment orders

In the absence of the sponsor, a power of attorney is required for the housing office to approve a Garrison off-post rental contract. For on-post housing services, copy of the sponsor’s temporary duty order or deployment order is required and the requirement for a power of attorney is waived. For housing contact information and a list of services, go to the USAG Stuttgart website at www.stuttgart.army.mil and select the Housing Services Office.

The 1,300 family housing units available in USAG Stuttgart are stairwell apartments with two to five bedrooms that are spread throughout four of the five installations. There are no housing units on Stuttgart Army Airfield.
Figuring out how to sort trash, recycle and go green with environmentally friendly products in Germany can be quite complicated with different color bins and eco-labels. Germany has a very thorough waste sorting system with up to five or six different categories of waste and practices that vary from county to county, and occasionally from city to city, so things can quickly get confusing.

To help residents sort out all of the mess, U.S. Army Garrison Stuttgart offers an in-depth guide to recycling that outlines specific procedures for all of the four major counties in the Stuttgart area and also on-post. This guide, along with the general overview provided here, should arm most residents to recycle properly and help do their part to contribute to our host nation’s impressive recycling efforts.

One of the most common frustrations for Americans is having a much smaller trash bin. However, this is often a frustration that does not have to be endured. Trash cans are supposed to be based on family size and are usually adequate as long as recyclables and other trash are being properly sorted. Larger families who find themselves constantly overfilling their trash bins should consider talking to their landlords about getting larger cans, although this may affect the monthly trash fee and a landlord will likely pass that cost on to the renter depending on the specifics of the rental arrangement. Residents may inquire for more information about a larger trash can at local city offices, but in most cases it will ultimately have to be the homeowner or landlord who orders the larger bin.

For on-post residents, things are relatively simple. Clearly-labeled containers are available in all housing areas, and the online guide details which items can and cannot go into each container.

Residents living off post should note that bringing trash on post to dump is prohibited unless you are taking items such as paint, cleaners, and lubricants to the Re-Use Center on Panzer Kaserne.

For off-post residents, getting rid of extra trash is not costly. In fact, it’s sometimes free, but does take some effort and coordination. Some areas have recycling centers and city dumps where residents can take their trash, and almost all areas have procedures for residents to request pick-up of bulk trash and other non-standard waste. These pickups can be free of charge but are usually only offered a limited number of times per year. Contact the agency in your area for more information.

Although specific procedures vary, most programs divide trash and recyclables into six categories: trash/rubbish, recyclables, paper, organic waste, glass and hazardous waste. There are differences in how trash and recyclables are handled in the four major Stuttgart-area counties—the main difference being the various bins and how items are sorted. Glass is handled much the same at various recycling points, while hazardous materials and bulk trash have their own specific requirements.

In Böblingen County, home to Panzer Kaserne, there are four bins, all black, but with color-coded lids. A black lid is for trash, an orange lid is for recyclables, a green lid is for organic and a blue lid is for paper. The city of Stuttgart uses three bins and the yellow sack. A grey bin is for trash, a green bin is for paper, a brown bin is for organic waste and yellow bags are used for recyclables. Yellow bags can be picked up at city halls. Ludwigsburg County uses four bins and groups recyclables and paper together. Two green bins are used on a rotating schedule for “flat” and “round” recyclables (including paper). Flat paper and recyclables includes most normal paper products, books, magazines and similar items, as well as flat plastics like plastic bags, and flat pieces of plastic and Styrofoam. Round paper and recyclables includes plastic bottles, cans and similar products. For a more detailed description, see the online recycling guide.

Sperreffel or bulky trash is residual waste that is too big for the regular trash bin, but does not exceed a given size. For example, in Böblingen, it cannot exceed 2 meters by 1.2 meters by .8 meters, and must weigh less than 60 kilograms per piece. Mattresses, cupboards, bed frames, furniture, carpets, mirrors, suitcases, skis and surfboards are all examples of common bulk trash items.

Ecolabels

Ecolabels are official symbols placed on products designed to do less harm to the environment than similar products. The next time you’re shopping for food, appliances, clothing, paint, etc., look for the one with ecolabel, Blaue Engle or Energy Star logos.

The European Ecolabel helps to identify products and services that have a reduced environmental impact through their product life cycles. It is celebrating 25 years of helping Europe be greener and more humane—in addition to not being harmful for the Earth, clothing and textiles must be assembled in safe and fair conditions.

The German “Blue Angel (Blauer Engel) eco-label is awarded to products and services which, from a holistic point of view, are of benefit to the environment and meet high standards of serviceability, health and occupational protection.

Eating and drinking like a local

USAG Stuttgart Public Affairs

The traditional German manner of eating is to have a big, hearty warm meal at midday and have some bread, cheese and sausages or cold cuts in the evening. However, as times have changed, so have habits. Restaurants offer a wide variety of options ranging from a simple bread plate to a full, multicourse meal.

Hearty German cuisine usually focuses on a main meat dish. Germans ate an average of 1,154 grams of meat per week as of 2016, according to the “Fleischatlas,” or “Meat Atlas” report. While vegetarian dishes and products are certainly available, the “wurst” is still king, especially bratwurst. Add some curry powder and ketchup, and you’ve got the popular currywurst.

While bratwurst is certainly a common staple of German cuisine, there’s a lot more variety in German food than that simple image conveys. It is true that certain universal elements of German food unite this nation of 16 proud states, each boasting their own unique cuisine. But, from roasts to schnitzel, to breads, cheeses and wine, the idea that German food is basic or simple is simply not accurate.

To add to the solid heartiness of a good meat dish, potatoes are usually served in some form with every large meal. Germans serve potatoes in every manner imaginable, from mashed potatoes to potato salad to potato pancakes and more.

Bread is served with most meals. A wide variety of bread products make up a large portion of the traditional German diet.

German regions pride themselves on certain foods or dishes. A signature Swabian dish is maultaschens, a layered pasta dish similar to ravioli. It is larger than ravioli and without tomato sauce, and packed with minced or smoked meat, spinach, onions, herbs and spices. Zwiebelrostbraten, a beef roast with sautéed onions, is another popular Swabian dish.

Schnitzel, served throughout Germany and beyond, is usually served with French fries. Roasted meats and fish vary from region to region, making traveling throughout Germany a culinary delight.

Käsespätzle, a noodle and cheese dish, is not to be confused with macaroni and cheese. Rotisserie chicken is very popular, as are Turkish dishes like kebabs.

As a centrally-located European nation, Germany enjoys a wide variety of foods from other nations. Italian, French and eastern European restaurants are common, and other varieties of international fare such as Asian and Indian foods can be found as well.

Wine has been developed to a high art form in Germany, and different regions produce a variety of wines, many of which can be enjoyed right at the vineyard. From red Dornfelder to white Moselle, a German wine can be found to please most any palate. Stuttgart takes pride in its wines.

Germany has long been associated worldwide with beer, and for good reason. Swabian breweries produce several great beers. In general, German beer is typically a little stronger than American beer, ranging from around five percent to as high as 16 percent alcohol by volume.

It is important to remember to enjoy alcohol responsibly in Germany. Drinking and driving laws are very strict here, and many of the alcoholic beverages offered can be much stronger than what many Americans are used to. There are very few laws limiting public consumption of alcohol, and alcohol is readily available, so self-control and responsible consumption is the key.

The main Exchange shopping mall located on Panzer Kasernen, built in 2007, has 63,000 square feet of retail space bringing a variety of local and international products, foods and services to Stuttgart community customers.

It includes a food court with hamburgers, sandwiches, fried chicken, pizza, a coffee shop and a German bakery serving a daily variety of fresh and authentic German baked goods, sandwiches and salads. Outside of the PX (and sometimes in front of the Exchange, sometimes in front of the community mail room) are rotating vendors offering a variety of different foods.

In addition to foods, beverages and snacks, the Express shoppette offers automotive and medical supplies. It’s also home to a large, joint-service clothing sales store.

At the Panzer Car Care Center and Auto Parts Store, a professional staff of sales and service techs will keep the family mobile by offering basic oil changes and services on brakes, exhaust, suspension and tires.

Patch Barracks
On Patch Barracks, the Exchange food court offers burgers, tacos, sub sandwiches and a bakery. Other concessions in the building include a barber, a rental car desk, a hair and beauty salon, and a dry cleaner/alteration shop. Learn to shop like a local Shopping in Germany can be a very positive experience and shoppers will find most of the same things that they’re used to back in the States.

Upon arrival in Stuttgart, shopping is one of the first things many newcomers like to do. However, Stuttgart military community members should be aware of some important differences.

Malls

One thing most Americans should adjust to in Germany is the way in which Germans shop. Most shops are smaller and in general, most towns have a central, downtown shopping district where most of the specialty stores are located. Larger department stores are gaining popularity in Germany, and at least one or two can be found in most sizeable German cities.

