c. Encourage moderation and take appropriate actions to correct irresponsible behavior. If a commander chooses to use alcoholic beverages, he/she will set the example for subordinates.

The intent is not to glamorize the use of alcoholic beverages.

g. Battalion commanders may authorize alcoholic beverages in troop billets (except basic and advanced individual training (AIT) billets) for Service members who are 21 years of age and older. Personal responsibility is the key. When any Service member, married or single, abuses the privileges regarding possession or consumption of alcoholic beverages, the Commander, in coordination with trial counsel, may take action to withdraw or suspend such privileges.

An employee may be considered intoxicated by default if he or she has a blood alcohol content (BAC) of .02 or above. To violate this provision, the employee must have known, or should reasonably have known, prior to voluntarily consuming an alcoholic beverage, that he or she had duties to perform that would be fundamentally hampered by their consumption.

Supervisors of civilian employees who suspect their employee of being intoxicated should immediately contact an employee relations specialist in CPAC for advice and assistance when dealing with an employee who is apparently under the influence or intoxicated at work.