Sprawling shopping malls with dozens of shops, a food court and a movie theater like the kind that dot towns across America are still somewhat rare in Germany, though they can be found in larger cities. There are several large shopping centers throughout the Stuttgart area, including some as close as Sindelfingen and Böblingen. Most German cities have a Fussgänger (pedestrian zone) offering a shopping experience that more than makes up for the lack of malls. Think of them as large, open-air, cobble-stoned, mile-long shopping malls. Specialty stores, restaurants and other services line these pedestrian streets, offering just about anything the average shopaholic might desire.

Groceries

Recently, grocery shopping in Germany has become a much more convenient experience. Franchise grocery stores that offer a full range of basic everyday grocery needs can be found in towns (small villages may not have these stores, but they’re usually found in a neighboring village or town). Grocery stores in Germany are laid out similar to U.S. stores, and though the product names and some of the packaging may be different, the basics are still the same. There is fresh produce, canned goods, frozen foods, frozen pizzas and breakfast cereals. German products are measured using the metric system.

Most German grocery stores do not provide free bags at checkout, with customers typically bringing their own reusable ones. Each store will have inexpensive reusable bags available for purchase, along with recyclable paper bags costing around 10-15 euro cents each.

Clothes

Just like the weights and measurements for groceries are metric, clothing sizes in Germany are different to those in the U.S. It helps to know some of the different clothing size systems. There are applications for smartphones that can help with size conversion as well as online resources, though the size conversions can vary significantly from brand to brand and even within the same brand. While some clothing now comes with tags that list both U.S. and European sizes, it’s important to be aware of the differences. Most clothing stores offer changing rooms, so the best practice is to always try clothing on before purchasing it.

Cash and carry!

Cash is still much more widely used in Germany than in the U.S. and many stores do not take credit/bank cards; those that do will sometimes require a minimum purchase. Many larger stores and other shopping venues, including grocery stores, are now accepting credit cards. However, many smaller stores and independent restaurants still don’t.

A good rule of thumb if you are buying food, or shopping in a store where most of the purchases would be below €100 is to be prepared to pay with cash. For stores where the average purchase is much higher, ask if they take credit cards.

Many stores and restaurants will accept a German variant of a debit card, called a Girocard or EC (EuroCheque/Electronic Cash) card, even when they do not take credit. They are also frequently accepted at ticket machines and parking meters. EC cards are connected to a customer’s bank account and are secured with a chip and randomly-assigned PIN. They can be used across Europe and are available through a number of German banks as well as Service Credit Union on post. The credit union’s offering, called V-Pay, is available to members for a set-up fee of $25, with renewal every three years at $15.

Returns

Return policies are another area in which shopping has changed in recent years in Germany, but they are still a little different than in the U.S. Most large department stores will have return policies, but these policies may be more restrictive than those that Americans are familiar with.
Tips to help newcomers ease into life in Stuttgart

USAG Stuttgart Public Affairs

Life in Germany can be very different than in the U.S., and it’s often the little things that make the big difference. These tips may help to ease some of those little daily challenges.

Germany is part of the European Union, a collection of European nations that have extensive legal agreements with one another. Travel across borders in Europe is usually not restricted and is similar to travel between U.S. states. However, anyone on leisure travel (not official orders) should have a tourist passport on them at all times. Service members should also be aware of their organization’s policies on cross-border travel. A leave or pass status is often required when crossing borders.

Due to increased force protection measures, regulations and policies concerning the wear of the uniform off post are more restrictive in Europe than the U.S. Become familiar with your organization’s policies and follow them.

Electricity and communications

Germany uses a 220-volt electrical system which means many appliances from the U.S. require an electrical transformer that will convert 220-volts to 110-volts. However, some appliances won’t work properly, even with a transformer. Also, using transformers tends to use more energy than using 220-volt or dual-voltage appliances. Some 220-volt appliances are available for long-term loan from the Furnishings Management Office.

It is important to check wireless devices brought from the U.S. to ensure they are legal for use in Germany. Many brands of baby monitors, remote control toys, and some cordless telephones made for Germany are available for long-term loan from the Furnishings Management Office.

Restaurants and some bakeries though may have limited hours. In larger cities and on the autobahns, even fuel stations and other convenience stores for streaming video programming. Be aware, because of country copyright restrictions, some of the U.S.-based subscription online services may not work on German Internet connections. Do your research before signing up for an online video streaming or movie download service. Also, be sure to participate in any illegal downloading or uploading of copyrighted material.

Community quiet hours

Most cities and villages have ordinances concerning loud noises on certain days and times. In some areas these are enforceable laws, and in others, simply courtesy guidelines. Regardless of whether or not they are legally enforceable, they are considered a cultural norm to follow. Though specifics may vary from town to town, a good general rule is to observe quiet hours nightly from around 8 or 9 p.m. until about 8 or 9 a.m. Monday through Saturday, and all day on Sunday. During these times, try to keep loud noises to a minimum and do not engage in activities that inherently create loud noises, such as lawn mowing, using power tools or playing loud music. To find out the specific ordinances in your town or village, visit the local government offices.

Germany observes a quiet day on Sundays. Most retailers, including grocery stores and many times even fuel stations and other conveniences, are closed on Sundays. In larger cities and on the autobahns, fuel stations will often be open, though may have limited hours. Restaurants and some bakeries may also be open on Sundays, but will often have limited hours.

Banking and mail

Banking services are offered to the Stuttgart military community by Service Credit Union and the Community Bank. Payment of many German bills, and occasionally retail purchases, are often accomplished through a direct bank transfer system (Überweisung). German transfers can be processed through both SCU and Community Bank, both of which are connected to the German banking system.

Command-sponsored service members and civilian employees will get an Army Post Office mail box for personal use. Because it is part of the U.S. mail system, U.S. mailing rules apply and some things may not be mailed through the APO. Visit www.usps.com before shipping any questionable items. Also, you may be exempted from customs fees when importing items from the U.S., even when shipped through non-U.S. means. Those considering importing items for personal use not through the APO should check with the customs office for more information.

Tipping

Tipping is handled differently in Germany than in the U.S. At restaurants and bars, a set-rate tip is not generally used. Tipping in Germany is based on the quality of the service, and a good rule of thumb is to round to the next even euro amount. For example, if the bill is €14, a tip of about €1 for a total of €15 might be appropriate. Also, tips are usually given directly to the receiving person as part of the payment transaction and are not left on the table. If paying with a credit card, be sure to tell the server the full amount to be paid (including tip) when handing the card over, as most credit card machines in Germany do not provide a receipt that allows for a write-in gratuity.

Bicycling and the commissaries

Germany is ranked the fifth most bike-friendly nation in Europe by the European Cycling Federation (27 total nations ranked). Getting around by bike is safe and easy throughout Germany and makes a great way to stay healthy as well. Cycling paths are abundant and well-marked. While Germany does not have a bicycle helmet law, most U.S. installations do have a mandatory helmet policy for all cyclists. German law requires safety items such as lights, two brakes and reflectors.

Finally, the Defense Commissary Agency offers a wide variety of American brand name foods, fresh produce, beauty and health products and other groceries can be found throughout the Stuttgart military community. The main commissary is on Patch Barracks, with smaller commissaries on Panzer Kaserne, Kelley and Robinson Barracks.

Look for a range of voltage on your devices (instead of just 110V) to ensure they will work properly and safely in Germany.

Getting a USAREUR license in Stuttgart

USAG Stuttgart Public Affairs

The U.S. Army in Europe (USAREUR) driver’s license allows service members, civilians and their family members to drive in Germany without going through the process of attaining a local driver’s license. It is also used as the basis for an International Driving Permit, which allows you to hit the road throughout Europe.

Germany is well-known for its autobahn, a network of roadways later emulated by the U.S. interstate highway system. Incoming personnel may be anxious to get behind the wheel and start zipping around, but before they do, they must know the rules. Anyone arriving on permanent change of station orders falls under the Status of Forces Agreement and must have a USAREUR driver’s license to drive in Germany. Furthermore, an International Driving Permit (IDP) is required to drive in another country.

To get a USAREUR driver’s license, personnel must take an orientation class followed by a test about road-sign identification and a series of questions pertaining to German and European traffic laws. The fee for the class and test is $20, and no appointment is necessary. Applicants must present a stateside driver’s license to take the test. Personnel are advised to have their stateside driver’s license, ID/CAC card, and USAREUR license when driving in Germany, as well as with an International Driver’s Permit when outside the country.

Visitors driving USAREUR-plated vehicles

Visitors should get an international driver’s permit before arrival, then visit the garrison customs office with the license, passport and the registration of the USAREUR-plated vehicle. Visitors without an international driver’s permit must have their valid state-side driver’s license translated from a court approved translator in Germany. The customs office can then issue an exception to policy letter. The visitor must carry the letter, passport, stateside license translation or international driver’s license whenever they are operating the sponsor’s USAREUR-plated vehicle.

Take the test online prior to PCS

Personnel and family members may complete license training and take the exam prior to arrival. Family members should use the DoD identification number located on the front of their ID cards to log on. The online certification is valid for sixty days and must be valid upon arrival at the Drivers Testing Office.

Without exception, personnel and family members who intend on driving must obtain a USAREUR driver’s license. An IDP alone does not give you authority to operate a USAREUR-plated vehicle. Additionally, you cannot legally drive a rental car while you wait for your vehicle to arrive without a USAREUR driver’s license. Obtaining this license is part of the Stuttgart garrison in-processing at the Central Processing Facility, Bldg. 2913 on Panzer Kaserne.

To get an IDP, go to the Driver’s Testing station on Panzer Kaserne with your address and USAREUR license. They will provide you with a form and direct you to the appropriate town hall, where you can receive a German IDP.

Go to http://jko.jten.mil and enroll in the orientation “USA-007, U.S. Forces Driver’s Training Program for Europe,” followed by the test “USA-007-B, U.S. Forces Driver’s Training Program for Europe-Final Course Exam.”

Wait two business days (48 hours) and then come to the Driver’s Testing Training Station in building 2913 to be issued a POV license.

Getting your POV registered and fueled in USAREUR

USAG Stuttgart Public Affairs

Once personnel have their USAREUR driver’s license in hand, they can register an operational vehicle in the USAREUR Vehicle Registry. Whether bringing a vehicle from the U.S. or registering a new or used vehicle purchased here, the process is essentially the same. The first step is usually obtaining temporary license plates and registration. This requires a $35 fee for each year registered (some newer vehicles may be eligible for multi-year registrations).

Customers must bring their U.S. forces identification card, USAREUR driver’s license and proof of insurance, as well as proof of ownership or title when registering a vehicle. Contractors must also bring their Common Access Card (CAC), SOFA card, and passport. The insurance must be valid in Germany; policies good in the States aren’t accepted here.

The temporary plates issued are good for 30 days and are intended to give vehicle owners some time to prepare the vehicle to meet the requirements of the USAREUR safety inspection, which is the next step in the process.

Car owners take their cars to the inspection station where the vehicle will be put through an extensive safety inspection that checks the general mechanical condition of the vehicle, brakes, muffler and exhaust system, safety features and many other components. All vehicles must be re-inspected whenever registration is renewed, which is usually annually. Brand new vehicles may be exempted from the initial inspection; consult the vehicle inspection office for more information.

If the vehicle passes the inspection, the temporary plates can then be exchanged for regular plates. There is no additional fee when exchanging the temporary plates for regular plates unless the customer opts for a two-year registration, in which case an extra $35 will be assessed. If the car fails inspection, the defects will be shown and explained to the owner, who can then have the car repaired on or off base. The vehicle can be taken through inspection several times before passing, and there is not a set restriction on number of inspections, but there is no extension beyond the initial 30-day period.

Appointments for both vehicle registration and inspection can be made through the USAG Stuttgart mobile app. Step-by-step checklists with required documents and processes are available on the garrison website at http://www.stuttgart.army.mil/services-vehiclerelereg.html.

Fuel ration card
The fuel ration card is another benefit derived from the SOFA. This card permits personnel to purchase fuel on post and at select stations off post at prices comparable to stateside prices instead of the standard European price, which is typically much higher. Most cards are good for up to 400 liters of fuel monthly, though some vehicles will be allowed a larger ration. The card can be obtained at the Express gas stations on Patch and Kelley Barracks, as well as the main Exchange on Panzer Kaserne. The card can be preloaded with money (and multiple vehicles registered to the same owner) share from a single monetary balance on the card and each vehicle draws from its own ration balance. The gas card and the associated ration are intended for those personnel listed on the registration only, and cannot be shared with others, even other U.S. personnel who are entitled SOFA benefits.

On post, the card can be used as a prepaid card, or drivers can opt to pay with cash or credit card and keep the card’s balance for off post use. In any case, the card is needed any time the vehicle is fueled in order to avoid paying European prices for fuel.

Drivers should maintain awareness of the remaining balance of their fuel rations. Each time fuel is purchased, a receipt is provided showing the remaining cash and fuel ration balance. Multiple vehicles of the same owner (and multiple vehicles registered to the same sponsor, regardless of the primary user) share from a single monetary balance on the card and each vehicle draws from its own ration balance. The balance on the card and each vehicle remaining cash and fuel ration balance. A receipt is provided showing the remaining cash and fuel ration balance. Multiple vehicles of the same owner (and multiple vehicles registered to the same sponsor, regardless of the primary user) share from a single monetary balance on the card and each vehicle draws from its own ration balance. The balance on the card and each vehicle remaining cash and fuel ration balance. A receipt is provided showing the remaining cash and fuel ration balance. Multiple vehicles of the same owner (and multiple vehicles registered to the same sponsor, regardless of the primary user) share from a single monetary balance on the card and each vehicle draws from its own ration balance. The gas card and the associated ration are intended for those personnel listed on the registration only, and cannot be shared with others, even other U.S. personnel who are entitled SOFA benefits.

So, now with license in hand, a registered vehicle and a fuel ration card, newcomers are ready to drive.

What to know if you get pulled over in Germany

By Emily Jennings
U.S. Army Garrison Wiesbaden
Public Affairs

Driving on the roads in a foreign country where you don’t speak the language fluently can be nerve wracking enough. But imagine getting pulled over by police. That’s what happened last month when Tony Muñoz, a Department of the Army civilian living in Wiesbaden, was on his way back from a trip to the Netherlands.

Muñoz was pulled over just across the border in Germany by an unmarked car that pulled in front of him and flashed signs that read “Polizei” and “Bitte folgen” (Please follow). He knew right away what to do and found a safe place to stop.

Muñoz said the officers who pulled him over were very polite and spoke English. “They asked me a few general questions, such as where I live, where I had traveled to, how long I stayed in the Netherlands and if the car was mine or rented.”

Police also searched Muñoz’s bag and looked in the trunk of his car and underneath the hood. He followed their instructions and was sent on his way. “As I made my way back to the Autobahn,” he said, “I noticed they were already after another car. To me this was a reminder to always carry your documents when going outside of Germany.”

Law abiding drivers who are pulled over by police in Germany should have no problems and will likely be sent on their way promptly, as was the case with Muñoz. But it pays to know what to expect and what documents to have on hand to make the process go as smoothly as possible, police said.

A lot of people see the blue lights and panic, said Sgt. Joseph Onessimo, a traffic officer with the Directorate of Emergency Services. But police officers want to emphasize the importance of slowing down and focusing on safety. “We want people to stop at the next possible safe location,” Onessimo said.

Polizeihaupstkommisar Stefan Heinz, an instructor at the HFPV (University for Police and Administration) said that while getting pulled over in Germany is a bit different from the U.S., what drivers should do once they stop is the same; turn off the engine, remain inside the vehicle, keep hands visible/on the steering wheel and wait for instructions before looking for documents or taking any action.

Police officers will identify themselves and state the reason for the traffic stop. It is important that drivers let the officer know right away if they do not understand German. The vast majority of officers will be able to communicate in English, Heinz said. It may be helpful, however, to keep the garrison military police phone number on hand in the rare case that communication is limited or a driver feels their rights are being violated.

All police in Germany have their respective contacts at each garrison, said Thomas Fink, Wiesbaden Police Directorate Deputy Director. So Polizei will be able to get in contact with Military Police, if necessary.

If a person identifies themselves as a police officer, but they are dressed in civilian clothes, drivers can ask for identification to show proof that they are who they say they are, Heinz said.

The officer will then check the driver for proper documents and may do a quick inspection to ensure that lights are working and that the driver is in possession of a safety vest, warning triangle and first aid kit, he said.

“Keep the proper documents with you in your car, and as long as you follow the proper rules of the road, there’s really nothing to be worried about,” Onessimo said.

Another thing to note about traffic stops in Germany is that two officers typically ride in a car. One officer will communicate with the driver and the other will stand watch to keep the situation secure and may have a machine gun, Heinz said.

Certain routes are known criminal routes, so drivers may be pulled over simply for being on that route, he said. And police may use drug- or money-sniffing dogs.

The thing to remember is that when drivers cooperate, even if they have violated a law, things will go much more smoothly, Fink said. “Let police take the lead, relax and follow instructions.”

Get to know your School Liaison Officers

By Joe Holder and Brian Pappas

School Liaison Officers

As school liaison officers, our goal is to help ease school-related transitions for incoming families. We hope the information below helps to point you in the right direction, and we look forward to answering any questions that arise.

DoDEA schools in the Stuttgart military community area include three elementary schools, one middle school and one high school; each is profiled in the following pages. Enrollment takes place directly at the school in the zone where you live, and school zone maps are available in multiple locations (incl. Panzer Hotel, Child and Youth Services, Housing). We recommend contacting the schools prior to your visit to ensure your registration can be properly processed. Summer hours range between 8:00/9:00-15:00, and most are closed for a 1-hour lunch.

To enroll students, sponsors need to complete school-specific registration paperwork (available at schools and on school websites). They will also need a copy of assignment orders (with children listed), immunization records, physical address, birth certificates (for grades K-1 only) and a sports physical for students to participate in sports. Parents can hand-carry school records in a sealed envelope, but if you do not have sealed school records, the school registrar will request them from your child’s previous school.

Please note that there are currently elementary school zone exceptions for some hotels in the area, so contact the school liaison office, transportation office, or schools directly for the most up-to-date zone exceptions. Also, remember to provide the school an address update when you do find permanent housing.

The first day of school for students in grades 1-12 is August 27th. The first day of school for kindergarten is September 4th or 5th, depending on your child’s school.

Prior to the start of school, both parents and students will have the opportunity to attend student/parent orientations, receive tours and class schedules. The school liaison office and schools can provide the most up-to-date information, including school supply lists, upon request.

Other schooling possibilities include homeschooling, German schools, or International schools. Please contact us directly if you are interested in any of those options.

If you have other questions or concerns, or if there is anything that the School Liaison Office can do to help ease your transition to USAG Stuttgart, please do not hesitate to contact us. We look forward to hearing from you and will do our best to connect you with your schools and community.

SCHOOL LUNCH PROGRAM

All student meals are subsidized by the USDA. The rate of support varies by qualifying category. Free and reduced applications are now completed online, making the process quick and easy. Only one annual application per family is required. Once you submit your online application, you will receive confirmation of application status, typically within 24 hours. Your child's lunch account is automatically updated to reflect the free or reduced price status for the remainder of the current school year. Applications must be made annually.

Robinson Barracks Elementary School:

Robinson Barracks Elementary School (RBES) opened in 1953 in a building that previously held a military hospital for U.S. forces. The school has undergone several changes to its academic structure over the years, alternating between an elementary school and an elementary/middle school. Renovations and modernizations occurred in the late 1980s and early 90s. The school offers the standard DoDEA curriculum and provides extracurricular activities.

The school educates a student population of about 280 in kindergarten through fifth grade, with a staff of approximately 45 teachers and administrators. RBES values strong community-school relationships that are essential to high academic achievement. It believes that successful schools include parents and community members that are involved and supportive. The community recognizes the value of educational and extracurricular activities, and RBES expects their students to excel both inside and outside of the classroom.

It is a 2017 recipient of the National Blue Ribbon Award for Excellence. Patch MS offers a diverse set of classes. In addition to the core subjects of math, science, languages and social studies, it offers many classes in art, music and technology to students in grades 6-8. Students have the opportunity to take advanced classes in foreign languages and mathematics. This challenging and engaging curriculum ensures that the students of Patch MS are on the path to be college and career ready.

Patch MS offers varying extracurricular activities in art, astronauts, band, chess, debate, drama, jazz, robotics and more.

Patch Elementary School:

Patch Elementary School (PES) prides itself on a very active Parent-Teacher Association and School Advisory Committee, and emphasizes the partnership between the school and parents. PES offers the standard DoDEA K-5 curriculum, including a robust special needs program for both students with special needs, and gifted and talented students.

Temporarily located in Bldg. 2918 on Panzer Kaserne, PES serves a student population of about 470 students with 75 teachers and administrators.

The school is set to return to its previous location on Patch Barracks once the new school project is complete. Extracurricular activities include running, yearbook, art and robotics clubs, yoga, chorus, “Just Dance” and a student council. The school’s mascot is a stallion.
Stuttgart Elementary School:

Stuttgart Elementary School (SES), previously known as Böblingen Elementary School, shares a new school complex on Panzer Kaserne with Stuttgart High School. It has a student population of about 630, with a staff of 70 teachers and administrators.

SES believes in students, parents and community leaders working together in partnership with teachers. The school supports programs that encourage parent involvement and building a strong parent-school partnership. Family nights, parent-teacher conferences, parent advisory groups, awards programs, classroom volunteers, parents as resource persons in the classroom and parent chaperones are just a few of the ways it’s built an effective parent school partnership.

Health care in Stuttgart explained

USAG Stuttgart Public Affairs

The health system for service members, retirees, civilians and their families in Germany consists of local military community health services on Patch Barracks and Kelley Barracks, local host nation medical facilities for inpatient and outpatient primary and specialty care, and the Landstuhl Regional Medical Center (LRMC).

Upon arrival in Stuttgart, Tricare beneficiaries must complete local enrollment during the healthcare in-process brief at the Central Medical Processing Facility. If not able to attend the brief, enrollment can also be completed at the Tricare Service Center located at the Patch Health Clinic. Civilians are also strongly encouraged to register at the clinic. Service members need to in-process through Medical Readiness to ensure all vaccinations, periodic health examinations, etc., are up to date.

The Stuttgart military community is served by the Stuttgart Army Health Clinic on Patch Barracks, the Kelley Barracks clinic annex and the Stuttgart Dental Clinic on Panzer Kaserne.

The health clinic provides health care using the patient-centered medical home model which is a team-based health care delivery model, led by a physician, physician’s assistant, or nurse practitioner, that provides comprehensive and continuous medical care to patients. The services offered at the health clinic include: primary care, pediatrics, behavioral health, optometry, physical therapy, wellness center, telehealth, and public health.

The Stuttgart Army Health Clinic does not provide emergency services; it relies on local German hospitals to provide emergency care. For this reason, in case of an emergency, do not go to the Stuttgart clinic. Dial 112 from a civilian phone to reach the German emergency services. From on-base DSN phones, dial 116 for the Military Police desk. The MPs can then contact additional emergency services as needed.

Care at the Patch and Kelley Clinic is provided based on enrollment status. Service members and their command-sponsored families have priority access to the clinic. All Retirees not already enrolled with the clinic along with civilians, contractors, and their families should check-in with the health clinic to determine if space is available for them to receive care.

The Kelley Clinic Annex offers adult primary care, limited physical therapy, pharmacy refill pick up services and limited Tricare services.

Dental Clinic

The dental clinic’s primary mission is to provide dental treatment to service members. Other than active duty, such as family members, retirees and others, are seen on a space-available basis.

The dental clinic provides general dentistry as well as specialty care for pediatric dentistry, orthodontics, prosthodontics and periodontics. Services in endodontics are limited at this time. Some oral surgery support is available at the clinic, but complex surgery is referred to LRMC.

The Tricare Dental Plan was implemented to assist with dental care for family members and retirees. It is available worldwide, both inside and outside the continental United States. United Concordia became the carrier for this plan on May 1, 2017. For more information, visit https://www.uc-citdp.com

Host nation medical care

For some services, primary care... providers may refer patients to host nation facilities, and the Stuttgart Army Health Clinic maintains relationships with an extensive network of English-speaking providers for specialty care on the German economy.

Tricare Prime beneficiaries should contact their primary care team for routine off-post referrals then contact International S.O.S. (ISOS) to obtain authorization. Host nation treatment facilities may refuse to see Prime beneficiaries without ISOS authorization for routine care. They should also notify ISOS for all emergency care authorization and billing issues. ISOS can be reached by telephone at CIV 0800-5891599 (toll-free from Germany) or Europe-wide at 0044-20-8762-8384 (international rates apply).

Those who are referred off-base should be aware that host nation medical clinics and hospitals have similar standards of care as those in the U.S., however, we may have culture differences. For example, the general approach to how pain is addressed after a surgery can be quite different than what many Americans are used to, so please keep in mind that German physicians may not always use a chaperone when examining patients of the opposite sex. Ask for a chaperone if you feel uncomfortable.

Generally, there are no privacy screens between beds. Do not wear transparent clothing. Take appropriate clothing that allows you to remain semi-dressed during an upper body exam. Patients may be asked to undress while nursing staff is passing through the area. This is considered proper. Please be respectful of their standards but do not hesitate to inform the staff if you feel uncomfortable.

Landstuhl Regional Medical Center
LRMC is about a two-and-a-half-hour drive from the Stuttgart area. It offers a wide variety of specialty clinics and is a U.S. Level III Trauma Center verified by the American College of Surgeons. Major surgeries, specialty services and most other services not available at the Stuttgart clinics are available at LRMC. Visiting the specialty clinics at LRMC starts with a referral from Stuttgart’s primary care providers.

Telehealth and online services
The Telehealth Program directly connects geographically separated patients at U.S. Army Health Clinic Stuttgart with specialty care providers at LRMC via the use of video-teleconferencing. Patients can expect that advanced medical devices such as otoscopes, stethoscopes and general exam cameras to be used if applicable. This service can alleviate the need to travel to LRMC while still receiving the same specialty care. You may initiate a Telehealth referral by either obtaining a referral from a clinic provider or by self-referral.

The Stuttgart health clinic uses the online “Relay Health System,” in addition to online services offered by Tricare, to maximize the health care services provided. Relay Health is an online messaging service that allows patients to contact their primary care provider and ask those questions, or receive advice that may not require an in-person appointment. This system is a secured messaging system and is a great way to get lab results, prescription refills or ask non-urgent medical questions. If you are out of refills on any of your medication, please know that your primary care manager may want to see you in the clinic before placing a new order for medications.

Tricare Online
Tricare Online offers a way for eligible patients to schedule or cancel appointments at any time. Patients can even look at their lab results and submit medical bills online. For more information go to the Tricare website at www.tricareonline.com. Note: To use this service, you have to registrar and create user ID and password. Patients are highly encouraged to submit medical bills via www.tricareonline.com.
Caring for your pet overseas

Moving to an overseas installation can be stressful for pets

USAG Stuttgart Public Affairs

What will their life in Stuttgart will be like? Is there a good veterinarian there? Are there dog parks? Can pets go downtown, into public places, or travel with the family on vacation? For those with four-legged family members to consider, the following tips may make the transition easier for all involved, even the family pet.

Finding veterinary care providers

Upon arrival to Stuttgart, finding suitable veterinary care is simple. The Stuttgart Veterinary Treatment Facility offers space-available routine annual exams and services, dental and surgical procedures and over the counter pet health product sales.

Service members, Department of Defense civilians and family members are authorized to bring their pets to the clinic. For some families, it is more convenient to have their pet seen at a host nation veterinary clinic. Here in Stuttgart, pet owners can find several great clinics in the local area, including 24-hour emergency facilities, specialty hospitals where pets can receive advanced diagnostic and surgical care, and some excellent general practice veterinary clinics.

Many German veterinarians speak English, so there is no need to worry about a language barrier disrupting a pet’s medical care, and some also accept the VAT form.

In addition to veterinary clinics, Stuttgart also has a good selection of boarding facilities, pet stores and dog groomers.

Know the rules

Living with pets in Germany can be a rewarding experience, as many local businesses allow well-behaved dogs inside their establishments. Dogs are often allowed to ride on the public transportation system at a discounted fair.

However, there are some laws governing animal ownership that might be new to people coming from the U.S. Certain breeds (for example, American Staffordshire terriers and bull terriers) are completely banned from entering Germany, and those attempting to import them can be fined or imprisoned while the animal can be deported or seized. Other breeds are restricted, meaning that they are permitted to be in Germany, but special precautions could be required, such as the dog wearing a muzzle when in public, undergoing temperament evaluation, or the owner may be required to take out a special liability insurance policy on the pet. The list of breeds varies by city and state, so owners are encouraged to contact their local German town halls for additional information.

It is important for American personnel to understand that traditionally, pets in Germany have a high level of obedience training. Many regular pet owners, not just hobby pet-show competitors, take their dogs to a number of extensive training sessions. Obedience training is offered by several local dog clubs and many of the members speak English. Pets are often expected to be as self-disciplined and quiet as a very well-behaved child. An out of control pet is looked down upon in Germany. Additionally, leash laws and other pet-related ordinances in Germany can be more extensive and vary from town-to-town or county-to-county. Again, the local German town hall can be a good source of information on local ordinances and pet clubs that offer training.

Traveling with a pet

Pet owners looking to travel with their pet while in Europe may be surprised to find just how easy and fun it can be. Within the European Union, an EU pet passport has been established that contains a brief history of a pet’s vaccination records and important lab work.

This passport allows the pet to move with the owner within most nations of the EU with ease. In most cases, travelers will not need to see a veterinarian for a health certificate like the one needed when traveling from the U.S. to Germany. As long as the passport is up-to-date and contains all of the necessary information, travelers can usually just get in the car and go.

EU pet passports are highly recommended as they greatly simplify the vacation travel process and help alleviate stress. A pet passport can only be obtained by visiting an off-base veterinarian, however, the Stuttgart VTF can and will annotate, in them, exam dates and immunizations received during an appointment.

The Stuttgart Veterinary Treatment Facility, located on Panzer Kaserne, offers space-available routine annual exams and vaccinations, sick call appointments, and dental and surgical services.

Understanding SOFA, your legal status

USAG Stuttgart Law Center

As a newly-arrived member to the community, it is important to understand your legal status in Germany and your protections. Service members, civilians and family members on military orders are governed by the NATO Status of Forces Agreement. Understanding how the SOFA affects you will make for a more enjoyable overseas tour, and perhaps prevent unpleasant, potentially costly mistakes.

NATO Status of Forces Agreement (SOFA)

The SOFA provides the basis for the legal status of military, U.S. civilian employees and dependents living in Germany on orders. Under an additional supplementary agreement, personnel in Germany also enjoy privileges not granted to others service members stationed elsewhere in Europe. These agreements affect status, entry and departure from the host nation, military training within host nation territory, jurisdiction, law enforcement, taxation, import and export laws, driving privileges, employment, mail, schooling, housing and much more.

German law applies to everyone

Although the SOFA determines your legal status, it is important to understand that German law applies to U.S. personnel both on and off base. U.S. installations are not U.S. soil. Additionally, while there are many similarities between German and U.S. law, there are also many stark differences. For example, spanking or paddling children as a means of punishment for disobedience is prohibited under German criminal law. German law considers it “physical punishment,” which makes it tantamount to child abuse. German civil law also differs quite a bit from what our German hosts and awareness of host-nation law.

Contracts

Too often, Americans sign German documents without properly reviewing them. When considering, for example, a cellphone contract, don’t sign it until someone who reads German reviews the documents, or if you don’t understand your obligations. In Germany, many service contracts automatically renew for one-year increments after the initial two-year expiration. You must give proper notice to terminate the contract; for example, if you fail to give proper written notice of termination leaving, you could be on the hook for an extra year of cellphone service after leaving Germany. It is possible to send the notice with an effective date that is well in the future. For instance, notice could be sent as early as a month after service begins, but have an effective date that is two years in the future.

Finally, keep a copy of termination notices and the company’s response. Army Community Service can help with proactively terminating such services. An alternative to signing a contract is to get a prepaid plan.

Host-Nation Relations

A number of issues can be avoided with a little deference to our German hosts and awareness of host-nation law.

For instance, in German culture, German citizens are encouraged to report inappropriate behavior parking in a no-parking area. If someone tells you that you are parked in the wrong spot, it would behoove you to move; small confrontations combined with a language barrier quickly escalate, resulting in police involvement, hefty fines and court costs. In Germany, if you flip someone off or use aggressive language toward someone else, you can be sued and forced to pay what is known as “Scherzensgeld” or “pain money.”

In Germany, folding, locking-blade knives and all knives with a blade longer than 12cm (4.7 inches) are generally banned. For more information, you can visit the German government’s English translation of their weapons laws at their website www.bmjv.de. Click the top menu link for the English page, then scroll down and find the link to Translations of Statutes and Ordinances. The laws affecting knives are under WafG, or Weapons Act. If you choose to carry a pocketknife, never carry it to a local fest, large public gatherings, places where alcohol is consumed and where there will be a police presence.

Traffic laws

Speed cameras are much more common in Stuttgart and throughout Germany than they are in the U.S. Unfortunately, the Law Center lacks legal authority to assist drivers who receive a speeding ticket or other traffic citation. We can, however, help translate the letter and explain the situation. Prompt payment of the fines is highly recommended.

The U.S. Army in Europe vehicle registry records German traffic violations and assigns traffic points. Drivers who get 12 or more traffic points in a one-year period face a mandatory license suspension under the Army in Europe Regulations. Those caught driving on a suspended license face a five-year revocation of driving privileges.

Download Media Online

German copyright laws are strictly enforced and our community has seen a surge in demand letters from law firms for illegal downloading of protected material. Such demand letters can involve heavy fees or fines imposed on those caught downloading or uploading media in violation of German copyright laws. The best practice is not to engage in any illegal downloading or uploading of copyrighted materials.

Those who receive a document that appears to be a legal notice concerning downloading or uploading copyrighted materials should contact the Law Center prior to responding to the letter.

Tax-free privileges

The SOFA affords some very nice tax breaks to personnel under orders to be in Germany. Sharing these tax breaks with non-SOFA protected persons are strictly prohibited. Violations can cost a person their SOFA privileges, or worse, result in federal criminal convictions. Specifically, misuse of the fuel ration system or VAT exemption can create trouble very quickly. Also, anything acquired under the provisions of the SOFA at the Exchange, commissary or tax-exempt purchases made with a VAT form, are for personal use and are not allowed to be used in private business ventures. Don’t allow landlords to use VAT forms to repair or improve their property. Those interested in getting involved in a personal business while overseas under the SOFA are highly encouraged to consult the Installation Commercial Affairs Office.

Marriage

Marriage and divorce in Germany can be quite different than the U.S. Marriage or divorce documents are not easily transferred or mutually applied between German authorities and various states in the U.S. Any divorce, whether overseas or back in the U.S., can be very complicated and could cost hundreds of thousands of dollars for alimony, child support, division of marital assets, and legal fees. Former spouses could seek a court order for money, call your commander to enforce a separation agreement, or any obligation under military regulations to support families. Since the Law Center cannot represent personnel in divorces, you will have to seek services from a German attorney.

Your tour in Germany can be a very enjoyable experience; make the most of it by staying out of legal trouble. Know and respect the laws and our German hosts.

Renting off-post quarters

Personnel must check-in at the Housing Services Office within two days of arrival in Stuttgart and keep them informed of their housing search status at all times. Those residing off-post must be thorough and business-like when establishing a contract and moving in. Landlord-tenant laws are very different in Germany and are, in many ways, pro-landlord. Keep all meetings with the landlord, at least the initial ones, strictly business-like. One key difference between U.S. landlord-tenant law and Germany landlord-tenant law is that you can form an oral contract to rent property in Germany. This means you must watch what you say to a prospective landlord or realtor when discussing a property.

Once you find a place, note all preexisting damage on the inspection sheet provided by the Housing Office. Don’t rely on anyone else to note deficiencies. Anything you don’t annotate on your initial inspection will be attributed to you when the time arrives for your departure date. You’ll be personally responsible for repairs that aren’t noted on the initial inspection sheet. You can pay for the repairs out your own pocket or from your security deposit. It is critical to remember that renting property is a business transaction.

Also, be careful when dealing with realtors. Realtors technically work for the potential renter seeking the property, but they are very familiar with the local landlords. Landlords often have more than one rental property and if their tenants are Americans, new tenants rotate through their properties every two to three years. This reality means realtors often take sides during landlord-tenant disputes. Additionally, there may be hefty realtor fees associated with a property. In almost all cases, realtor fees are not reimbursable. Check with the housing office before contacting a realtor.

Purchases €2,499 and below

For purchases less than €2,500 net price after removing the VAT, a simple VAT form NF-1 is completed together by customer and the retailer, with the customer keeping the pink and white pages of the form and the retailer or vendor keeps the remaining pages of the form. Customers then reconcile the forms by providing the white copy to the VAT office while keeping the pink copy for their own records. Retailers are not required to accept the form or offer tax relief, but many do. Typically, retailers near military installations are more familiar with the forms. For retailers who have not used the form before, the VAT Office offers an information sheet in German that explains the retailer’s use of the form. VAT forms may be purchased for $5 per NF-1 form, and each sponsor may only have 10 open forms out at any one time.

VAT

The first and most common form of tax relief is from the tax known as Value Added Tax (VAT). VAT is imposed by Germany on a wide variety of goods bought or sold in Germany. While amounts can vary for certain items, most retail goods are taxed at 19 percent. This tax is already calculated into the advertised price of retail goods, so the amount on the price tag includes the tax, and is what most customers pay for the item at the register. Significant money can be saved from the advertised price by removing the VAT.

Purchases €2,499 and below

For purchases less than €2,500 net price after removing the VAT, a simple VAT form NF-1 is completed together by customer and the retailer, with the customer keeping the pink and white pages of the form and the retailer or vendor keeps the remaining pages of the form. VAT forms may be purchased for $5 per NF-1 form, and each sponsor may only have 10 open forms out at any one time.

VAT forms can’t be used for costs related to buying or selling real estate, or for the purchase of automobiles that will not be registered in the USAEUR vehicle registration system. They also can’t be used for any items used in a commercial activity (such as a home business), long-term utility, telephone and Internet contracts.

Purchases of €2,500 or more

For purchases of more than €2,499, consumers must get a NF-2 VAT form. This form costs $65, and there are more restrictions and a process that must be followed correctly or the consumer may end up not being able to get tax relief for the purchase in question. Most importantly, before making any legal commitment to purchase an item over €2,500, contact the VAT Office to start the process. These forms cannot be used after the purchase has been made or ordered, and in most cases, the purchase is actually made by the buyer in conjunction with the servicing VAT Office.

Family and Morale, Welfare and Recreation Services must actually be named on the purchase documents (they may be listed as ‘FMWR services’). Those considering large purchases should contact the VAT office for more information, prior to making a purchase.

UTAP

Some personnel are eligible for relief from utility taxes through the Utility Tax Avoidance Program. Enrollment in this program may be mandatory for some personnel receiving housing or living quarters allowances and can save enrollees significant money over the course of several years.

Prohibited practices

Use of VAT forms is a privilege extended to personnel under the SOFA, but while the program is based on rules that were provided to the US Forces by the German Government authorities, there are restrictions on the use of VAT forms. To avoid losing VAT relief privileges, avoid the following prohibited practices:

• Using an un-priced purchase order (NF-1) for any amount of €2,500 or more.
• Using an un-priced (NF-1) or priced (NF-2) purchase order that has an issue date after the designated agent (customer) “order date,” vendor’s delivery date, or date of invoice (A VAT form must be obtained prior to initiating/ordering a service or buying an item).
• Splitting invoice amounts between two or more un-priced (NF-1) purchase orders to avoid using a priced (NF-2) purchase order for an amount of €2,500 or more.
• Purchasing goods or services that benefit ineligible persons.
• Buying used automobiles, repair parts or services for resale. This activity is considered “trading in the commercial sector” and is illegal in conjunction with tax relief, regardless of who buys the items or services offered.
• Buying new or used automobiles from German vendors for registration in the German (or other non-U.S. Forces) vehicle registration system (Kfz-Zulassung).
• Using VAT forms for costs related to buying or selling real estate.
• Using VAT forms for construction, renovation or home repair costing €2,500 or more without IMCOM-Europe prior approval, and for unauthorized repairs or renovations below €2,500.
• Using VAT forms for utilities or telecommunication services based on long-term contracts.
• Making other purchases that are prohibited by AE Regulation 215-6/USAFE Instruction 34-102.
• Returning VAT forms that are not completed properly (for example, amount in Box 4, signature in Boxes 7 or 10, dates in Boxes 8 or 11, Box 12, Box 13).
• Using an expired VAT form (VAT forms are valid for two years from the date of purchase). Issue/expiration dates are identified in block 3, on the top-right side of the purchased VAT form, (AE Form 215-6B).

The UTAP office has established relationships with most of the regional service providers, and can help customers enroll in the program. There is a fee of $99 for enrollment. The application form should be filled out ahead of time and is available for download at http://stuttgart.armymwr.com/europe/stuttgart/programs/utap.

Value Added Tax forms are closed by turning in the white copy or dropping it off in the VAT boxes located inside the mail rooms.

Getting around via public transportation in Germany

The German transit system service is a vast, extensive network of stations that are accessible, most within walking distance, of almost everywhere within the Stuttgart area. S-Bahn trains are for short-distance and express service within a region and available near most Stuttgart Military Installations.

Public transport is the ideal way to travel in Germany and throughout Europe. The German transit system is composed of a vast network of stations that are accessible, most within walking distance, of almost everywhere within the Stuttgart area and beyond.

Buying tickets can be done at stations or online. One option is to download the Verkehrs Verbund Stuttgart (VVS) or SSB Move mobile app. There you can set up an account which stores your credit card information to purchase tickets on the go. After the purchase, the app stores a bar code which can be shown to ticket checkers by request as proof of purchase. An email receipt is also automatically sent to you as an alternate proof of purchase including the bar-code. Once the ticket is downloaded to your phone, you will not need a data connection to retrieve it; just be sure to keep your phone charged while you’re on the train.

For ticketing information on local and regional trains, ticket machines are available at each station stop to purchase a paper ticket. While some have a touch screen interface, many older platform machines have codes to enter in to determine your zone and ticket type (more on navigating zones below).

Ticket machines at most train stations not only sell tickets but also offer information about schedules, delays and services available. Travelers can also print a travel itinerary free of charge. Not all machines accept credit cards so it is always recommended to carry euros, or use the mobile app which can link to your credit card.

German rail, like most public transit, operates on the honor system. Travelers purchase tickets and step onto the train without a gate or an attendant checking the ticket upon entry. Passengers with paper tickets must stamp their ticket on the train when using U-Bahn local transit, or at the station platform or entrance to the train station when taking S-Bahn or regional trains. Not having a valid ticket will result in fines.

Conductors periodically check for tickets and the fines for riding without a ticket can be very hefty. It is important for travelers to make sure they have valid tickets for each and every trip, no matter how short.

The various levels of transit services work together to connect to nearly every city, town or village in Germany. Stops and stations may be served by one or more agencies and types of transit, including S-Bahn lines, U-Bahn lines, Straßenbahn (streetcar) and bus lines. VVS coordinates operations between all transit agencies in the greater Stuttgart area so that one ticket may be used across all available modes of transport.

Occasionally ticket machines may be inoperable, so aside from using the mobile app, buy some of the four-pass paper tickets in advance to keep on hand, especially when visitors are in town. They are good unstamped for one year and transferable to anyone.

Deutsche Bahn (DB) operates the national rail service. You can book long distance travel through a Bahn office using a VAT tax form, or online without a VAT form. DB operates several levels of rail service ranging from local commuter trains to express trains that cross the country in a matter of hours.

S-Bahn red trains are for short-distance and express service within a region. An S-Bahn train is a no-frills commuter train without toilets or concessions.

A Regiobahn (regional) train, also red, is for any distance within a region and can be very cost-effective. It has toilets (not to be used when the train is at a station) and some trains have a concessions cart with coffee and snacks.

The white IC (InterCity) and ICE (InterCity Express) trains are for long distances, to include neighboring countries. IC and ICE train seats may be reserved, including specifics like having a window seat with a table or a quieter compartment. Most ICs and all ICes will have a bistro or dining car, and ICES will have Wi-Fi connectivity.

Navigating the transit systems

Transit line maps are available at station platforms, online and within the mobile apps. Local transit travel in Stuttgart is broken down by zones; zone maps are also available in the same locations. Inputting your journey (stop to stop, or even door to door) into the VVS website or one of the mobile apps will allow you to see exactly how many zones you will need.

Examples travelling to downtown Stuttgart:
- From Boeblingen (Near Panzer Kaserne): 4 zones
- From Vaihingen (Near Patch Barracks): 2 zones
- From Mohringen (Near Kelley Barracks): 2 zones
- From Robinson Barracks area stations: 2 zones
- From downtown Stuttgart, Hauptsbahnhof (main station) to the Stuttgart Airport: 3 zones

Not all tickets are created equal

The key to car-free European adventures is knowing your options and how to get the local deals.

A 4-pass paper ticket is available at machines. This ticket is good for four train rides within the purchased zones. Unstamped tickets are good for one year.

- A short-trip ticket is for passengers travelling within three bus or U-Bahn stops, or one stop in the S-Bahn.
- A day ticket, available on all local transit within a selected zone(s), is good all day.
- A group day ticket is good for up to 5 people in the selected zones.

Though it sounds easy enough, simply buying a ticket, when combined with the language barrier and the not-so-consistent ticket machines can be overwhelming. When all else fails, ask the experts to help you get started.

Several bread-and-butter deals are always available at the ticket kiosks. The following are by no means an exhaustive list, but should get travelers off on the right foot.

The Bahn office is located at the Stuttgart main station downtown, and also in the main stations in Vaihingen near Patch Barracks and the Boeblingen station near Panzer Kaserne. Agents there can help you find the best fares for travel. You can also purchase weekly, monthly and yearly local transit passes. The Bahn offices accept VAT forms, which are best used when booking costly or multiple trips. There is a two-euro fee for purchasing in-person, but it is a small price to pay when you consider the potential savings of a VAT form.

Cancellation can be as easy as submitting a form letter to the DB website, and it can be done as early as desired. Providing this notice simply advises DB not to renew the card; it will still be valid through the expiry date.

With a BahnCard 25, travelers get 25 percent off all regular and saver fares. DB often publishes trial offers, like a card for 19 euros that is valid for three months (or similar promotions you can use to test out) if buying a card for the year is worth it to you or not.

With a BahnCard 50, travelers receive 50 percent off all regular fare purchases and 25 percent off saver fares. This card is best for travelers who use the travel several times each month to travel outside of Stuttgart.

Although there’s no substitute for good advance planning, many of the standing ticket offers through Deutsche Bahn provide flexibility for the spontaneous traveler. Taking the train offers several benefits and can even be a viable, inexpensive option when traveling in a group.

A car may get you there quicker, but getting there faster isn’t always the best way to travel.

Baden-Württemberg Regional Ticket

BW tickets apply to regional transit, not IC or ICE trains, and your usage must begin after 9 a.m. on weekdays. This ticket is perfect for day trips on regional trains and the S-Bahn/local transit for solo travel or with a group of friends within Baden-Württemberg. The ticket is good for up to five people. You must write your name on the ticket. Make sure your train arrives before the ticket expires. The official “DB Navigator” app also has an option to route your journey only through regional transit to ensure that you only use services that are included.

Quer-durchs-Land and Schönes-Wochenende Ticket

The Quer-durchs-Land (across the country) ticket offers unlimited regional train travel for one day throughout Germany, Monday-Friday. Like the BW Ticket, it’s good for up to five people. The Schönes-Wochenende (beautiful weekend) ticket is good for travel on weekends. Up to five people can travel using this ticket.

Experience Swabian politics through CCVP

USAG Stuttgart Public Affairs

Several times per year, a group of service members, DoD civilians and family members from the U.S. Army Garrison Stuttgart community have the opportunity to spend a day downtown as guests of the state parliament, state government and the City of Stuttgart.

Since 1993, the Capital City Visitation Program has increased German-American contact and provided an overview of the German state of Baden-Württemberg. Participants are from all services, ranks and units stationed within the garrison footprint. It is an excellent opportunity to learn the history shared by the U.S. Forces and the local government. The tour emphasizes the crucial role the U.S. played in reconstructing war-torn Germany and providing it with its present day democratic constitution.

The program begins at the state parliament, with a presentation on the political structure and current political situation as well as a comparison to the U.S. political system. The presentation will also include a film about the State of Baden-Württemberg. A luncheon is hosted for participants after visiting parliament.

The program includes a walking tour to the adjacent State Theater, Neues Schloß, Altes Schloß and the Market Hall of Stuttgart, concluding with a reception at city hall with the lord mayor or his personal envoy.

The presentation at city hall includes a film showing some of the highlights of the city of Stuttgart and the state of Baden-Württemberg. Participants receive informative handouts in the form of brochures and books covering a myriad of topics on history, politics and culture, as well as taking a light-hearted look at interesting cultural differences between Germans and Americans.

The tour is the participants’ place of duty for that day in civilian attire. It is not designed for children.
DFMWR offers a wide variety of services
Directorate of Family and Morale, Welfare and Recreation

USAG Stuttgart DFMWR

The U.S. Army Garrison Stuttgart Directorate of Family and Morale, Welfare and Recreation operates more than 46 facilities across four installations and a golf course to provide a wide variety of programs and services for all ages and interest groups.

It is committed to the well-being of the community of people who serve and stand ready to defend the nation, said Andrea Stauffer, marketing director, Stuttgart DFMWR. “Our goal is to enhance the lives of service members, their families, civilian employees and retirees,” Stauffer said.

Keeping the military resilient and ready to fight takes more than hard work and training—it takes a balance of work and play. According to Stauffer, that is where DFMWR fits into the picture.

“We try to focus our programs on meeting the physical, social, spiritual, emotional and family needs of our military community,” she said.

“It’s all about providing a balance to increase readiness and resiliency so our customers can enjoy all that Europe has to offer while stationed overseas.”

DFMWR employs more than 400 staff members and consists of five divisions that provide a wide variety of services to the community.

Community recreation and more
DFMWR operates four fitness centers; two libraries; the Auto Skills Shop, including a motorcycle storage, vehicle lubrication and a dog wash; Outdoor Recreation; the Warrior Zone; the Broadway Cafe; Better Opportunities for Single Service Members; the award-winning Stuttgart Theatre Center; and arts and crafts programs.

Additionally, the recreation division coordinates a number of special community-wide events, such as the winter market; Community Activities, Registration and Education Fair; and the Independence Day celebration. Other special event productions include comedy shows, musical performances and special acts.

Other activities include the 7,000 yard, 18-hole, par 72 golf course and its storage facility near Robinson Barracks; the 24-lane Galaxy Bowling and Entertainment Center on Panzer Kaserne; the Patch Community Club, Java Cafe and the Swabian Special Events Center on Patch Barracks; and the Kelley Club on Kelley Barracks.

The DFMWR business division works closely with Army Lodging at the Panzer and Kelley Hotels, which normally operate at a 95 percent occupancy rate.

Army Community Service

ACS, located in Bldg. 2915, Panzer Kaserne, provides assistance and education to support the total Military Family. Programs and services include: Employment Readiness, Financial Readiness and Army Emergency Relief, Family Advocacy Program and Victim Advocate, Sexual Harassment Assault Response Program (SHARP) and Sexual Assault Response Coordinator, New Parent Support Program, Exceptional Family Member Program, Army Volunteer Corps, Relocation Readiness and Lending Closet, Mobilization and Deployment, and the Military Family Life Counselor program.

“If you need assistance or a resource for just about anything, ACS is there to help. In USAG Stuttgart, Army Community Service is the family center for all branches of the military,” said Tawania Kovacs, director, Stuttgart ACS. ACS also offers free unofficial translation services to assist with reviewing cellphone, internet or any other contracts before you sign. Please call for an appointment at DSN 431-3362 or CIV 07031-15-3362.

Child, Youth and School Services

The largest division within DFMWR is the Child, Youth and School Services division. Parents with children will likely engage with one or more of the services provided by CYS.

Services include the child development centers; Strong Beginnings; part-day preschool; school-age and middle school programs; Schools of Knowledge, Inspiration, Exploration, Skills Unlimited and youth sports; CYS Services provides accredited programs, education and fun for the whole family.

CYS cares for children so that parents can focus on the mission while they are at work. Special after-hours care is frequently provided so that parents can take a break to enjoy other activities taking place on and off post.

Non-Appropriated Funds

The NAF division maintains the DFMWR machine by providing overhead support in the way of marketing, commercial sponsorship and advertising, financial management, supply and warehousing functions, internal controls and property accountability, and information technology support for facilities, computers, point-of-sale sites and management information-systems. Many of these areas may seem unglamorous, but they are necessary to ensure all of the programs and services operate without a hitch.

Spring to Winter: Germany’s 5 festive seasons

Compiled by Teri Weiss, Carola Meusel & Holly DeCarlo-White
USAG Stuttgart Public Affairs Office

There are five seasons in Germany: Spring, summer, fall, winter — and Fasching.

Fasching – Jan/Feb

In Germany, the terms vary regionally: Fasching, Fastnacht, Fasnet, or Karneval and are derived from different sources.

Fasching dates back to 1200 and originated from the Germanic word “vaschance” or “vaschang,” meaning “Fastensenschank,” which translates to the last serving of alcoholic beverages before Lent.

Fastnacht translates to “Nacht vor dem Fasten,” or the night before fasting. The Swabian word “Fasnet” comes from the Old German word “fasen,” meaning to be foolish, silly or wild.

Karneval, or carnival’s word origin is uncertain. Some believe it comes from ancient Greek processions and floats resembling ships, which the Romans later called a “carrus navalis.” Others think it may be based on the Latin term “carne levare,” which means away with meat, hence carnival.

No matter what you call it, for most Germans it’s a time to live it up with fests, parades, music and many “foolish” events the week before Ash Wednesday, when the 40-day Lent before Easter begins.

The Fasching season officially begins each year on Jan. 7, one day after Epiphany, or Three King’s Day.

In some areas, Fasching guilds commemorate the beginning of Fasching on Nov. 11 at 11:11 a.m. with local ceremonial events that prepare for the official start of the foolish season in January. During the middle ages, the number 11 represented the “Narrenzahl,” or fool’s number. Why 11? The number is sandwiched between the 10 biblical commandments and the 12 apostles of Jesus and, therefore, is not a holy number, according to an official of the “Grübler” Fasching guild in Neuhausen.

Fasching Week

During Fasching parades in southern Germany, “Narren,” or Fasching fools, wearing wooden masks carved in the images of witches, devils and grotesque animals can be seen. Be on the lookout for Narren walking up to you to either ruffle your hair or drop you a piece of candy.

Weiberfasching or Women’s Carnival: Main events and parades start on “Schmotziger Donnerstag” (Greasy Thursday) or “Weiberfasching,” women’s carnival. The Swabian word “schmortzig” means lard or grease and refers to the opulent food eaten during Fasching, such as “Fasnetsküchle” or Krapfen (Fasching doughnuts).

In Stuttgart, Bad Cannstatt’s “Kübesmarkt” Fasching association kicks off the events by setting up the “Narrenbaum,” or fool’s pole, at the Marktplatz, followed by a parade throughout the downtown area.

Neuenhausen, just 15 kilometers outside Stuttgart, is another popular destination on Greasy Thursday with the “Hexentanz,” or witch’s dance, at Schlossplatz Square. Neuenhausen’s Fasching fools storm the town hall and force the mayor to hand over the keys of the city. A huge bonfire is lit in celebration.

Small towns throughout Stuttgart will have similar events at the town hall throughout the month. The remainder of the Fasching week is Fasching Saturday and Sunday, Rose Monday and Fat Tuesday.

Fat Tuesday: During the evening of the “Fastnacht,” a witch is buried in a casket and the wild days end at midnight.

The annual Stuttgart Führlingsfest, or spring festival, typically runs from mid April through the second week of May at the Cannstatter Wasen fest grounds in Bad Cannstatt.

The festival offers various rides such as wild water rafting, bumper cars, carousels, haunted houses, a Ferris wheel and roller coaster, as well as pony rides and merry-go-rounds for children.

Spring: April/May

Stuttgarter Frühlingsfest, or spring fest, typically runs from mid April through the second week of May at the Cannstatter Wasen fest grounds in Bad Cannstatt.

The festival is one of the largest spring fests in Europe combining popular amusement park rides for all ages, with beer tents, shopping and local food.

Three beer tents — “Göcklesmaier,” “Grand’l Hofbräu Zelt” and “Zum Wasenwirt” — offer roasted chicken or “Göckle,” freshly brewed fest beer, and live “Volksmusik,” or German folk music, party, country and rock tunes. Each fest tent also has a beer garden where visitors can enjoy food and drinks in the sun. Get table tickets online early to reserve a spot inside the tent, especially in the evenings or weekends.

A reconstruction of a typical Bavarian-Austrian Alp village, the “Alhmüttestor,” is set up in the middle of the Cannstatter Wasen fest grounds with outdoor, open seating too. Here, rustic booths offer “Schweinshaxe” (hambone) or a “Jause,” a snack consisting of bread, cold cuts, radishes and cottage cheese. This type of snack is normally served throughout Bavaria and Austria, while people take breaks during hiking trips.

Special family days are also offered on Wednesdays with discounted prices.

For information and table reservations, visit http://wasen.de.

Summer – July/Aug

Hamburger “Fischmarkt” Fish Market: 10-day fest in mid July in Karlsplatz Square. For information visit www.fischmarkt.events/stuttgart.

Stuttgart’s ‘bean quarter’ Festival: A street festival the last weekend of July located between Charlottenplatz and Leonhardsplatz squares. Most stores are open all evening throughout the three days of the event, plus live music and food offerings. For information visit www.bohnenviertel-stuttgart.de.

Sommerfest: A four-day fest in the beginning of August (starting Thursdays) featuring food, wine and live music performances. The fest spans from Schlossplatz and the Neues Schloss to the State Opera.

Fall: Sept/Oct

“Weindorf” wine fest: 12-day fest of August through first week in September. The fest spans from Marktplatz Square to Kirchstrasse and the Schillerplatz Square. For information visit www.stuttgart-weindorf.de/english.

Stuttgart’s Volksfest, or the people’s festival, is the second largest fest at the Cannstatter Wasen fair grounds in Bad Cannstatt, right along the local transit lines: S-Bahn and U-Bahn in Stuttgart. There are nine large beer tents plus outdoor seating, amusement rides, shopping and food for all ages. It is a larger version of Stuttgarter Frühlingsfest in the spring. Special family days are held on Wednesdays. Tables inside tents sell out quickly, so book in advance. For information and table reservations, visit http://wasen.de.

Munich’s Oktoberfest is the world’s largest festival, two and a half hours by train or by car from Stuttgart featuring 14 large tents and more than 20 smaller ones. The train is the safest and easiest bet to get to the fests. For information on tables and transportation, visit www.oktoberfest.de/en.

The Holiday Season

In Germany, Christmas casts a magical spell on cold and dark winter days. The highlight of winter is going to the many local Christmas markets for a mug of hot Glühwein (mulled wine) or warm punch.

The holiday season in Germany officially begins with Advent.

St. Nikolaus’ Day, Dec. 6 marks the birthday of Nikolaus, Bishop of Myra (known today as Turkey). Children place one of their boots outside their doors on the night of Dec. 5 in hopes that St. Nikolaus will leave candy, gingerbread, toys, tangerines and nuts in their shoe.

Christmas Eve is celebrated with close family. Traditionally, the gift exchange takes place in the afternoon, followed by a festive meal, from goose with red cabbage, dumplings or potatoes, to fish, or, typical for Swabia, Saitenwürstle (sausages) with potato salad.

“Fröhliche Weihnachten” or Merry Christmas! Many people in Germany visit extended family and friends on Dec. 25 and 26, also called the first and second Christmas days. Germans typically take their Christmas trees down by Epiphany on Jan. 6, which is also known as Three Kings Day across Europe. This day is a holiday as well and celebrated with parades and festivities to welcome the kings.

New Year’s in Stuttgart is a busy night but also a time to think about safety. Fireworks are only for sale in Germany right before the new year and people are allowed to light fireworks in the streets. Be mindful of your surroundings on New Year’s Eve.
